Little Gods Galley

JACK FISCHER, STUDENT COUNCIL PRESIDENT.

By Sarah Louise Meyer. Domineering time-clocks and schedules, and elaborate preparations in advance are the par ticular "to-be-shunned"s of Frank J. "Jack" Fischer, Union-minded president of the stu-dent council. He would like to be always free to stage a party or make a trip on the spur of the mo-ment if he chose. It might almost be a motto: "Follow that impulse, if humanly possible."

But the desire to exclude from his life all the annoying little im-pedimenta of fun-ful living is not complemented with lack of foresight. For the Pi K. A. pride is already counting on viewing the Olympic games in Germany in 1936, and states that, on a visit to the South Sea Isles, he would take his own Wicki-Wacki girls. Nor is his love for freedom accompanied by instability of character, for he has been drinking malted milks has been drinking malted milks "steadily" for eight years and not only has not died a bloater's death. as well he might, but still claims the drink as his "Favorite Food."

Easter Season Brings Review Of So-Called Miracle Stories

With Easter in the offing an occasional collegiate may re call, even after donning all the spring duds, that the day commemorates history's greatest miracle. In a short review of happenings in the miracle class, a story with a theme smacking decidedly of hely week may not be amiss. As a forewarning for the yarn, here in the making, it oshould be admitted that this tale has generally avoided the headlines previously because of the skepticism of the press.

Briefly, the story is this: In Konnersreuth, Belgium, is a woman who suffers would be amiss. As a forewarning for the matter is that it is inexplicable. Doctors who have served on this medical board, range from atheists down thru all the denominations.

Writing in the April issue of the Konnersreuth, Belgium, is a woman who suffers weekly from the stigmata, which is the name Forum, Adous Huxley, scientific commentator, states that it is not applied to the saints down thru so strange that the saints, by su perior faith, can superimpose the wounds of Christ on their bodies
