Daily Nebraskan

OFFICIAL STUDENT PUBLICATION UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA represented for general advertising by the Nebraska Press Association.

This paper is represented for general advertising by the Nebraska Press Association Associated Collegiate Press

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice in Lincoln, Nebraska, under act of congress, March 3, 1879, and -: special rate of postage provided for in section 110%, act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 20, 1922.

THIRTY-THIRD YEAR. Published Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and day mornings during the academic year. SUBSCRIPTION RATE.

$1.50 a year. Single copy 5 cents. $1.00 a semester.

$2.50 a year mailed. $1.50 a semester mailed.

Under direction of the Student Publication Beard.

Editorial Office—University Hall 4.

Business Office—University Hall 4.A.

Telephones—Day: B6891: Nights B6882. B3333 (Journal). Ask for Nebraskan editor.

EDITORIAL STAFF Editor-In-Chief Burton Marvin ... MANAGING EDITORS Lamoine Bible NEWS EDITORS Jack Fischer

Virginia Sellack Fred Nickias Irwin Ryan

BUSINESS STAFF Business Manage Richard Schmidt ASSISTANT BUSINESS MANAGERS Truman Oberndorff Bob Shellenberg Robert Funk

Gullibility and Commercialism.

It seems that there is a group of hare-brained wild men on the rampage in the United States. We venture to say that such addle-pated action that has been taken in the past few months on the part of so-called national leaders has not been perpetrated for years. Educational institutions are being forced to suffer considerably, and administrative officers of such institutions have been performing equally foolish stunts in an attempt to avoid discomfort.

Five student editors have been put out of office by university authorities this year. They were fired because of their anti-war editorials, editorials denouncing despotism and dictation of men in power, and for mere conjecture about what will become of a world as chaotic as our modern sphere. Isn't it rather paradoxical that several universities in this "land of the free, and home of the brave" have expelled students for thinking, when schools exist for the express purpose of teaching students to think independently?

Suppressive action on the part of the university authorities is doing more harm to the American university today than could possibly result from combined action of minority radical groups. If administrators would reflect for a while on the university and its aims, they and their institutions would be better off than at present.

. . .

William Randolph Hearst has been increasing his circulation and reputation of late by launching an anti-Communist drive thru his various and blaring editorial pages. What his aims are is a matms however, that his claims don't hold much water as actualities. General belief has it that Hearst is merely a newspaperman attempting to satisfy public and human thirst for the sensational. The danger of the whole campaign lies in the fact that law-makers are taking the Sage of San Simeon seriously, and are all too likely to enact legislation of a suppressive and anti-social nature.

The New York legislature has passed a law compelling teachers to swear allegiance to the United States constitution. The Hearst press has proceeded in its own subtle way to define allegiance and loyalty, and is attempting to force its definitions on educational institutions. As the Indiana Daily Student has pointed out, Mr. William Randolph Hearst should be reminded that when one repeats the pledge of this nation he states, "one nation, indivisible, with LIBERTY and JUSTICE for all." Mr. Hearst is actually advocating re-enactment of Alien and Sedition acts. Alien and Sedition acts were passed back in 1798 and caused a sad state of affairs. The party responsible for their enactment, the Federalist party, fell as a direct result | racies seem romantic experiments.

of establishing the laws.

We feel quite sure that our Nebraska state legislators, who are intelligent and broadminded and represent the best interests of the state of Nebraska, will refrain from enactment of any such foolish legislation as anti-Communist and anti-liberal acts. Disregard of such radical groups will do more toward their ultimate disintegration than will aggressive action. The latter course would only make for unity of the small group, uniting them in a bond of hate against any future progressive moves that will be made by present leaders.

There is no reason for level-headed university administrators and intelligent legislators to become panicky merely because business men of the newspaper are feigning fear. Such money-seekers have their axes to grind. University men should have no such ulterior motives.

Browsing

Books

Maurice Johnson

Written as colorfully as any of his many novels, Sir Philip Gibbs' new "European Journey" is an admirable piece of reporting. (In fact, it is preferable to all his novels put together, with one of H. G. Wells' thrown in.) It is true that Gibbs is unable to forget that he is a novelist and sometimes records conversations which seem a little doubtful, but one does not mind that, for the European affairs of which he writes are unbelievably fantastic in them-

In "European Journey" we see the sordid details of the French Stavisky Scandal, the sordid details of the Continent's unemployment, the sordid details of the building of the new Palace of Nations, the sordid details of the manufacture of armaments -not through the eyes of statesmen, but through the eyes of the common folk of Europe. Surely Gibbs is justified in imagining an amusing peasant or two to make this sad fare palatable.

