NEBRASKA ON EDGE FOR AMES TILT

Campus Dad's Day Host Saturday

PARENTS GUESTS AT 3 BIG EVENTS

Innocents Sponsor Traditional Celebration; Program Opens With Luncheon at Chamber of Commerce; John Curtiss to Deliver Main Address.

BURNETT, THOMPSON, THROOP, LANDIS SPEAK

Iowa State-Nebraska Football Game Holds Precedence During Afternoon; Fraternities, Sororities Entertain; Coliseum Party at Night.

Dads will reign supreme at Nebraska Saturday when the campus plays host to parents of students in a gala day of festivities planned for the annual Dad's Day celebration.

Opening a busy day for parents is the Dad's Day luncheon which is scheduled to be held at the Chamber of Commerce, 11th and P streets, at 12 o'clock noon.

Other speakers for the luncheon are Chancellor E. A. Burnett and Dean T. J. Thompson who will welcome parents on behalf of the university; Frank D. Throop, Lincoln publisher who will extend a welcome on behalf of Lincoln business men; and Judge H. D. Landis of Seward, who will give the response for the dads.

Speakers on the program will probably make their talks quite brief, Burton Marvin, Innocent in charge of the event, declared, in order that the affair may be over in sufficient time for those attending to see the football game.

Mothers as well as fathers are invited to the Dad's Day luncheon, Marvin explained, adding that many mothers attended the event each year.

Tickets may be obtained at the door. The Iowa State-Nebraska football game holds precedence during the afternoon. Following the game, parents will be guests of their sons and daughters at various special fraternity and sorority functions of the afternoon and evening.

The Dad's Day party in the coliseum holds the spotlight in the evening, the night having been closed to other campus events.

With dress rehearsals set for Sunday, the University Players will open Monday evening in Clare Kummer's "Her Master's Voice," in the Temple theater.

Miss Portia Boynton of Lincoln will make her debut in "Her Master's Voice." She will take the role of Aunt Min. Queena's aunt who married rich old Mr. Stickney and is now his wealthy widow.

BURKE-SIMMONS DEBATE FRIDAY CLIMAXES WEEK

Candidates for Senatorship Meet in Coliseum for 7th in Series.

SPEECHES ON NEW DEAL

Joint Discussion Called Ideal Way to Present Both Sides of Politics.

Political discussion, at white heat on the campus this week, reaches a climax Friday night as Representative Edward R. Burke, democrat, and Robert L. Simmons, republican, candidates for the United States senate, stage another of their series of debates at the university.

The debate, seventh in the series of ten being staged thruout the state by the two candidates, will get underway at 8:30 p. m. Representative Burke will open the program, speaking for 30 minutes.

Then Mr. Simmons will take the floor for 45 minutes after which the first speaker will return for 15 minutes of rebuttal.

Originally balked in an attempt to find a suitable place to stage the debate, the coliseum was finally arranged for the event.

The teachers' convention, who originally had secured the use of the coliseum for Friday night. The teachers have moved their meeting to St. Paul's church, starting at 7:30 p. m.

A capacity crowd is expected to attend the debate, since which, it was pointed out, offers not only students but Lincoln residents an opportunity to hear the candidates discuss various phases of the new deal. Since the teachers will be at their own meeting until shortly before time for the debate to begin, a special section of seats will be reserved for them.

The debate, a method of joint campaigning, is seen by students and instructors of political science not only as an ideal way to present both sides of the political situation to the voters, but as a novel experiment in interesting and educating the public on the various issues at stake.

C. L. Clark, representing the democratic state committee, and H. A. Spencer, representing the republican state committee, will be in charge of the debate.

But three more of the joint discussions will be staged by the two opponents before the election date, No. 6.

Those in the race for the honorary post are: Catherine Agnew, Fullerton; Ardith Von Huse, Hampton; Eleanor Price, Denver, Colo.; Florence Buxman, Lincoln, and Ruth Wolf, Denton.

EDITORS PLAN FOURTH NEWSWRITING CLASS

Corrected Papers of Second Series to Be Returned On Saturday.

Corrected papers from the second series of practice stories written by beginning reporters will be returned at the fourth regular meeting of the Daily Nebraskan newswriting class Saturday morning at 9 o'clock it was announced Thursday.

Managing editors in charge will point out the various mistakes made last week, giving particular attention to the means of developing the trial stories and putting them into better form.

The greater part of the period will be taken up by a discussion on newspaper ethics, style, and policy. "A general review of all previous class work will be made," Jack Fisher stated, "giving special attention to the development of the story and choice of leads which seems to be the chief source of difficulty among the reporters."

