

They've Got 'College Rhythm'

This is the second picture in the Joe Penner College Color guessing contest. Yesterday's Nebraskan carried a cut of Joe Penner with a Nebraska pennant and one of the College Rhythm Co-Eds with a Notre Dame pennant. Today you see Jack Oakie, Joe Penner and a group of chorus cuties from the cast of "College Rhythm" with two more banners.

Twenty tickets to the Stuart theater to see "College Rhythm" will be given to the first twenty N. U. students who bring to the Daily Nebraskan office the correct colors for these college pennants and the ones printed in tomorrow's Nebraskan. Watch for it tomorrow—and rush your color list to our office. "College Rhythm" starts Thursday at the Stuart theater.

Fire Hazard Serious.

"The fire hazard of the library is serious," states this report, which also points out that some of the largest and most valuable collections are housed in structures that are among the most perishable on the campus. The main library building is included in this group.

the present housing of the library is the lack of proper reading room facilities," reads the report. "There is nothing about the room which encourages the student to come to it; hence only those whose work actually forces them to do so, really use it."

"A building of simple design, but with the best facilities for the expeditious handling of books, with inviting reading rooms, special seminar and research rooms, private cubicles which can be assigned to the exclusive use—even for a limited time—of members of the faculty or graduate students,"

is the vision of the library committee.

Library Now Inadequate.

In the opinion of the faculty who replied to a questionnaire, reported by the library committee, representatives of but three departments were of the unanimous opinion that the library facilities were adequate for their undergraduate needs, representatives of 26 departments were agreed unanimously that facilities are inadequate, but nine other departments were not agreed.

Development of the university library so that it will serve as the library of the entire state is suggested in the report. "An extension by the university library of service of this nature to the entire state constitutes one of the greatest opportunities which has ever come to the university," reads the report.

The report points out that during the past two years there have been various changes in the state libraries in Nebraska. It points out that the legislative reference bureau library of some 30,000 volumes and pamphlets has been under the university regents for some time. The public library commission with 40,000 volumes was put under the supervision of the university librarian by the 1933 legislature and about a year ago the Historical society library of 60,000 volumes including pamphlets was "loaned" to the university. This leaves, according to the report, only the state library of some 96,000 volumes which is strictly a legal collection housed in the capitol and which may well continue as a distinct collection.

Function For State.

"There appears to be no good reason why the library of the university should not function as the library of the entire state, why it should not commence steadily to extend the facilities it offers until they stretch over the entire state, why it should not be common knowledge that the resources of the university library are at the call of every citizen of Nebraska," argues the report.

Nebraska is not furnishing library service to her students equivalent to that obtainable in many other schools declares the report which quotes 1933-34 library figures from the librarian at Princeton university. These figures show that out of a group of forty schools surveyed Nebraska is outranked by ten schools only with greater number of students, but from the standpoint of library facilities, Nebraska is outranked by twenty-four other schools with a larger number of volumes in the library, by twenty-six other schools with greater expenditures on books added to the library, and by thirty-two other schools with greater expenditures on staff salaries.

"It will be observed that," reads the report, "while Nebraska, spends on library service $13.24 per student, Missouri spends $14.19 per student, Kansas spends $16.37 per student, Minnesota spends $21.89 per student, and Iowa spends $25.04 per student."

The personnel of the committee, in addition to Chairman Oldfather, is Dr. S. M. Corey, Prof. W. L. DeBaufre, Dr. G. L. Peltier, and Dean F. W. Upson.

BROWNMEN GET LONG SESSION IN TEAM PLAY DRILL

Monday Scrimmage Reveals Weakness in Defense But Squad Improves.

Expressing satisfaction with the offensive drive his team showed in Monday night's scrimmage session with the freshmen, but hoping to improve a defense that at times proved all too lax, Coach Browne gave his Nebraska basketball team a long afternoon on team play Tuesday.

Less than two weeks remain before the Husker quintet answers the opening whistle of the 1934-1935 basketball campaign against Wyoming university at Laramie.

The freshmen served as defenders of the varsity target and later took their chance at placing the ball through the hoop, but strong white-shirted defense work kept the basket clear. Offensively, the varsity cracked through the frosh defense for points with some degree of consistency, and at one time staged an impromptu rally that had the lads in green buffaloes. They tightened up, however, and the white had to fight for baskets which came thereafter infrequently and grudgingly.

Improvement in individual ball handling and general team play was in evidence as the men went at their work with a will to develop winning technique.

Some indication of from whom the varsity will be chosen and who the starting lineup may be was given as the teams began their second week of workouts with few changes in the first ten men. The Reds and Whites both compose new men and veterans in Coach Browne's effort to secure the best possible bunch of scorers and defenders. Nothing has been definitely decided, however, and choices of a first string will not be made until just before the opening encounter with Wyoming.

The White lineup received most of the attention Tuesday, and was made up of Harry Sorenson, Hardy, center; Leland Hale, Lincoln, and Merrill Morris, Lincoln, forwards; and George Wahlgvist, Hastings, and Bud Parsons, Lincoln, guards. Morris was injured early in the scrimmage, suffering a sprained thumb, and he was replaced. The second varsity, or Red lineup, had Jack O'Sullivan, Columbus, center; Howard Baker, Grand Island, and Don Durfee, Pierce, forwards; Harvey Widman, Mead, and Bob Leacox, Shenandoah, Ia., guards.

An effort to locate new food sources is being made by Yale university (New Haven, Conn.) scientists.

More than 3,500 intercollegiate football games are played at colleges and universities in the United States each year.
