GAMMA ALPHA CHI TO GIVE RUSH TEA SUNDAY Honorary Advertising Club To Meet at Kappa House.

Plans for a rush tea were made at a recent meeting of Gamma Alpha Chi, honorary advertising sorority. The affair will be held Sunday, March 24 at the Kappa house, according to Virginia Seleck, president of the organization.

Catherine Stoddard, vice president, is in charge of invitations; Patricia Vetter has charge of the program; and Josephine Ferguson will arrange for the refreshments.

Plans for Ad-Nite, an annual event, sponsored by the organization, were discussed at the meeting, and Rowena Miller was placed in charge of investigating possibilities for holding the affair again this year.

A special meeting of the organization will be called sometime this week, when a definite decision concerning Ad-Nite will be made, and final plans for the party will be completed.

STYLE SHOW MODELS MEET FOR REHEARSAL Practice Show Planned Thursday Afternoon At Temple.

Models to appear in the Coed Follies Style Show will meet for a rehearsal Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Temple theater, according to A. W. S. Board. Models will wear the clothes they will model in the style show, feature of the Coed Follies to be held in the Temple theater March 29.

'No Men Allowed' When the Women Stage a Style Show

Every year, about the time the campus entities start counting the ducats and re-establishing regular correspondence with dad in anticipation of that new spring suit, the A. W. S. board springs its traditional "Women Only!" show, and shows the girls just what they can buy, if they have enough money.

Of course every woman goes, if only to have something on the fellows, who are strictly excluded. And though the "A. W. S.ers" aren't really an exclusive bunch, they still take great delight in enforcing their admittance requirements. Of course, there may be other reasons.

FACULTY INVITED TO HOME EC TEA SUNDAY

Women's Ag Group Plans St. Patrick's Day Decorations.

A St. Patrick's day tea, sponsored by the Home Economics association, will be held in the association's parlors on the ag campus Sunday from 3 until 5 o'clock. The purpose of the affair is to give the faculty and students a better opportunity of becoming acquainted with one another, it was stated by Ruth Henderson and Viola Johnson, who are in charge of the affair.

Faculty members from the Home Economics department and from the downtown campus have been sent invitations. Those invited from the downtown campus will be the professors having girls from the ag college in their classes.

STUDENTS WRITE FOR ARCHITECTURAL BLUE PRINT, MARCH EDITION

Publication Contains Paul Rader Article on Cathedral.

Under the editorship of the architectural department the March Nebraska Blue Print will contain two student articles, "Cathedral at Rheims" by Paul Rader and "Modern Construction" by Kenneth Clark, several illustrations of student drawings and photographs of current architectural interest, according to Prof. L. B. Smith of the architecture department. The engineering student publication is expected to make its appearance the latter part of the week.

In "Cathedral at Rheims," Rader takes excerpts from his English term paper and describes and relates the history of the construction. Clark with "Modern Construction" discusses student viewpoints concerning modern building material. A number of reproductions of excellent class work done by students is to be published, Smith said. A drawing of the Nave Cathedral by Vermer Meyer, an archeological design and an illustration of a map of Paris as painted on the drafting room wall are presented.

LIESEN, GREEN SPEAK TO A.S.C.E. MEMBERS Senior Director Advocates Better Relationship With Juniors.

Relating that steps are now being taken to bring about a better relationship between junior and senior organizations of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Col. T. M. Liesen, Omaha, addressed thirty members of the local student A. S. C. E. chapter, Friday evening at its banquet at the Grand hotel.

In outlining the functions and activities of the two groups, Col. Liesen stated a more unified organization of both divisions would be formed with the placing of junior society members on the senior A. S. C. E. committees. The speaker also emphasized the need of more student chapters in the midwestern section of the country, as the number is now comparatively low.

R. M. Green, consulting engineer of Lincoln, in his talk strongly advocated the required registration of the engineering profession. He discussed the phases of the registration bill now before the state legislature. Mr. Green is chairman in charge of the committee that drew up the provisions of the bill.

During the afternoon Mr. Flanders plans to address the University student section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the M. E. building on the campus. He speaks again before a joint meeting of the Nebraska chapter of A. S. M. E. and the Engineers club of Lincoln at 6:15 the evening of March 20 in the Grand hotel. He will discuss "The Engineer and Social Well-Being."

