

CAMPUSOCIETY

IT'S A LITTLE EARLY TO BEGIN speculating on the possible outcome of the Ivy Day elections, but already the whole campus is buzzing about Mortar Board and Impudent candidates. From the list of "possibles" published just recently, people are choosing those most likely to succeed to the red-coifed order, and finding it a rather hard job, but if the senior men's honorary chooses the usual thirteen, only three candidates will be disappointed. The Mortar Board election, on the other hand, is still a deep dark secret, and everybody is wondering just who will attend and who will wear the coveted black masquerade.

SEEN ON THE CAMPUS: Faith Arnold and Bob Beghtol exchanging gum and friendly nods in English class—Dick Fischer helplessly watching his pencil roll half the length of the room in the midst of important note taking—Orders from the Drug leaving for the armory every Wednesday night where, it is rumored, the Orchestras are practicing for a spring dance—Katherine Carver (the one that goes steady with Johnny McKee) moving uncomfortably in the seats in "Sosh" auditorium—Carlyle Meyer bouncin a golf ball—Sancha Kilbourne worrying about dates for visiting delegates of Pep organizations (suggestions will be received at the Kappa and Pi Phi houses)—Maxine Packwood going through piles of old newspapers for Tassel clippings—Jerry LaNoue sporting a gangster cap from way back (personal opinion, it looks terrible)—Marylu Williams looking sleepy after a wild night ride on the train from Fort Morgan that was held up by rain—and Arnold Levine unrolling the Daily Nebraskan's typewriter ribbons just because he felt that way.

SIGNS OF "Just Married," and "Local Girl Makes Good in Big City" met the eyes of Leola Schill when she stepped into the train that was to carry her from her native haunts in Lincoln to New York. What the other travelers thought when the Nebraskan business staff turned out en masse to speed her on her way is a question, but it's no question how journalism students are mourning.

ANNOUNCED yesterday was the marriage of Lillian Schroeder of Milford and Frederick Brandhorst also of Milford which took place April 13 in Kansas City. Both Mr. and Mrs. Brandhorst have attended Nebraska, where he was a member of Alpha Gamma Rho. The couple is living near Seward.

TUESDAY evening at the home of Mrs. E. H. Polley the Delta Omicron alumnae met for a program meeting. Assisting Mrs. Polley as hostesses were Miss Mildred Kemp and Miss Betty Za-

'PAGING THE SMART COED'

As spring has burst upon us in full bloom the last few days, every young girl's fancy is turning lightly to thought of her spring wardrobe. So, I have gathered a few hints here and there from the prominent buyers to help in your selections.

Here are five things to keep in mind when selecting a suit: One—That navy, natural and gray are the three smart colors. Two—That short, fitted jackets are the smartest. Three—To button them high is the smartest. Four—That the slit and pleated skirt is the only one. Five—That the taffeta blouses are the most interesting.

For hence in your selection of a soft dress, one, that the butterfly neck-line is ultra-ultra. Second, that sleeves big and full at the wrist are ditto. Third, that gathered fullness is the most important decoration. Four, that plain colored heavy sheer crepe is the most elegant fabric.

Three suggestions for a day-time frock. One, the shirt-waist dress is still the top. Second, that the softly tailored shirt-waist is the latest move in shirt-waist fashions. Three, taffeta is the last word in fabric for it.

When buying a printed dress one must remember: One, that the dress with the jacket or a cape, is the smartest. Two, taffeta again is the finest word in prints.

And last, the smartest fabrics for evening gowns are lace, chiffon, net, and taffeta.

For footwear, two-tones and plain white buckie will lead the parade. Fabric, ties and bows will ornament your feet, and even a few buttons have been sighted. The ever-present pumps are built high and slender, your foot look long and slender and comfortable.

For these early spring picnics, you will find the flat-heeled rubber-soled fabric walking shoes a big improvement over the heavy clod-hoppers, so to speak, of last year.

And, speaking of picnics, slacks have a more prominent position than ever before. Light blues and yellows, with cocky little caps to match, will let you climb trees, hills, mountains, etc.

Fashionably yours,
ALICE MAE.

EXHIBITION TO DISPLAY PHOTOS BY HUFNAGLE

British Collection Shows Five Pictures by Nebraskan.

Richard W. Hufnagle, university photographer, has received word that five of his pictures were accepted for display at the twenty-sixth annual exhibition of international pictorial photography in Berry, England. This exhibition is in the form of a nature salon and the photographs accepted are chosen for their artistic qualities as well as for their technical perfection. This is the first attempt on the part of Mr. Hufnagle to compete in an international exhibit in a foreign country. Of the six pictures submitted five were accepted for display.

Four of his photographs were accepted last fall by the Rochester Atheneum and Mechanics institute for display at the second annual exhibition of professional photography held in Rochester. Recently two of Mr. Hufnagle's photographs that are now on display in Europe appeared in the rotogravure section of the Omaha World-Herald.

Photography is Mr. Hufnagle's well developed hobby. He spends much of his leisure time taking shots of local subjects. His personal collection includes one hundred plates of natural color Nebraska capitol pictures which he spent nine months photographing.
