HAVE YOU EVER STUDIED UNTIL the print went around in circles and until you read the same line over and over again, even then not being able to understand it? This is just about the time of year when minds are crammed full of so much knowledge in such a short time that they won't function. Relaxation is the best cure and the best place to get the desired relaxation just before exams get under way will be at the play, "The Enchanted April," which is being presented at the Temple January 22 and 23—just two days before the fatal Thursday. This production is being sponsored by the Faculty Women's club and contains an interesting all faculty cast including Professors Karl Arndt and Lester B. Orfield and the Misses Francis McChesney and Barbara Spoery. So we suggest that you begin to plan now to get your minds clear for exams by attending this delightful English comedy as presented by your favorite professors.

ALPHA XI DELTA house will be the scene of the first of a series of parties which are to be given by Big Sister board members for the Big and Little Sisters when Ruth Matschullat, board member, assisted by Dorothea DeKay entertains there Sunday afternoon from three until five o'clock at tea. Refreshments will be Russian tea and cakes and the appointments will be in blue and white. Ariene Bors, president of the board, will be a special guest.

BETTY CHRISTENSEN, Delta Gamma, and her brother, Bill, Phi Psi, left Friday for Washington, D. C., with their mother. They plan to return about Jan. 22.

DELTA OMICRON, national music sorority, held initiation service for this year's pledges at the University club yesterday morning. Following the initiation, newly initiated members were honored at a 12:30 o'clock luncheon.

MANY STUDENTS will be surprised to hear that Alice Lindgren of Malmo was married to Donald Shaffer last June 21 in Papillon. The bridegroom has attended the university. The couple will reside in Lyons where Mr. Shaffer is in charge of the Wollmer and Warner mortuary.

TWENTY-SEVEN guests attended the Sigma Phi Epsilon auxiliary luncheon which was held at the home of Mrs. Jesse Todd Thursday noon. Out of town guests were Mrs. Earl Watkins of Monticello, Ind., Mrs. H. C. Van Horn and Mrs. C. A. Sawyer, both of Pawnee City.

WEDDING BELLS brought increased holiday joy to at least two former students in the College of Pharmacy. Edward Chard was married to Lila King, graduate of Cotner College, at Edgar on December 29 and Charles Werner and Zoni Wilcox were married December 26 at the East Side Christian Church. Mr. Werher is the son of Professor O. H. Werner of the Teachers College and Miss Wilcox is a student in Business Administration.

A LECTURE on home decoration given by Miss Evelyn Metzger of the Home Economics department was the feature of the Nebraska Dame's meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. E. B. Schmit Friday afternoon. The hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Watson Beed, Mrs. Harriet Hoy, Mrs. Bill Allington, and Mrs. Charles B. Schultz.

MR. R. K. McCALLUM, a geology graduate in 1932 who is now a mining engineer in Idaho was a visitor at the university last week.

THE THEME of a recent meeting of Kappa Phi, Methodist girls' sorority, which was held in Ellen Smith hall was "Passing Thru New Doorways." Guests were entertained by a play, "Ancient Beautiful Things," which was written by Gertrude Ebers and which was presented by the hostesses who were Miss Helen Becker, Miss Ruby Watters, Miss Margaret Wiener, Miss Geneva Wheeler, Mrs. Morris Dodd, Mrs. Charles Paine, Mrs. Gerald Agans, Mrs. Ray Abernathy, and Mrs. Floyd Schroeder.

ELIZABETH BABCOCK of Redlands, Calif., formerly of Lincoln, became the bride of H. Miller Scott, also of Redlands, at a ceremony which was performed December 19. Both members of the couple are graduates of the university. After a trip to Laguna Beach, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Scott will be at home in Redlands.

DOCTORS, CHEMISTS DISCOVER NEW CURES Science Prepared to Fight Infantile Paralysis Epidemics. SOCIETY HEARS PAPERS

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10. (C.S.)—Forecasting a year of enlightenment for sufferers of infantile paralysis, pneumonia, sleeping sickness, hay fever and even forms of insanity, reports given by both chemists and doctors before the American Association for the Advancement of Science recently were considered outstanding among the many papers read here. Indication that science is prepared for the first time in human history to combat infantile paralysis actively during any epidemic that may occur was evinced in the reports of two medical investigators—Dr. Maurice Brodie, assistant professor of bacteriology, New York Hospital and Bellevue Hospital Medical School, and Professor John A. Kolmer of the Temple University Medical School, Philadelphia. Their methods of treatment, although slightly different, are based on the use of a serum extracted from the East Indian or Rhesus monkey. It is obtained from the pulverized spinal cords of monkeys which have been infected with an attenuated or mild form of monkey infantile paralysis, reports state.

Prof. Lawrence Vold of the college of law has been selected by the editorial board of the Foundation Press to write an original textbook on torts for a textbook series. Members of the board which chose Professor Vold are on law faculties of Harvard, Columbia, Michigan, Minnesota, and Stanford.

Experiments with opiates, conducted by Dr. Alexander Silverman, head of the chemistry department of the University of Pittsburgh, were revealed to have made amazing strides in treating pneumonia, a disease which annually kills thousands, and also in relieving certain forms of insanity.

"Developments in the field of narcotics and hypnotics may find exceedingly important applications," he said. "Certain opiates are being used in the treatment of colds. Some of these may actually become specific for pneumonia. Experiments have already progressed satisfactorily in the treatment of animals, which respond to pneumonia much as humans do. The coming winter will probably see the direct application to patients in one of our hospitals."

Dr. Silverman assertedly disclosed that a physical chemist in a university he did not name had discovered that certain compounds of organic substances had the power of converting an apparently inorganic person to normality. He charged the medical profession with being slow to adopt the discoveries of chemists. Sleeping Sickness Cure. Development of a vaccine to combat sleeping sickness was also announced at the meeting. According to the report, mice, inoculated with the sleeping sickness virus taken from patients in a recent epidemic, carried the disease and developed a vaccine which immunized other mice which received the serum.

Prominent in the scientific reports was a new explanation of hay fever and its causes, presented by Prof. Reuben L. Kahn of the University of Michigan. The sensitivity which causes this malady is not a sign of weakness, according to his report. Instead it is a sign nature has overcome the job of providing defenses in the form of the antigenic substances which ward off disease germs. These antigenic substances he assertedly finds are the source of immunity to disease. They are said to manifest their presence by the redness which appears in infected skin, or by other disturbances.

When they are overly-organized, he holds that "hyper immunity" develops. This causes the antigenic substances to go into action when there is no real danger. They become super-sensitive to specific substances, like the pollens and other dusts which induce hay fever. The fever is merely the irritation set up by these over-active antigens trying to oust the irritant, Prof. Kahn asserts.

Prof. Lawrence Vold of the college of law has been selected by the editorial board of the Foundation Press to write an original textbook on torts for a textbook series. Members of the board which chose Professor Vold are on law faculties of Harvard, Columbia, Michigan, Minnesota, and Stanford.

In the series of law textbooks to be published are others by Prof. Robin M. Perkins of Iowa; Dean John H. Wigmore of Northwestern; and Prof. W. Barton Leach of Harvard.
