Daily Nebraskan

OFFICIAL STUDENT PUBLICATION UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA represented for general advertising by the Nebraska Press Association.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice in Lingoin, Nebraska, under act of congress, March 3, 1879, and at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 20, 1922.

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR. Published Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friozy and Sunday mornings during the academic year.

SUBSCRIPTION RATE. $1.50 a year. Single copy 5 cents. $1.00 a semester.
$2.50 a year mailed. $1.50 a semester mailed.
Under direction of the Student Publication Board.
Editorial Office—University Hall 4.
Business Office—University Hall 4-A.
Telephones—Day: B6891; Night: B6882, B3333 (Journal). Ask for Nebraskan editor.

Play-Day Is Here!

In Wednesday's Daily Nebraskan will appear headlines featuring the names of newly-elected class presidents. For a few days they will bask in the glorious sun of publicity, and then will be forgotten until their trivial duties are over-emphasized in print to make readers believe the offices really serve a purpose.

On the morning of November 24 one of the six girls battling it out at the polls for the honor of being Nebraska Sweetheart will be presented as such. For a few weeks all freshmen and sophomore males will gape at her, and then she too will be forgotten for a while, probably a long while,

When junior and senior military science students, taking drill for the money, strut out on the coliseum floor for the grand march on the night of the Military Ball, December 7, sedate girls in formals will be tittering, jabbering, and jumping up and down like two-year-old brats awaiting the approach of the much-heralded and nervous Honorary Colonel. No one knows how she will be presented, but the Nebraskan editor suggests that she be blown out of the mouth of a cannon for the sake of realistic symbolism.

All the words above take one to the fact that there is another fall election this day, Tuesday, in the Temple building. It will be accompanied by the presence of the tottery booths at the head of the stairs, would-be big shots looking important and hanging about the doors and landings. Outside, little Oscar, you will meet a bevy of giggly pledges and what-nots asking you to vote for Tillie Flatmug for Honorary Colonel or Nebraska Sweetheart. Don't pay any attention to them; put your mind into the election and go to class,

Don't get the idea that we don't thing these elections are a lot of fun and really serve a purpose. They do liven up campus life to a new level for a few days, and furnish an outside stimulation so necessary in the lives of many students unable to stick exclusively to academic routine. Many of us would go crazy if it wern't for some sort of nervous outlet, even the we do unimportant things in gaining relief. The average student on the campus seems to be quite oblivious and unaware of any activity unusual in its form going on during campus election day. If they are of the type that can get along without some sort of artificial stimulation during college days they are more to be praised than pitted and by this disturbing era? condemned.

. . . . One of the things to be regretted concerning the fall elections is tha tibe class offices, particularly, amount to so little as administrative positions, Again we state that the Student Council should give back to the Junior class president the right to head the Junior-Senior prom committee, and under no circumstances, especially political, should that function be taken away from him. Senior class organization, we repeat, is quite necessary to the university, and would ultimately result in a much more compact and sincere Alumni organization working for the best interests of the university.

Then too, why must faction representatives sit up until the wee small hours of the morning fighting about who they think should be Innocents next year. In working out their complex machines these politicians make grown-up ward-heelers look shamefully muddle-headed and weak. Our hats are off to you, campus porty high moguls, and we hope to Heaven that you can get some sleep after the

In conclusion, we should like to say that campus elections are no more foolish than some of the things done by our elders. It is difficult to tell whether they should be condemned because they are farces, or should be highly-commended for that very same reason. All in all, they are quite some fun if not taken too seriously, furnish an emotional and nervous outlet, give the Nebraskan some copy. Some go into hysterics condemning elections. The only thing we deplore about the whole thing is that the class officers could be so useful, but are wasted.

The political machine has rumbled into place, the ballots are printed. Let's don't pay any attention to the platforms, which mean nothing, enter into the game, and play house with the rest of the boys.

Stick to the Guns, Nebraska Fans!

of its defense.

As soon as Saturday's game was well under way virtually all of the 35,000 fans in Memorial Stadium realized that Coach Bible's green Nebraska football team was due to receive a severe trouncing at the hands of Pitt's Panthers. With the realization in mind the fans settled back to enjoy the play of a supreme football team, coached to perfection and supremacy by Jock Sutherland, Panther mentor. The 25 to 6 score wasn't as bad as the count could have been, considering the terrific power and deceptiveness of the Pitt attack, and the ferocity

Nebraska was defeated, but it still has a fine football team, one capable of taking the Big Six championship if the student body chooses to stick behind it. A few followers on the campus, however, have waxed critical of Coach Bible and the players. They are the after-game quarterbacks.

