CLAIRE OWENS' BILL UNANIMOUSLY KILLED BY SENATE SATURDAY Measure Creating New State Board of Education Rejected. Representative Claire Owens' bill, creating a new state board of education to take over and manage the university and its branches, the four teachers colleges, the school for blind at Nebraska City and the school for deaf at Omaha was unanimously killed by the state senate Saturday forenoon.

Approving the report filed by the senate committee on constitutional amendments, the senate indefinitely postponed the bill. Under the provisions of the bill, the board of regents for the university and state normal board were to be abolished, while the Nebraska City and Omaha institutions were to be transferred from the board of control to the newly created body. The bill had previously passed the house by a wide margin, in the form of a constitutional amendment to be submitted and voted upon at the 1936 general election.

Little Gods Galley JOHN STOVER, INTERCLUB COUNCIL PRESIDENT. By Lloyd Friedman. "Students don't have to join fraternities to be active men," declared John Stover, president of the Barb Interclub council—the first unaffiliated student to be interviewed for Little Gods Galley. "There are enough activities in which barbs can participate without joining a house."

Admitting the desirability of fraternities, the Barb leader smiled and stated that one of the purposes of the Interclub council is to give the unaffiliated students the opportunity to join barb groups in order to fulfill their desires for as much of fraternity life and brotherhood as they can get without actually joining. He believed that finances rather than dislike kept most of the barbs out of fraternities.

This quiet barb leader has also been secretary and treasurer for the past year of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary debate society, and a member of Dr. H. A. White's varsity debate squad. For two years he was also a member of the Cornhusker business staff. Even when he attended Hickman high school, Stover was interested in oratory as he captured the speaking championship during

SPRING ISSUE OF SCHOONERS GOES ON SALE MAY 22

Literary Magazine Edition Features Diversified Material.

With a diversified array of material contributed by the largest number of authors ever appearing in a single issue, the late spring edition of the Prairie Schooner will be ready for publication on Wednesday, May 22. Prof. L. C. Wimberly, editor of the university literary magazine, announced that the work of the 26 writers contained in the May issue ranges from a humorous article on the fine art of murder to a serious discussion of the midwest drought during 1934.

Much of the material of the current Schooner is designed to picture the prairie country, according to editor Wimberly. Some of the articles, stories, and poems that especially emphasize this theme are "The Drouth of '34" by Rudolph Umland; "The Harvest," a poem by Carl I. Kilander; a story, "Nor on the Lone Prairie" by George Martin; and Jone Groomer Love's poem entitled "Mole in the Earth."

Newbranch Honored. The "Midwesterners" department which was initiated into the Schooner in the winter issue features a first hand study of Harvey (Continued on Page 4.)

FOREIGN trade is getting some attention in official circles. Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recently indicated that this country prefers to have trade settlements made in metal. He referred to paper policies of the past as regretted experiences.

Question—how are we going to continue commercial relations with other nations if we continue to demand gold and silver payments? The alternative is to lend them money so they can pay for what they buy here. And that is the sad experience (Continued on Page 2.)

UNION PETITIONS NEED 1000 NEW NAMES FOR GOAL

Committee Issues Special Plea for Necessary Signers.

FISCHER URGES ACTION Building Plans, Construction Date, Costs Ready by Wednesday.

With almost 1,000 signatures still needed on the union building petitions to reach the 3,000 mark, a special plea for each member of the committee of 100 to secure an additional ten signers to the petitions by Wednesday, was issued by members of the executive committee Saturday.

Final plans for the building together with data on construction and labor costs will be completed by Wednesday, it is believed, and members of the committee pointed out that the number of signers must be definitely known by that time. "The drive for union petition signers has already consumed too much time," Jack Fischer, student council president, said Saturday. "We should have reached our goal long before this but the apathy shown by so many students has balked our efforts."