Gibbs was in the Saargebiet six months ago. Even then, of course, the plebiscite was what everyone thought of and talked of. Hitler's scarlet banner was the Swastika in a white circle hung in almost every shop-regarded as the national colors. "Ninety per cent of the Saar will vote for reunion with Germany," said a young bookseller; "we belong to Germany in blood and soul." But a middleaged man thought otherwise: "Why should we vote to go back to Germany and put our neck in chains? Why should we give up our liberty to live under the rule of cut-throats and bullies-those Nazi Storm Troopers?" There, Gibbs though to himself, is a man of courage, a man who will be dead before I come to the Saar again. "It was not safe to talk like that in Saarbrucken."

One of the most frightening scenes in "European Journey" is that in which Gibbs tells of his conversation with the workmen at the new Palace of the League of Nations. "We're building a new hospital for the wounded of the next war," said one of the workers. "This is a barracks . . . ready for occupation by the Germans when they march this way," another told Gibbs.

There is no mincing of words: "France is making love to Soviet Russia as one means of help in the coming war. Soviet Russia is allowing France with the view of imparting a cultural vision of sound citizenests. to make love to her because French armies may come to her aid in a war with Japan. Italy-afraid of Germany united to Austria with a frontier on the Brenner-is supporting Austrian independence with money, increasing an intolerable burden of taxation, and with promises of armed support. The munitions factories of Czecho-Slovakia are working overtime." And this goes on and on.

Sir Philip Gibbs would seem to make no conclusion. He observes that we must all be mad, despite his feeling of reassurance when conversing with casual wayside acquaintances. He also intimates that war is inevitable. But he offers no remedies, suggests no solutions.

One phrase, however, recurs so often throughout the book that it is rather annoying. Gibbs assures his readers that England is serene and unruffled in the midst of all the wild confusion about her. Again and again he says that all the nations of the continent envy England for her stability. And indeed, England's monarchy, limited though it is, does seem to make the tottering or already fallen democ-

Toward a New Journalism.

Comment

Hail the Kingfish!

Anyone who would say that Huey Long, that remarkable gentleman from Louisiana, is the epitome of good government would promptly receive the wholehearted condemnation of most citizens of the United States, and perhaps rightly. However, there are certain things which he has done which have been of the greatest value to the people he represents. Critics of the "Hitler of the South," if they nsider themselves fair-minded, should not lose sight of them.

Contemporary

Huey Long has increased the number of rural schools three or four fold, and has improved conditions in those which existed prior to the advent of his control of state politics.

Huey Long has built for his constituents miles of first-class highways, an unprecedented action in his state. Huey Long, thru a decision of the Supreme Court, won for the citizenry of Louisiana the profits to be secured from the oil fields in the western part of the state, Huey Long, through his "share the wealth" program, has reduced the tax burden for those who can least afford to stand it.

The methods which Long used to acquire his power and influence are certainly not above board. He is no better than Tammany in this ct. He has been accused of respect. He mas been a of graft, ding to reports, the fedrovernment is attempting to the Delta exhibitionist by charges of evasion of the neome tax. Irrespective of all this, if we are to consider ourselves fair ninded, we must not forget that despite his methods and ridiculous rantings, Huey has done more for his conats than any of his predeors.—Brown Herald.

is today, when to publish a liberal would preserve the status quo," so Clark McAdams, editor emeritus news? a Philadelphia group recently.

"Today there is a growing doubt zens whether the press is any longer a champion of their rights," Prof. Kenneth E. Olson, president ers also need to be educated to of the American Association of understand the problems of the Teachers of Journalism, asserted press, and to demand uncolored at Chicago convention of that organization last week. American newspapers generally, he said, tend to be "mouthpieces of conservative wealth," and far less liberal than most of their readers.

So journalists agree. They agree that the press needs to reexamine its purpose and its loyalties. In these times. Professor Olson says "the press may lag behind in rec-ognizing the social changes that have taken place." If this happens, he said, the press is going to find itself sharply challenged by other agencies for disseminating information.