Our Husker mentor has proven time and again that he is one of the most capable coaches in the country. One needs to go back only a year to the great 1983 machine to find an example substantisting that fact.

A sophomore team has a great future, and this year's Husker team is just that, comprised for the most part of green men. Mistakes were undoubtedly made Saturday by the team, but it is to be noted that after-game quarterbacks took a little time to picking out those errors. Men on the field don't get that time for correction.

There are three more games on the schedule, all with Big Six teams-Kansas, Missouri, and Kansas State. The Huskers should win all of them, and the student body must back them with that idea in mind. After all, the two teams that have won over Nebraska are the nation's two best.

STUDENT PULSE

Brief, concise contributions pertinent to matters of student life and the university are welcomed by this department, under the usual restrictions of sound newspaper practice, which excludes all libelous matter and personal attacks. Letters must be signed, but names will be withheld from publication if so desired. Contributions should be limited to a maximum of five hundred words in length.

Blacklist or Bargaining? TO THE EDITOR:

With the placing of one of the prominent downtown fraternities on the "blacklist," the Lincoln Musicians' Union has again shown the University of Nebraska social organizations that the Union is not to be trifled with, in the hiring of orchestras for dances, house parties and other college affairs. A group is placed on the blacklist for using a nonunion band, this action prohibiting them from engaging union players until a specifed fine is paid. Consequently a union orchestra would draw a heavy penalty for playing for any group on the blacklist.

Does the fact that a fraternity or sorority is engaging a non-union orchestra merit such penalty? Altho unfairness may be evidenced in the view of the union is not its subsequent action an injustice to the right of an organization to use its own dis-

A union of workers is interested in its own attainments and progress. There is a prejudice shown in so far as they block out others from possible work, thus supporting and working the closed-shop theory. To force unionism in such a measure upon university circles is unjustifiable to an institution that adheres to a policy of freedom of action.

It is interesting to note that the fees of a union band are greatly in advance of those of a non-union orchestra. Altho it may evidence the desirability of belonging to a union in order to obtain a higher wage scale, there are non-union players who are better musicians than some belonging to the union.

We should not, however, judge the Musicians' Guild too harshly. It is attempting to protect its members and mould them into a compact unit. But the blacklist has the purpose and effect of gaining thru force what cannot be gained thru services ren-

An organization of Greek and Barb societies to combat the blacklist theory could result in a sense of collective bargaining and do away with any hard feelings and misgivings.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT

Armistice Day

The lost generation of today, the boys and girls who are maturing in this era of depression, are asking the generation that fought in the World war which began tenty years ago, when this generation was yet unborn, "Why?" The keynote of Armistice, 1934, is "Why?" Why are things as they are? Why did we fight the war that has been followed

The men who fought in the World war, fondly referred to at the time as the lost generation, were confident in the belief that they were fighting a war to end war, a war to make the world safe for democracy. Those who came home believed that they had participated in a struggle from which events would be dated for years to come.

They expected that their children would be asking, in this year, 1934, "What did you do in the great war?" But strangely enough the war memory has faded with startling rapidity. In a remarkably short time it has lost much of its significance. Even now the Revolutionary and Civil wars seem to hold more meaning for the United States.

Children born in that era of turmoil are not asking what happened in the World war. They are more interested in the "why" of the war and subsequent events. The economic situation in which the nation now finds itself has had far reaching effects. It is felt in every home, in every family. The youth of today is faced with the prospect of shouldering a staggering burden. The boys and girls who are turning into men and women, finding the door of opportunity closed, a veil drawn over the future, and the country in the throes of economic readjustment, wonder why they must begin life under such handi-

The tasks of today transcend the memory of a decade and a half, or more, ago. The gigantic economic struggle of today crowds out thought of that great struggle at arms of twenty years ago. The meaning of that struggle remains, however, if we will but probe for it. Today's events should make us even more anxious to determine causes-and if possible, a cure.

-Sunday Journal and Star.

Dead, Dormant,

Or Unborn?