Regular beats will be assigned either Saturday afternoon or Monday, according to an announcement made by managing editors. Preference will be given to those students who have regularly attended the class, and who show the greatest interest in their work.

These assignments will be by no means permanent, it was indicated, as those who do not do their work thoroughly will be replaced.

'Alices' in a Land of Signs, Lights and Slogans, We Are Headed for Change In Economic Order Says Stuart Chase

By JOHNSTON SNIPES. "Alices" in a land of glaring signs, bright lights and clever slogans, we have only a short two years before uncontrolled inflation with radical changes in the economic order will upset our present system unless new and revolutionary plans are set in motion soon, Stuart Chase, noted economist and reformer, intimated in his talk before a packed coliseum of Nebraska teachers, university students and faculty members Thursday evening.

Laughing at the idea of fascism in a country as geographically large as the United States, Chase advocated a quasi-dictatorship on the line of the Roosevelt administration to bring about an increase in employment, a control of surpluses and in improvement of the living conditions and educational facilities of the American people.

Stuart Chase, classed among radical economists and reformers, outlined a system of economic governmental planning that closely approximated present political trends but emphasizing that today's actions are but a step in the direction that must be taken if the country is to rise from the depression and establish itself on a firmer footing.

In an interview the speaker voiced his opinion that the elimination of compound interest and a nationalization of the banking system.

DAD'S DAY PARTY AT COLISEUM SATURDAY CLIMAXES WEEK-END

Pat Ash's Orchestra Billed To Play for Varsity Dance, Oct. 27.

Capturing the spotlight of week-end social activities, the Dad's Day party, a closed night affair, will be held in the coliseum Saturday evening in celebration of Dad's Day and the Cyclone-Cornhusker football tilt. Dancing is scheduled to begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Pat Ash and his orchestra, billed as Lincoln's newest band, will furnish the music for the varsity dance, according to Wilbur Erickson, chairman of the Bar Council sponsoring the evening.

Jimmie Miller, marimbaphone artist, formerly with the R. K. O. circuit, will appear on the program in addition to vocal and novelty numbers.

Permanent decorations have been secured for the event, it was learned, and with one of the season's largest crowds expected for the traditional Dad's Day game and ceremonies, members of the council predicted one of the largest varsity party crowds of the season.

"We are urging students to invite their dads and mothers to this party," Erickson stated. "It is held, as other campus events Saturday, in their honor."

STUDENTS STROKE PEP FRES AS CORNHUSKERS PREPARE REPULSE CYCLONE ASSAULT

PARADE STARTS SEVEN

Itinerary Will Follow New Route to Stadium, End Front East Gate.

Stoking the pep fires for Nebraska's first Big Six home game, the student rally committee yesterday issued a challenge to every Husker grid fan when it announced plans for a huge pep demonstration to start tonight at 7 o'clock.

Corn Cobs, Tasseis, the university band and Innocents will lead the parade from the Temple, thru sorority row to the stadium.

Special recognition will be given those Huskers who are wearing the scarlet and cream for the first season, it was learned. The showing they have made in Nebraska's games this year has prompted the committee to plan Friday night's rally especially for them, members of the committee stated.

Assembling in front of the Temple at seven, the rally will follow a new route to the stadium, it was learned. Since a number of the near campus houses have not been passed in recent rallies, the parade tonight will go east to 16th and R streets, then one block south, turn east one block, then north to 17th and back to 16th street and from there the regular itinerary to Memorial stadium.

A platform will be erected at the east entrance to the stadium, where the demonstration will be held. Members of the football squad, Game Captain Glen Justice and Coach Brown and Weib will have been asked to lead the brief pep session.

Every effort is being made to encourage all students to turn out for the demonstration. Co-operation of fraternities and sororities has been promised. The Iowa team has issued a special invitation asking delegates to the State Teachers convention, to attend.

"If attendance at previous rallies this fall, if the fact that tomorrow's game is certain to be a tough battle, as evidenced by last week's upset that it is the first Big Six home game, are indications, we should have the biggest crowd ever assembled for a football rally," Fred Nicklas, chairman of the rally committee, stated yesterday.

Justice Leads Team In Iowa State Battle

Glenn Justice, of Grand Island, senior guard on the Husker team, will assume the duties of game captain when the Huskers and Cyclones tangle in their annual battle on Memorial stadium turf Saturday.

Justice is one of the few letter men on the 1934 Husker team. He has been handicapped in early season games and practices with a bad knee.

