

TIGER SQUAD READY FOR FINAL ASSAULT ON BIBLE'S HUSKERS

Scarlet Highly Favored to Take Unfortunate Missourians.

BY EDMUND STEEVES.
Jackson High.

All week the much-reprimanded Carideo has been pacing his listless and battle-scarred Tigers thru drills in preparation for a task, the accomplishment of which seems as hopeless as prohibition in the Blue Ridge mountains, to take Nebraska! Simultaneously Coach Bible has been endeavoring to dampen the flaming over confidence present in the crest-riding Huskers' camp preceding their engagement with Missouri Saturday in Memorial stadium.

The gravy-stained vest of the Bengal schedule practically assures Nebraska of their nineteenth consecutive Big Six victory, altho the famished Tiger is out to win and will not lose even if defeated. He is bolstered by two factors, first, the return of Angello Carideo, the mentor's brother, to his varsity signal parking post, and second, the mere thought of a topped dope pill today, however, these are counteracted greatly by lack of beef in the forward wall, and by the chronic coaching squabble in the portals of Mizzou.

Cardwell is Out.

Coach Bible will present his strongest forces at the starting whistle with the exception of Lloyd Cardwell, fleet-footed sophomore back who is gaining rapidly on Huey Long's grid fame, but hopes to insert his shock troops early in the fray. The Seward ball lugger will repose upon the bench due to an ankle resembling his knee, somewhat in favor of Bud Parsons who added many a needed yard in the aquatic battle with Kansas last week.

Virgil Yelkin, the lad who lifted a rapidly fading game out of the mire at Lawrence with his twenty-eight yard bulls eye from placement will undoubtedly spend the major portion of the minutes on the gridiron, as a reward.

Thompson Game Captain.

Russ Thompson, senior, will act as game captain and anchor down the right tackle position with 233 pounds. Harold Holmbeck will don the sweat clothes as a result.

Scoring will rest on the shoulders of Bauer at quarter, Benson and Parsons at halves, and Skewes in the full back berth, for Nebraska; opposed by the following quartet representing the Mizzou state, Carideo calling plays, Angello and Post in the role of halves, and Houston at full. Carideo and Angello, especially, are expected to lead the attack, if any.

At the halftime intermission the traditional Nebraska-Missouri bell will be presented by Mizzou to the Cornhuskers as a result of the Husker's conquest last year. The Innocents as Nebraska's delegates will accept the trophy.

Even tho a victory by the invaders seems as unheard of as an armless hitchhiker a few loyal Bengal rooters are still placing greenbacks on their home eleven, thus proving the fire in Missouri's intentions. Should they turn the trick the sports world would take a severe jolt and the Husker's usual scarlet would turn to a grayish pink.

Carrying the Nebraska colors into the annual Big Six fray with Missouri this afternoon will be the eleven men shown above. While Coach Bible has prepared a whole second string lineup to put into the fray he is taking no chances with the down trodden Tigers and is starting his first string. Cardwell, conspicuous for his absence from the starters, is still a bit hampered by the twisted ankle he picked up in the Kansas game.

Nebraska's Head Coach

Dana Bible who came up to Nebraska from Texas A & M in 1929 has turned out Big Six championship teams every year except in the season of 1930 and seems to be headed toward another success this year. His teams have gained fame all over the country as fast and versatile elevens. He is now president of the National Coaches' association.

TOUGH GAMES ON BIG SIX GRID CARD TODAY

Cyclones Tackle Wildcats in Loop Tilt; Jays Meet Michigan State.

While Nebraska swings into action today against the Missouri Tigers in a tussle the Huskers are topheavy favorites to win, other Big Six schools will be meeting sterner opposition.

The Kansas State-Iowa State battle at Manhattan is in the spotlight as the Wildcats, unbeaten in the conference, tackle the up and coming Cyclones who have stormed their way thru to the Iowa championship. The Wildcats, bent on carrying the title battle to Lincoln for the Thanksgiving fray against Nebraska, have the advantage of playing on their home field and will present a team that by some is given a slight edge.

The Cyclones, however, have recovered from a slump which followed a powerful start, and will show the Kaggies a busy time this afternoon.

Kansas will entertain Charley Bachman and his Michigan State eleven at Lawrence today in the only intersectional fray of the conference program. Bachman, who formerly coached at Kansas State, has accomplished miracles with the Spartan eleven at East Lansing, raising it to the highest grid position of its history. Beaten but once, and then by Syracuse, Michigan State apparently holds the edge over the Jayhawks, but every indication it that it will be a close decision.

Oklahoma, recovering from an 8 to 7 loss to Kansas State which the Sooners declare was due to an official's mistake in scoring a safety against them, will face their old rivals, the Oklahoma Aggies, and should win by a comfortable margin.

FIRST NEBRASKA TOUCHDOWN WILL RELEASE BALLOONS

On the event of Nebraska's first touchdown at the Missouri grid classic next Saturday, thousands of red and white balloons will be sent soaring into the air to be carried far from the field. At least, this is the expectation of members of Tassels organization which are sponsoring the spectacle.

Members of the girls' pep organization will sell the balloons to spectators before and during the game. "We're expecting a touchdown to be made by Nebraska during the first few minutes of play," declared Louise Hossack, president of the organization, "and so we want as many people as possible to purchase their balloons early."

Adding to the glory and general hilarity of the first touchdown by the release of colored balloons is an old tradition on the campus. Approximately 2,000 balloons were sold last year, and this year it is expected that sales will exceed those of former years.

Eleanor Neale is chairman of the committee in charge of the sale with the following other members: Irma Bauer, Margaret Phillips and Theodora Lohmann.

Tassels members are to meet at 12:45 Saturday afternoon at Chemistry hall to make preparations for selling the balloons. Any Tassel who can help between 10 and 12 o'clock Saturday morning is asked to report at Chemistry Hall.

Husker Line Coach

Coach Henry Schulte, who has gained world-wide fame as a track coach, is the man responsible for Nebraska's strong lines during the past few seasons, and is at present developing what will soon be a fine forward wall out of green material. Last season his line allowed other teams to score only 19 points all season.

Approximately one-third of the 1,487 students enrolled at Wellesley College (Mass.) are seeking ways to earn a part of their college expenses.

NEBRASKA B ROUTS KEARNEY TEACHERS

Huskers Display Overhead Attack to Win by 31-0 Count.

Displaying an unbeatable passing attack Nebraska B routed the Kearney Normal eleven 31 to 0 on the Kearney field Friday afternoon.

The Nubbins rained 22 passes on the heads of the bewildered Antelopes, completing 9 for a total gain of 143 yards. Kearney also took to the air, but met with little success. Out of the 20 attempts, eight were completed. Kearney receivers, however, gained but 22 yards for their efforts.

The Scarlet was not long in making its plays effective. Late in the first quarter, Wulson broke into the open to snag Durfee's pass and was downed on the Kearney 3 yard line. Failing to score on three plays, Durfee skirted right end for the pay off.

Another pass, Willey to Flasnack, put the B team in a scoring position again. Willey seized the opportunity and crashed through tackle for the touchdown. A recovered fumble helped the Huskers score again, but it took a pass from Durfee to Flasnack to make the counter. Wilson, Nubbin end, fell on a blocked punt for the fourth tally. Beaver scored from the Kearney 5 yard line to account for the last score.

Kearney threatened once, but the play was called back on the ruling that the Antelopes had twelve men on the field.

Wilson and Durfee starred for the Nebraska squad. Price and Lewis were outstanding for the losers.