Liberalism, though it yet speaketh, is dead." A negative debating team from Oxford and Cambridge did its best to disprove that resolution last Monday night, but its best was not enough to keep an affirmative McGill University squad from gaining the decision.

Liberalism is dead and buried in both the economic and political(national and international fields, McGill men declared. Amid a general complex of fear, political bureaucracy at home and economic nationalism are gripping the world.

Even in our own country and in the college field, liberals-those few who yet speak-look upon such events as the ousting of five U. C. L. A. students for communistic leanings "and attempting to destroy the university" and find it not good.

Better teams than Oxford-Cambridge would have a pretty hard time proving that liberalism has life today. The average man is more interested in economic security, and the state is seeking preparedness as a buffer against war. On many sides democratic institutions have given way to dictator-

Some might be inclined to think, however, that liberalism is more a thing of the future than of the past-that it has never really lived except in isolat-

When the present is gloomy the past always looks a lot rosier. If you can believe that no crisis Virginia Polytechnic institute, has ever been as stark as the existing one, you may bask in the holy martyrdom of being able to take it like no one else ever could.

So it is that when gazing into the past we are apt to become a bit short-sighted and take liberalism speaking for liberalism actually living. Liberalism has spoken in almost all ages, but, practically, it has seldom found its way into being. In America today frequent speeches by "100 per cent Americans" are sufficient to keep a lot of persons under the illusion that they are living in a free country.

All this is based on the definition of liberalism which the debaters apparently agreed upon: that it involves freedom from bureaucratic control; or spir-

'PAGING THE

SMART COED'

The maddest and merriest madoff-the-face Bengaline models.

a hat with this type of coiffure,

a very good-looking outfit.

dresses do this fall.

neckline and a gold sequin belt.

suede oxfords and a black silk hat.

Cathleen Long has been seen wearing a very different sport outfit of black wool. The front of the jacket is made of unborn lamb and in place of a collar she wears a black and gold taffeta bow. With this outfit she sports black suede

Although the whole Nebraska

probably wear their most exciting frocks and maybe they can attract the attention of some of the Kan-

Fashionably yours.

MIGRATION FOR

(Continued from Page 1.)

leck, Husker business manager of pep organizations as well as students who do not drive to the game, will leave Lincoln at 7 a. m.

Lawrence at noon, giving the stu-

minupte rally before the opening kickoff. Returning, the train is scheduled to leave Lawrence at midnight, and will arrive in Lin-coin between 5 and 6 a. m. Sunday morning. Round trip fare will be

$4, according to Union PJacific

officials, who are running the spe-

that the teams were meeting once again was enough to drum up considerable enthusiasm among Nebraska students, but recent developments, pointing to a first-class struggle, apparently have served to raise that interest to an even

The Jayhawks have recently battled both Oklahoma and Iowa

State to tie decisions in conference games, serving notice that they will be plenty tough. The Huskers nipped the Sooners by a squeezed out an even narrower 7-6

decision over the Iowa State grid

CONTRBUTE CHAPTER

General Psychology Source

Book to Come Out

In Spring.

Dr. J. P. Guildford, professor of sychology in the university has been asked to contribute a chapter on "Feeling and Emotion" to a forthcoming new source book on general psychology which is to be published by the Farrar and Rhine-

The book, which is to be a collaboration of the works of many well known authors, is intended to be a supplementary source book to be used along with regular text

The editor who is directing the ompilation of the volume is Professor Skinner of New York university. The book is expected to appear in its final form some-

Approximately 1,175 of the 2,200

Intramural checker and ping ong contests are being held at the students enrolled at West Virginia university are eligible voters, a recent survey disclosed. About 875 of them willi cast their hart Publishing Co.

time next spring.

votes for the first time.

books.

GUILFORD ASKED TO

margin, and then higher point.

forces.

Traditional rivals, the mere fact

Saturday morning, and arrive in tickets sell for $2.20 each.

POLLIE.

LAWRENCE GAME

black and white feather.

STUDENTS PLAN

sas he-men.

Carnenne Felter, who is now

Street and ankle length dresse itual freedom, free individualism and the unfettered right of self-expression for all mankind. Did liberalism in that sense have its inception with the Reformation and the Renaissance and flourish for four centuries under the impetus of the bourgeoisie? McGill debators believed that it did. Did such liberalism exist even in the halcyon days of ancient

Perhaps the debaters should have quit wrangling over the question as to whether liberalism was dead or dormant and drawn up a resolution something like this: "Liberalism, though it speaketh, is not yet born."