Is the press inadequate, then, to meet the new demands upon it-to provide "a dependable and under-standable picture" of the new world? Professor Olson thinks not, but he implies that editors and publishers must first see the situation whole, rather than from a personal angle only; that they must rededicate themselves to seeking facts and then printing them without favor or fear. Mr. McAdams also supports this view, urging the publication of what he calls "free news." This he defines as "news undoctored by the bias of any editor or publisher," he

News has a mission. It is to tell the people the truth. Christ said:
Samuel Chamberlain, Kerr Eby,
"Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall set you free." But we cannot know the truth if the newspapers are to sift it thru a hundred student at the university in 1884, screens and bring it out in the and has since given many exhibits likeness of their own prejudices to the fine arts department. These and beliefs. If we are to assemble will be framed and placed on disthe truth in a pure state and pre- play.

sent it to the people in the livery of our own corporate selves, then the people shall not know the "Liberal journalism was never truth, nor shall the truth set them at a lower ebb in America than it free.

What, if anything, can be done writing affairs, and capable of understandable" way need to be trained or discovered. More readnews. Schools of journalism are doing good work in both fields.

secondly, those capable of reporting and writing the news intelligently must be permitted—and encouraged—to do so without halt or hindrance from editors and publishers steeped in old habits and prejudices. These two things, together will win for the American press the place it rightfully deserves. The guarantees it enjoys under the Constitution place upon it responsibilities which it is honor-bound to accept. If it will do so, a new and finer journalism will result, and will help to bring into existence a finer country.-Christian Science Monitor.

UNIVERSITY RECEIVES EXHIBIT OF ETCHINGS

Gregg Sends Drawings to Department of Fine Arts.

Several new etchings have been received by the fine arts department of the university from Will C. Gregg of Hackensack, New Jersey. All of the etchings have been drawn by famous American artists: John Taylor Arms, Mildred Bryant Brooks, Harrison Cady, Samuel Chamberlain, Kerr Eby, All of the great plains region. His constitute of the great plains region. His constitute of the great plains region.

The donor, Mr. Gregg, was a

Meet the Faculty

DEAN W. W. BURR.

A man whose appearance in this rogues' "galley" is long past due is W. W. Burr, dean of one of the largest colleges of the university. the College of Agriculture, in a whose dependence is completely on farming. As a further influence in Nebraska's agricultural program he is director of the state's six experimental stations, supervisor of the secondary school in agriculture at Curtis, and top man in the human pyramid that is the farm extension bureau, which is charged with the "putting over" of the administration's AAA as well as the regular contact correspondence between the research work of the college and every ommunity in the state.

-Courtesy of Lincoln Journal.

rugged product of the farm, who s now commissioned as curator of the best interests of agriculture, is at the close of the Organized Farm Week in which ag college of several important bills before the legislature, friend to the visiting skeletons and mummies." president and vice president of the Burlington railroad, and dean of the busiest of colleges—all in one substantiated by future expedihurry because he had no time to two ways:

"Without slackening the emphasis | 2. It would be the first time that began, "we expe to stress a more on this continent. ing of money. In keeping with into the Vaqui country it must this idea we have been consider- have the permission of Mexican ing the curriculum of the college authorities, Cummings points out.

"The importance of the women's TEN side of life is being remembered in this respect, and while home economics is not being neglected, an outlook for intelligent citizenship is being emphasized. Along with leading social thinkers we believe that the danger to all that is American lies in the disintegration of home life. Girls are receiving training that is planned to lessen such a possibility

Dean Burr then added a practiconception of idealistic education, "We realize that the present financial status of farming is not able to support a large number of college trained men, but we hope for enough highly trained men actually on the land to give agriculture the proper leadership. And to supplement these men we want an efficient working farm populace. Designed to meet this end are the short courses in motor, dairy, and the farm operator course which is a condensed review of practical application in farming. the only academic subjects which it contains being arithmetic and letter writing." Able to pause only a moment from his under pressure activity. Dean Burr's reminiscence of per experience was necessarily journal is to offend all those who to provide a larger or at least a brief. But as he told of his boy more reliable supply of "free hood on a farm in the wide open spaces of Indiana and Virginia he of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, told First, more men and women did pause. A happy smile played capable of understanding public on his strong wind roughened features; he ran a hand thru the among the great mass of our citi- about them in a "dependable and bushy grey hair that was once black, pushed his glasses above his eyebrows, and finally heavy stroked the chin that has one of those peculiar circular depressions in the exact center. He used to be a country school teacher, taught a district school, did research work largely in dry farming and worked on a farm. He remembered, "Yes, my whole past is pretty deeply grounded in farm soil." Before abruptly coming back to reality, he vouchsafed that he also loves his wife . . and a very vile nipe.

