'All Play and No Work' Won't Make Enough Jack for School

By Louis Cass.

When conditions start to look dark for the University of Nebraska boy or girl, you can be sure they will not sit idly by and charm themselves with opportunities that might turn up; they take advantage of them. One out of every two boys and one out of every three university girls are now working in order to reduce expenses and still continue in quest of the cap and gown.

Fathers may relate to sons and daughters the hardships experienced in the college days of yesterday but an education to a large number of Nebraska students today is no bed of roses. Fifty percent of Nebraska men and thirty-five percent of Nebraska women have manifested a true desire for an education by securing part time jobs that enable them to remain in school.

Debate Squad 'Goes to Town' As Student Interest Climbs

By George Pipat.

When the Kappa house was on south 14th street, and bicycles-built-for-two roamed the campus, debating was a collegiate activity that shared honors only with the glee and mandolin clubs. But when the Jazz Age ushered in a new "Joe College," the forensic art faded from the view of a speed-crazed student body.

The last few years have witnessed an intellectual renaissance, undoubtedly due to the far reaching influence of "Awgwan" and "Esquire," and with it has come the rebirth of the university debating department, under the watchful efforts of Prof. H. Adelbert White, professor of English.

With the schedule card outnumbering the record year of ten previous seasons by ten debates, with more candidates out for the team than in any year of the past decade, and individual honors won in several tournaments, the Husker argumentation squad has figuratively "gone to town" this year.

Some factors in arousing student interest in debating this year, according to Professor White, are the innovations of audience reaction decisions, radio staged debates, and the debate assembly introduced at the Denver speech tournament. At the Rocky Mountain Speech tournament, held last month at Denver university, the decisions were given to the team who could do most in changing the opinion that the audience held concerning the question before the debate.

A report from the junior-senior prom committee will be given by Irving Hill, co-chairman of the affair, and reports from various student council committees will be heard. There will be a discussion of the remaining work of the council for this year.

MEN'S PEP CLUB HOLDS INITIATION RITUALS TONIGHT

25 Pledges Inducted Into Corn Cobs at Delta Upsilon House.

Twenty-five new members will be inducted into Corn Cobs, men's pep organization, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Delta Upsilon fraternity house, stated Irving Hill, president. The final list of initiates will not be released until the meeting when the checking of eligibility will be completed.

Initiation fees, which are due before 5 o'clock Wednesday, are payable at the Student Activities office in the coliseum. They will be turned over to James Marvin, treasurer of the organization, at that time. Hill declared that all houses or Barb groups who have found their men ineligible should make their substitutions immediately so that they can be represented. Each group must have one man initiated at this time in order to retain active membership for the following year and also to be able to vote in the election which will be held soon.

Final plans for the Corn Cobs' annual spring dinner dance to be held at the Cornhusker hotel, Saturday, April 13, will be formulated at a meeting which will take place following the initiation. Heads of all campus societies will be invited to this affair, Hill stated. All pledges are expected to be present at the initiation in order that they may attend the party. All men must appear in Corn Cobs sweaters.

BUSINESS PUBLICATION PRINTS FARIS ARTICLE

Graduate Student Discusses System of Telephone Company.

Forbes magazine, one of the leading business magazines, for March 15, 1935, contains an article written by John Faris, graduate student. It is entitled "A Come-Back Plan for the Small-Town Merchant" and tells how the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company has devised a new system of stimulating business in small Nebraska towns.

At stated times all the patrons of the telephone company in the adjoining country listen in while the bargains of the local merchants are broadcast for the day. At the present time, Mr. Faris says that the plan is being carried out in Milford, Sterling, Syracuse, Waco, Murdock, Steinauer, McCool Junction, and Ithaca at a very small cost to the merchant. The article was one written in Professor R. P. Crawford's class last semester.

SENIORS FURTHER ORGANIZATION AT CLASS CONCLAVE

President Easterday Calls For Group Conference Thursday.

COMMITTEE PLANS MEET

Follow-Up Affair to Tea Dance Purpose of Gathering.

The senior class will advance further in their efforts for class organization at a meeting of all seniors to be held Thursday evening at 7:30 in Social Science auditorium, according to an announcement made Tuesday by Don Easterday, president of the class.

Members of the committee will gather in the Student council office at 5 o'clock, immediately preceding the meeting, to formulate ideas for further steps in their move toward unification and will present the results to the entire class. It is hoped that the seniors will succeed in forming definite plans for presentation to the Student council so as to insure organization each year from now on. In addition, they will discuss further functions for this year's class. The discussion will be led by the committee, which is composed of Don Easterday, Jack Fischer, Violet Cross, Lamoine Bible, Herman Rosenberg, Marian Smith, and Wilbur Erickson.

Speaking for the committee, Easterday stated, "We want every member of the senior class to be present at this meeting Thursday to give us their aid and to demonstrate their support. We don't intend to stop after the conclusion of our successful affair last Friday, but we will go on until we achieve our ultimate goal of complete senior class organization and unification."

Violet Cross declared, "We just made a fine start with our party Friday. Now that the seniors realize we are really in earnest in our attempts at organization, it is up to them to show us that they are behind our work completely. If this year's class makes a step in the direction of complete organization, our successors will be able to step into a unified group."

OURY ORDERS FIRST SKELETON PRACTICE DRILL NEXT FRIDAY

Non-Commissioned Officers Will Assemble at Nebraska Hall.

University R. O. T. C. cadets will form Friday for the first spring parade, on the mall in front of Nebraska hall at five o'clock. The parade, announced in a recent memorandum by Capt. Walter T. Scott, by order of Col. W. H. Oury, will be a skeleton parade.

Originally scheduled for March 22, the parade was postponed one week in co-operation with senior class officers who had planned an afternoon tea dance on that date. Only cadet officers, first sergeants, platoon sergeants, guides and guidon bearers will be required to report for the parade, which will be conducted in the usual form for regimental parades.

Friday afternoon's ceremony is the first of a series of practice parades, to train the leaders and essential basic students in their duties during parades. They are being scheduled in preparation of the annual inspection by seventh corps area officers, which will be held early in May. Cadets who are unable to attend because they are working at the scheduled hour must be excused by Col. Oury.

DUST DIMS NEBRASKA SKIES AGAIN TUESDAY

Weather Prophets Promise Temperature Drop by Morning.

Dust clouds rolled over Nebraska again Tuesday afternoon. Barely had evening papers told the story of hazy skies in the western part of the state when the local atmosphere thickened, temperatures dropped, and the sun disappeared behind a combination of dirt and clouds.

Raging in Kansas and western Nebraska, the dust blew into Lincoln during the afternoon Tuesday, over a south wind, which changed to a direct northern blower.

Lincoln's temperature at one o'clock was 75, and weather forecasters promised a drop of 40 degrees by Wednesday morning, indicating clearer skies and cooler air today. Visibility was not much reduced in Lincoln yesterday. Other parts (Continued on Page 2.)