-The Michigan Daily.

Voting Interest

As previously announced, Madam

The list of candidates for Nebraska university's most stylish women together with their votes recorded in thousands are: Jean

Tucker, 182; Margaret Chase, 150;

Mary Yoder, 112; Mary Garlock,

81; Helen E. Lawrence, 73; Sancha

Kilborn, 66; Murial Hook, 49;

Francis Ireland, 38; Virginia Sel-

Scandinavian Club Offers

Three Prizes for Essays

Prizes of $50, $35, and $25 will be awarded by the American

Scandinavian Foundation for the best essays written by undergraduate students on Scandinavian culture. These are a part of the memorial awards recently established

Further information about the cap of the season is the new Cos-Fate is most unfair. Some of us must spend tortured nights sack, or Russian Toque, which is being shown at the most fashionable of shops. Lois Rathburn re- favored with "Your Lesson While You Sleep." There are probcently purchased one of these new hats, a very tricky affair in black favored, for, according to Dr. Louise Pound, "Dreaming in with a bright blue perky feather. word form is rarer among the un-o Other hats being shown are these

In view of the fact that the verbal side of dreaming has not reof all descriptions were seen last week-end at the2 various fall ceived the attention that has been parties on the campus. Although it thrust upon dream happenings, scenes, and pageantry, Dr. Louise Pound of the English department s not proper to be seen in street attire without hat and gloves many of the university has made a study of the fair coeds disobeyed conof dream linguistics. Her paper, vention and arrived at the parties without either. This is probably due to the fact that these cute little "On the Linguistics of Dreams," was published in the October number of "American Speech." It curls acros sthe forehead seem to have taken the campus by storm and it is almost impossible to wear the verbal phases of dream experience, which she collected, as opportunity arose, from different wearing her hair short with rolls sources over a period of several and rolls of curls in the back and Miss Pound says that such mathis little friz of hair on her forehead, was seen Friday night wearterial is not easily available, for ing a very striking dress of black it is difficult for the normal pervelvet with a white velvet tunic. son to recapture words, phrases, or Little tails of ermine are worn on sentences which they experience in the left shoulder, thus completing drowsiness, "Dream language slips away as rapidly as dream pagean-Sancha Kilburn appeared at one try, and it is not often that one of the parties in a black silk crepe dreams in intelligible language dress with a bright red tunic but-tening up the back also of the same material. The dress reveals a Poetry has often been known to split skirt as most of the new to Dr. Pound. Milton and Coler-If Sancha idge are both said to have comwishes to remove her tunic an enposed passages in sleep, and to tirely new outfit of plain black silk crepe is revealed, the only touch of write them down on awakening. color being gold sequils around the Less familiar examples of dream Something else new just this season is the pbutcher-boy dress which is worn very well by Virginia Selleck. The interesting Pound's article is reported to have thing about this new creation is been dreamed in Philadelphia in that it is belted in the front, thus 1893 by a man who had seen a leaving the jacket quite loose in prizefight the day before. The the back. "Gin's" dress is of black crepe and with it she wears black

'At first they fought with tooth and tongue, But when it came to blows, by the Foundation honoring Jules Blew off the other's nose." Mauritzson, professor of Swedish There is a certain amount of wit found in some of the examples of at Augustana College, Rock Isdream writing embodied in Miss land, Ill. oxfords and a black felt hat with a Pound's paper. One illustration of dialogue writing is: "In my dream Wahlgren, Andrews 207. my older sister reproved me for campus is taking the trip to Kansome request. 'Don't be a pert litsas this week-end the girls will tle monkey,' she said. I respon niversity of Georgia to obtain a 'I was not pertly monkeying, free transportation service for cowas politely requesting'." eds following an edict by authori-

Several examples are found in ties which prohibits them from the material collected on the titles hitch-hiking after 6 p. m. of novels composed in sleep. Having composed a novel in his sleep, the dreamer can remember only the title upon awaking. "The Philandering Hick," and "Wastebaskets of the Mighty," are examples

So far, dream utterances have athletics, announced that 500 tick- only a curious human interest. But ets had been secured for the game, Miss Pound says, in concluding her in a special Nebraska section, and article, that, "Perhaps when such that more could be obtained later material has been brought together in the week if necessary. The over long periods of time, and from many sources, it may be found to The special train, which will have not only unmistakable hucarry the hand, frosh gridders and man interest but a scientific value that is not now apparent."

of students in politics will be held in St. Louis, Mo., from Dec. 27 dents plenty of time for a last- to 29.