Mr. Burr was graduated from the university in 1906 and immediately went to the North Platte experiment station as assistant in agronomy. Soon after his appointment, he was employed by the of-fice of dry-k nd agriculture to take charge of the work which the department was carrying on in cooperation with the North Platte station. He remained in that position for seven years,

In 1912 he was selected to supervise the experimental work being carried on by the office of dry-land agriculture in the great plains rements and the compilation of Tecords on twenty different stations and was largely responsible for the

Mr. Burr's intimate acquaintance with experimental work in braska, Kansas, and Oklahoma under conditions similar to those of this state has given him opportunity to study the agriculture of the great plains region. His con-nection with the North Platte station and with the Farmer's Institute work of the state has given him a wide Nebraska acquain-

Mr. Burr assumed the duties chairman of the department of

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

Student Council. Student council will meet Wed-hall rooms. All members must be present for important business.

schedule discussion.

agronomy in 1916. Later he became director of the experiment stations and be succeeded Chan-cellor Burnett as dean of the college of agriculture in 1928.

EXPEDITION TO SEEK SKELETONS OF GIANTS

Cummings Believes Section Mexico May Hold Secret Lost Civilization.

TUSCON, Ariz., Jan. 13. (CNS). A mountain wilderness in the Va-qui Indian country of Sonara, Mexico, may today hold the secret of a lost civilization of giants, pos-sibly the "missing link" connecting army, from the Jewish radical, the activities and outlook of this Asia, believes, Dr. Byron Cum-mings, University of Arizona ar-southerner, will be played by five cheologist.

And for this reason, Dr. Cummings revealed this week, a second the reader of Karl Marx theories expedition will be led into the refunctioned so largely. As key man and host to the convention, gion by Paxson Hayes, enthnologist the Irish soldier interested in medical man and host to the convention, influential power in the swinging and discoverer of what he described as a group of "nine foot week-Mr. Burr just smiled and tions, will revolutionize the theoworked and forgot to bustle and ries of American archeologists in

1. It would be the first time in In directing the preparation of the history of America that a tribe of future farmers of the state, of giants ever had been unearthed. Dean Burr foresees a slight change and might provide the "missing in the objectives of all colleges link" between the Asiatic Monand especially that of agriculture. golian and the American Indian.

on vocational training," Dean Burr actual mummies have been found complete life rather than the mak- Before the expedition sets forth

> OUTSTANDING NE-Based on Interest and Sig> nificance. (Continued from Page 1). The story, appearing on Dec. 11, told of the Chamber of Commerce

cream of the nation's athletes to the Nebraska campus. In a momentous spring election that was full of thrills and upsets, the new Progressive party swept quet program Thursday evening, all but four of their candidates and Margaret Kimmel and Marinto office to make the headlines jorie on April 1. The victory came im- Irene Remmers, gave a musical mediately after the surprise organization of a new and powerful Green Toga faction, which was to take most of the campus posts.

Except for the Innocent's reor ganization story, the largest of the ten outstanding news stories of the year was the account of the Ivy Day celebration and announcement of new Innocents and Mortar Board members. The Ivy day oration and poem, the fraternity and sorority sing contests, and ac-counts of all-university and engineering week made this issue of the Nebraskan one of the most attractive and important of the year. The triumph of Kansas university tracksters in the annual Big Six meet was the only sports story to receive recognition in the ten outstanding accounts of the year Dethroning Nebraska with a fourteen point majority, the Mt. Oread cindermen were swept to victory in London, 1929; in Africa, 1927; by Glenn Cunningham. Only one football game judged to be important enough to be included in the story rosterthe Kansas State victory over Nebraska that carried the Big Six title with it. Since this game came Donald Friedley. during a vacation period, there Other members of the cast are was no issue of the Nebraskan to Harold Grier, Melvin Fielder, Ruschronicle it, explaining the absence of football stories from the Buell, David Goldware, Clare Announcement on March 8 that

Owen D. Young, internationally famous lawyer, would address seniors at the June commencement ken, Charles Fair, Henry Peterreceived tenth place among the year's news stories. The account also included the announcement that Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, Boston minister and son of the late President Eliot of Harvard, would deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

Only 25 percent of the men who apply to the student date bureau at the University of Toronto (Cangion. In his new position he had at the University of Toronto (Can charge of the field plans of experiada) have a preference for blonder

CHANTS

Several changes have been made in the cast of "Yellow Jack." As Cornhusker Payments.

