Whereupon the dramatic ghost of Glen Presnell, famous Husker running mate of the equally famous "Blue" Howell stirred up, easily in its grave. For when this great Nebraska institution was in its infancy, Glen played the feminine lead in the Kosmet Klub spring show, "The Love Hater," opposite the same mighty "Blue" Howell.

Faculty Sees No Immediate War Threat in Hitler Action

By Ed Murray.

Concerning Reichfuhrer Hitler's recent open "scrapping of the military clause of the Versailles treaty," which has so abruptly recalled to the world the armament sequence of 1913 and the exact duplication of that sequence that is being coaxed along by world powers today, members of the university faculty, especially qualified to speak on the subject were of one opinion to the effect that no immediate war will result.

The consensus of belief among the professors contacted revealed that Hitler's determination to rearm Germany to full pre-war strength, via the conscription method, was only a reflection of the trends of the last five years that have been initiated by all significant national powers.

Prof. Norman L. Hill, member of the political science department, an authority on the world armament situation, stated, "I feel that the position taken by Hitler is justified by the policies of Germany's neighbors in building dangerous war machines in spite of the statement in the Treaty of Versailles that they would reduce armaments. It is the height of folly to expect to keep Germany perpetually weak in military power while her neighbors are all making themselves stronger."

"I doubt whether the move (Hitler's declaration) will lead to immediate war, but that it is one (Continued on Page 2.)

VISITORS STRONG TEAM

Scarlet Coach Invites All Attend Wednesday Engagement.

Nebraska meets South Dakota Wednesday evening at 7:30 in Social Science auditorium in their feature home debate of the season and Coach H. A. White is desirous of having a representative audience attend. A timely question, "Resolved: That the Nations of the World Should Agree to Prevent the International Shipment of Arms and Munitions," will be discussed, with Charles Steadman and Leo McMahon upholding the negative side of the argument against the Dakota pair.

According to Coach White, the northern team is very highly rated, and the Huskers have been making extensive preparations for their most effective negative case. In the professors own words, "South Dakota has a good team, the question is one of foremost importance, and we are working hard on a strong line of argument. All these things combined insure an interesting contest, and I am anxious that a good crowd is there. I feel certain that I can assure everyone a thoroughly enjoyable and educational evening."

Anyone who is interested in the present controversy over military methods and furtherance of peace will find much valuable material in the armament discussion, White believes. The home team's opponents have just finished an engagement with Kansas university, and they plan to stop over just one night in Lincoln.

Charles Steadman, one of the members of the team who won honors early this year at the Denver university tournament, had this to say of tonight's encounter, "We realize that we are meeting (Continued on Page 3.)

ARCHITECTURAL GROUP RELEASES BLUE PRINT

Engineering Students Will Receive Magazine Friday.

DRAWINGS REPRODUCED

Published for the first time other than by the regular editorial staff, the Nebraska Blue Print will be issued to engineering students Friday by the architectural department of the engineering college. It was announced by Marvin Nuernberger, editor of the student publication.

Prof. L. B. Smith, head of the architectural department, and student aides had complete charge, Nuernberger stated, and the March number is designated as the architectural issue. Its features are mainly architectural and are offered for students of that department, the editor said.

Student Articles Appear. Two student articles, "Cathedral at Rheims" by Paul Rader and "Modern Construction" by Kenneth Clark, appear in the issue. With excerpts taken from an English term paper, Rader gave the important features and the history of the cathedral. Clark relates modern building materials and presents student viewpoints relative to their value.

Several drawings of students made in architectural classes are reproduced with a design of the Dove cathedral by Werner Meyer given prominence. Others are an archeological design and an illustration of a map of Paris.

Cover Design of Capitol. Also the work of students, the cover design for the issue is especially good, Professor Smith pointed out. The design illustrates in the foreground the Nebraska state capitol which is silhouetted against the plans of the old Roman Forum and other buildings of the world.