Immediate Action Necessary. "We cannot possibly extend the drive beyond Wednesday. If every student who has not signed the petition will make an effort to do so, or if every member of the committee of 100 will get ten more signers, we can put the student end of the campaign over easily." Special emphasis was given by members of the committee to the fact that ag students would be charged a special rate, probably not over $1 per semester. "Ag students will certainly not (Continued on Page 3.)

Muddy Track Mars Finals of Annual Cinder Carnival At Memorial Stadium Saturday; Last Year's Victors Take Cellar Role.

Table with 2 columns: State, Points. Rows: Oklahoma (65 1/2), Kansas State (53), Nebraska (36); Iowa State (32), Missouri (29), Kansas (24 1/2).

By Dick Kunzman. Oklahoma's Sooner track team, leading in the number of qualifiers Friday with sixteen men, skidded and splashed through a misty sea of mud and water Saturday afternoon on the Memorial stadium track to edge out Kansas State and capture her first Big Six conference title since the beginning of the Valley league. Taking seven first places, all but one of them in the dashes and distance races, the Oklahomans cut Ward Haylett's Kaggies, pre-favorites to take the meet, down to four firsts and second position, one ahead of Pa Schulte's Nebraskans.

Despite the watery carpet which covered the outside track, two new names were written into the "Who's Who" of the Big Six cinder world. Both the record breakers—Elwyn Dees in the shot put and Ray Noble in the pole vault—bore the insignia of the clan of Bill Hargiss, who couldn't carry his last year's champions any higher than last place.

Dees signed his name to the first of the new marks Friday afternoon in the qualifying competition when he heaved the iron ball out 51 feet 3 3/4 inches, more than a foot beyond his own record of 50 feet 1 3/4 inches set up last year. The Kansas made his record throw on his first heave, without even removing his sweat suit. The rain Saturday forced poor finals marks in the shot, discus, broad jump and javelin, the qualifying (Continued on Page 3.)

Architect's Plan for Main Floor of Union Building

Shown above is the main floor plan of the proposed student union building for Nebraska. The three-story L-shaped structure has been planned for a corner site with the entrance facing the intersection. In general, appearance of the building will be similar to that of the Alabama union. Level of the main floor would be several feet above the ground to allow sufficient natural light for rooms on the ground floor.

Plans for the ground and third floors are expected to be completed early this week together with elevations and perspectives, and will be published in the Daily Nebraskan.

PLAYERS TO PRESENT 'LADIES OF THE JURY' TWO DAYS THIS WEEK

Fred Ballard, Author of Comedy, to Attend Performance.

"Ladies of the Jury" an hilarious comedy written by Fred Ballard, is being whipped into shape by the University Players under the direction of Harold Sumption for two appearances on the Temple stage on Thursday and Friday, May 23 and 24. Mr. Ballard is a graduate of the university and, being in Lincoln at present, will attend one of the performances of his humor vehicle on woman jurists.

This production was seen on the Players stage several years ago and had a popular run according to Prof. Harriet A. Howell of the speech department. The play was originally written for Mrs. Fiske, one of the greatest actresses of the last generation. The part that was taken by Mrs. Fiske when the comedy made its debut will be played by Miss Howell.

The humor of the play is realized by displaying jury scenes in which various women show their reactions to the red tape of arriving at a jury verdict. In one scene the twelve jurors, both men and women, are required to stay cooped up for two days because the two balanced factions cannot agree. Some of the women's reactions provide excellent comedy according to Miss Howell.

Members of the original cast to appear in Lincoln five years ago and appearing again in the current run are: Pauline Galtly, Nora Ausburn, and Miss Howell. Among the other members of the cast who have been standbys in the Players' repertoire this season and will also work in "Ladies of the Jury" are: Harold Sumption, Armand Hunter, Dwight Perkins, Molly Carpenter, Veronica Villnave, Sidney Baker and Era Lewin.

The remaining actors in the cast are: Hart Jenks, Arthur Zimmer, May Posey, Bob Reed, Marjory Browne, Melville Fielder, Don Budd, Art Wolfe, and Dwight Loder. The cast is thought to be especially strong by Professor Howell.