Third installments on copies of the 1935 Cornhusker are due this week in the yearbook offices in University hall.

Kappa Phi.

There will be a cabinet meeting of Kappa Phi at the Wesley Foundard of Kappa Phi at the Wesley Foundard of "Major Cartwright," "A ment have been announced by the content of the cast of "Yellow Jack." As previously announced in this column, the parts of "Harkness" and "Kraemer" have been reversed. Sid Baker will play "Harkness" and William Flax will be "Kraemer." Other parts which will be portrayed will be "Aristides Gramont," John Quinn; "Colonel Tory," William Kuticka; and the parts of "Major Cartwright," "A ment have been announced by nesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in U Straub, and Molly Carpenter. The league No. 10 will vie for honors. play opens tomorow evening, and usual sets, appropriate costumes Delta Theta, 2. and the unusualness of the play itself, this production should draw a capacity audience.

Adela Tombrink, the only girl in the show, will be the nurse, "Miss Blake." Melvin Field will be a major in the royal air force and Harold Sumption will play "Stackpool." Don Buell is cast as "Adrian Stokes." and Pow Sautes will be Stokes," and Roy Squire will be "William Crawford Gorgas." Jock, the campus canine, will be the dog in the show, "Kim." The quintet of soldiers who illustrate the various well known men of the campus David Goldware will be "Busch." Hank Kosman will be "O'Hara, cine; Clare Wolf is cast as "Brinkerhof." the Canadian; Irving Hill as "William H. Dean;" and Jack Nicholas as "Mc Clelland," the American soldier from the south. Characters of minor importance will be Russ Gilman as a laboratory assistant; Hal Greer as an of- learned here this week. ficial of the Kenya colony governa native laboratory assistant. "Dr. Ames;" William Kuticka will be "Colonel Tory;" and John Quinn will be "Aristides Gramonte." The Named by Staff Selections terson, Bill Strong and Jack Beas-

Many of the students from the conservatory have made appearances recently, Hazel Smith, Mrs awarded the bid to be host to the Wetzel and Homer Gammill, a trio National Amateur Athletic union under the direction of Vera Upton, track and field championships to sang Tuesday evening. Russell held in Memorial stadium. Cummings, Margaret Jane Kimmell, Howard C. Miller, Irene Re mers, Marjorie Merle Thomas and cal and conservative note to his invitation that will bring the the male quartet gave a program for the home ec. meetings during Organized Agriculture week. The Thomas male quartet sang for the dairy "Golden Anniversary" ban-Thomas, accompanied by

PLAYERS' DRAMA OPENS FOR WEEK MONDAY, JAN. 14

(Continued from Page 1.) prize last year, is based upon Paul De Kruif's thrilling story of "Mi-crobe Hunters." It tells of the world's efforts to discover the the Spanish-American war against tion of line construction. the disease

The dramatic element of the story is found in Dr. Reed's ac- re-elected president of the Chemiceptance of the theory of a Cuban cal society; Marian Schneider was doctor that the mosquito was a re-elected vice president, Roy carrier, his attempts to trace the Evans, secretary, disease and the conclusion when Dworak, treasurer. four men volunteer their lives in an experiment. The settings are and back to Cuba in 1900.

The production is being supervised by H. Alice Howell, head of the dramatics and speech department, and the scenery is being constructed under the direction of sel Gilman, Sidney Baker, Don Wolfe, John Quinn, William Kuticka, Roy Squires, Delford Brummer, Louis Bortorff, Irving Hill, Clifford Demingo, Arnold son, and Bill Strong.

I SPONSOR ANNOUNCES WINNERS IN BOWLING

of Kappa Phi at the Wesley Foundation, 5:00 p. m., Monday, January 14.