SAINT PATRICK USED SHAMROCKS TO TELL IRISH OF THE TRINITY

When the day for the "wearing of the green" rolls around much talk gets afoot concerning the nationality noted for a peculiar brand of confetti as well as in reference to the great patron saint of Ireland, St. Patrick. Following a custom which has little basis of fact in most people's minds, many add verdant bits of one kind or another to their wearing apparel on March 17.

All of this bedecking in green is a distant shadow of the missionary work of one of the greatest apostles of Christianity, St. Patrick, strange as it may seem, was not an Irishman. His nationality is in dispute even among the most authentic of church historians. The dispute, however, is not as to whether or not he was an Irishman or something else, but as to whether he was born of Scotch or French parents. He went to Ireland as a missionary in the fourth century. By a simple and very effective method of persuasion, he converted the people to the new faith of Christianity, or to be more exact to catholicism. His effectiveness is demonstrated by the fact that the Irish more than any other people have retained that faith down to the present thru all storms of dissent.

STJOGREN SPEAKS ON PLANT MANAGEMENT

SENIOR A.S.M.E. CLUB SPONSORS C. T. MANN $150 PRIZE CONTEST

Award Offered Student for Article, 'Coordinated Transportation.'

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers received notice recently of the annual Charles T. Mann $150 award which is to be presented to a student A. S. M. E. member for the best paper on the subject, "Coordinated Transportation—An Economic Comparison of Railroad, Bus, Truck, Water and Air Transportation for Long and Short Haul." The award is under the sponsorship of the senior A. S. M. E. society.

All papers should be sent to the national society on a date before June 30, 1935. For information regarding the rules, students are asked to write to the Honorary Chairman of the A. S. M. E. All papers by single authors are to be considered, the notice stated. Additionally two $25 awards for papers on any engineering subject or investigation were announced. The papers are to be prepared by students under the direction of the department of mechanical engineering of the college, and one award is for a graduate and the other for an undergraduate student.

YEARBOOK AD STAFF PLANS OMAHA DRIVE

Opening Section of 1935 Cornhusker Now At Printers. Final solicitation for the 1935 Cornhusker will be undertaken by the business staff of the publication when they journey to Omaha Wednesday, March 20, for an advertising drive among the Omaha merchants. Maynard Miller, Don Shurtieff, and Gene Pester will take the trip.

Having secured twenty advertisers from Omaha last year, it is hoped by the staff to obtain even more for the new campus annual, which is going to press now. According to Frank Crabb, editor, the opening section of the year book has already sent to the printers, and the administration or college section will follow the first of this week. Each page in the administration division will include a picture of the dean of the college and a letter written by him to the students. College layouts, which include pictures of laboratories and classrooms, will appear at the outer edge of the page.

GIRLS CONFESS THEFT OF SORORITY ROW MAIL

Hairbrush Sentence Given to Mailbox Pilferers By Police. Two little girls, six and eight years old, admitted Friday they had been taking mail from houses on sorority row. Their confession to Juvenile Officer Lt. Beals has cleared up the mysterious disappearance of letters from home for the past several weeks. Checks, small articles of clothing, and incidentals that can be sent by mail are among the things members of the sororities have been missing.

Identity of the two girls was discovered when a neighbor woman noticed some torn letters and silk stockings tucked away in the casing of basement window, and notified police. Lt. Beals checked the neighborhood. Two girls, six and eight, he was told, were seen entering sorority houses. When he questioned them at Bancroft school they readily admitted the thefts. They tried to excuse, they said, "a boy in another school told them he did it."

AUDIENCE ENTHUSIASTICALLY ACCLAIMS ALL-FRENCH MOVIE

With much speaking superlatively from members of the audience, and much triumphant mental overhead self-shaking of hands by the promoters, the Saturday morning showing of "Les Miserables" is generally acclaimed a brilliant success. Approximately 600 persons viewed the midwestern premier of the all-French film. Students and faculty from Omaha University, Doane college, and Lincoln and Jackson high schools, as well as members of the Lincoln and Omaha "Alliance Francaise" groups and large numbers of university faculty members and students defied the elements and deserted the cory arms of Morphous to relive Victor Hugo's immortal story.