CLEANING

There is just as much difference in cleaning services as there is in materials you

Men's Sults Cleaned and

'Word Dreaming' Subject of Article By Dr. Louise Pound; Poetry Often Results From Experiences in Sleep it is by now well known. Lately, in preparation of tomorrow's theme, while others are apparently ably only a few students, however, who are included among the lettered."

In Gage Contest Soaring Rapidly contest is increasing since nominaconsists of illustrative material on the five most stylish girls at the building of sets, are Leonard Focht university.

in the office of the student newspaper in the basement of University hall. stylist, will personally design a be composed in dreams, according have retained them well enough to leck, 29; Jean Arnold, 10; Jane Cleary, 7; Marilyn Spohn, 7 and verse often consist of quatrains composed by someone who has written but little poetry. One of the illustrations included in Miss Mariilyn Miller, 3.

The man who had the stronger lung

of these names without a story.

The second national conference

BUY QUALITY

choose to wear.

Modern Cleaners Soukup & Westover

The above jingle is the well known rhyme from which has been taken the title of such plays as 'Wednesday's Child" and "Saturday's Child." As the latter drama was recently produced in the films, the former play has enjoyed a successful run on Broadway. It is this play that the University Players are bringing to this campus in the near future. Wednesday's Child" is a tragedy in three acts, with nine scenes and a cast of nineteen. It will undoubtedly be one of the major productions pre-sented here this reason.

"Wednesday's Child" will be a

CHANTS

BY CHANCE.

Wednesday's child is full of woe,

Saturday's child works hard for its

But the child that is born on the

Is bonnie and blythe and good and

Sabbath day,

Thursday's child has far to go, Friday's child is loving and giving,

"Monday's child is fair of face,

Tuesday's child is full of grace, heavy show for props as there are nine set-ups of scenery and the stage will be loaded with furniture in all the scenes. The scenes range Voting interest in the Gage style from a back yard set to a court room scene, two living room sets, tions were closed and the number a sun porch and a board walk of contestants limited to thirteen, along a water front. Students Jean Tucker leads the list of en- who are assisting Don Friedly, the tries in the contest to determine stage designer and technician in and Mrs. H. W. Leason on day Every girl who has been nominated will have an equal chance all students, professors and set with the exception of two, will set with the exception of two, will others receiving the Daily Nebras- be hung from above and dropped kan have the right to vote. The in. It takes three men to lift one ballot box for the contest is located set wall up above the curtain. The students who will be working this "pin rail" during the show are 'Beno" Brummer and Bruce Alexander. Doug Harper will serve as Schrader, internationally known stage electrician, and both Ray Squires and Era Lown who will Gage hat for each of the winners. both be in the show, will serve as stage hands also. Don Buell is in charge of properties and he will be assisted by Veronica Villnave and Portia Boynton.

The first weekly student recital of the year was held at 4 p. m. Thursday in the Temple Theatre. The following students appeared: Robert Burdick, who is a pupil of Mrs. Rose; Jean Thompson, who studies with Mr. Kirkpatrick; John Erickson and Robert Schmidt, students of Mr. Herbert Schmidt. Parvin Witte gave a program for assembly hour at Jackson High School at 11 a. m. Friday. Ethel Owen played at Dean Amanda Heppner's reception which was held in honor of Mrs. Albert Halley Thursday afternoon and also for the tea at which Dean Heppner entertained the women faculty members and faculty wives Friday afternoon. At 2:30 p. m. today, the school of music quartet will present a radio program over station KFAB. . The personnel of the contest can be obtained from Erik string quartet is Emanuel Wishnow, first violin; Derothy Holcomb, second violin; J. Lee Hem-A move has been started at the ingway, viola and Bettic Zabriskie,

> A cribbage intramural fraternity contest has been started at the University of New Hampshire.

See W.C. Firmos in "Ir's a Cirr", ... a Paramount Picture