Tory, William Kutcka, "A ment have been announced by Commissary Sergeant" and "An Anne Pickett, bowling sponsor, and the first of the new series of games and the first of the new series of games is prompter for the show and the property mistress and prop girls are Portia Boynton, Margaret No. 9, and Phi Mu. 3, winner of State and Mally Companies The Four make-up games from the single admission tickets may be round-robin tournament will also obtained at Magee's or that eve-ning at the box office. This is the or at 5 o'clock. The eight teams All candidates for the varsity wrestling team are requested to report to Jerry Adam in the basement of the coliseum Monday at 4 o'clock for rules interpretation and schedula discussion.

Winners of the different leagues have been announced as follows: winner of league No. 1, Delta Gamma, 1, with a score of 1411; As this cast is unusually large, winner of league No. 2, Alpha Chi it is interesting to note what old O., 2, with a score of 1114; winner stand-bys are taking outstanding of league No. 3, Phi Mu, 2, score roles and how many new faces will 1257; league 4, Phi Mu, 1, score be seen in the production. Among 1479; league 5, Huskerettes, 1, the University Players often seen score 1231; league 6, Phi Omega will be Armand Hunter as "Jess Pi, score 1489; leagues 7 and 8 un-W. Laziar," a Cuban scientist; Era determined; league 9, Sigma Eta Lown as "Dr. Walter Reed;" Chi, score 1181; league 10, Phi Dwight Perkins in the role of "James Carroll," Reed's assistant.

Beta Phi, 4, score 1636; league 12,

HIGH SPEED LENS TO HELP EXPLORE, SPACE

New Device Goes Into Use at Mt. Wilson Observatory In California.

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 13. (CNS). A tiny device weighing only a few pounds will bring to earth vast realms of hitherto unexplored space when astronomers adjust it to the Carnegie Institution's Mt. Wilson telescope it was

The device is a super-speed camment; "George," played by Edgar Lewis; "Harkness" by Sid Baker and "Kraemer" by William Flax. William Witt will be "Chambang." ports. It will be used at the Mt. ports. It will be used at the Mt. Wilson observatory until Califor-Carlos Findlay" will be portrayed nia Institute of Technology is able by Louis Bortoff. Delford Brum- to use it on their proposed 200mer will play the role of "Roger P. inch reflecting telescope at Palo-

The The idea for construction of the quartet which will sing old fash- lens was suggested by the British ioned and war songs of the days Scientific Instrument Association, during the Spanish-American war a government body. By cutting period, is composed of Russell Gil- the exposure time in half, the new man, William Miller, Alfred lens should enable scientists to ac-Reider, and Don Hackson, Soldiers complish double the amount of EN OUTSTANDING NE-will be Clifford Domingo, Arnold spectroscopic work with the Mt. braskan News Stories of 1934 Gadeken, Charles Fair, Henry Pe- Wilson 100-inch telescope in a given time.

ARNDT PLAYS LEAD IN ENGLISH COMEDY SET FOR JAN. 22-23

(Continued from Page 1). Putron, Kathryn Winquest, Betty Van Horne, Doris Burnett, Doris Eastman, Hazel Bradstreet, Mary Yoder, George Anna Lehr, Jean Walt, Jeanne Palmer, Sancha Kilbourne, Frances Kalin, Annie Laurie McCall, Melda Alber, Olive Seibold Shirley Diamond Gayle Caley, Bonnie Spangaard, and Geor-

Mrs. Rose Arbuton Miss Frances at Orfield Mrs. William Fisher Mrs. Samuel Avery Francescon Miss Barbara Spoetry Thomas W. Briggs Mr. Karl M. Arnd Mellersh Wilkins Mr. S. W. Alfor Domenico Mr. Harry Kurl Ferdinand Arundel Mr. Gustave Fuck Clark Mrs. Kanute Bross Clark

A. E. MARSH LECTURES CHEMICAL ENGINEERS

(Continued from Page 1). cause and carrier of the yellow also touched on the subject of fever virus, and Dr. Walter Reed's legal contracts, engineering ecofight in Cuba during the time of nomics, and preliminary calcula-

At the business meeting following the lecture, Howard Cain was and Vincent

IT PAYS-

To keep your garments free from soil and spots. They wear longer and always have that fresh

new look-Send Hats, Gloves, Ties, Formals, Tuxedos Now

M odern Cleaners SOUKUP & WESTOVER CALL F2377

An Instant Success . . . Sunday Evening Dinner S-U-Y-D-A-M-S DINING ROOM "Great for a Date" FINE FOOD AT POPULAR PRICES . . . SUYDAM'S Gladys Beaumont, Mgr. 126 So. 12th Opposite St. Paul's