He has been forced to view most of the games from the sidelines, but his injured member healed sufficiently to allow him to play at Norman, and his stellar line work brought praise.

BIZAD STUDENTS RECEIVE AWARDS DURING BANQUET

Approximately 100 Attend Annual Dinner at Grand Hotel.

Sixty-nine students were cited for class honors and twenty-four were named as recipients of special awards at the fifth annual Honors banquet of the Business Administration college Thursday night. The event, which was held in the Grand hotel, was attended by approximately 100 students.

Prof. E. S. Fullbrook announced that degrees with distinction would be conferred on deserving members of the graduating class of the college in the future.

Stanley Maly of Lincoln, in delivering the principal address of the evening on "International Aspects of the Depression," declared that the loss of foreign markets was largely responsible for the depression, adding that overproduction did not lead up to the condition as popularly believed, but rather that underconsumption was responsible.

Dean J. E. LeRoessignol introduced Dr. Victor Vraz, new member of the faculty, at the banquet, and also presented the majority of the awards. Hugh Rathburn, president of the executive council, presided over the dinner.

Melvin H. Adams, Lemoyne, was named winner of the Alpha Kappa Psi citizenship prize for the senior ranking highest in professional subjects and student activities.

MU PHI EPSILON GIVES FOUNDERS DAY DINNER

Toasts will be given by Marion Miller and Genevieve Miller. The Mu Phi string trio will play before and during the banquet, the artists being Eunice Bingham, violin, Garnette Mayhew, cello, and Marion Miller, piano.

Iowa's Surprise Win Over Hawkeyes Sends Stock Soaring High.

BIBLE CAMP IS UNEASY

Scarlet Record Shows No Losses to Visitors Past 15 Years.

Uneasiness prevailed in the Husker camp Thursday as Coach Dana X. Bible prepared his cohorts to repulse the rampant Iowa State Cyclones in Memorial stadium Saturday. With Iowa State stock up as a result of its surprise victory over Iowa last Saturday and with Nebraska barely eking out a win over the Sooners, both teams are on edge for the battle and sports scores predict a true grid classic for the Dad's Day and state teacher's convention through which are expected to see the game.

Apprehension concerning the Ames invasion is an unusual situation at Nebraska as the past fifteen years record which shows no victories for the Cyclones, would indicate. Little heralded in pre-season dope, the Veenkerden however, have surprised Big Six and outside teams alike with their prowess and come to Lincoln determined to avenge past defeats.

The opening Big Six game of the home season, Saturday's game may go far in deciding the conference championship. Ames hopes are the highest in several years, and the situation somewhat parallels that of 1932 when the Cyclones came to Lincoln, tied-bound, only to be repulsed 23 to 0 by the powerful Husker eleven.

Nebraska enters the game Saturday with a record of twenty consecutive conference wins, and a four year record of no defeats on away games, which has added incentive to the Huskers.

Iowa State comes to town this year with a flock of sophomores as the sparkling lights, and the Nebraska situation is somewhat the same. The afternoon's program will offer Tommy real, 150 pound Ames back, and Lloyd Cardwell, giant Husker, as speed merchants. Fred Poole, Ames punter, and Sam Francis, Scarlet fullback, in the kicking division; and Harold Miller, (Continued on Page 3.)

3,500 Throng Campus as 14th Annual Convention Opens Oct. 25.

CONCLAVE CLOSES TODAY

Thirty-five hundred teachers thronged the campus Thursday as the fourteenth annual District 1 convention of the State Teachers association entered its second day. The university was the center of all meetings with general sessions being held in the coliseum and divisional and sectional meetings in other buildings of the campus.

Officials said they believed the convention would exceed all previous district attendance marks here. The conclave is scheduled to close Friday evening.

Friday's program opens with an address by Dr. L. V. Kooz, of the University of Chicago. He will be followed on the program by Supt. W. A. Sutton of the Atlanta, Ga., schools; and Dean F. E. Henslik of the university teachers college.

A complimentary program arranged by the Lincoln chamber of commerce is scheduled for Friday evening. Music will be furnished by the Lincoln high school orchestra.

The closing address will be delivered by Dr. Arthur Walwyn Evans, Welsh lecturer and humorist. Visiting teachers were extended a welcome Thursday morning by Chancellor E. A. Burnett. Addresses by Dean Theodore W. Irton, University of Missouri; Miss Berntha R. Palmer, Evanston, Ill.; and Dr. Walter D. Cocking, Tennessee commissioner of education, followed.
