The Daily Nebraskan is the student publication of the University of Nebraska, and as such attempts to express the best opinion of the student body.

More Names Needed.

AN URGENT PLEA that 1,000 more students add their names to the Student Union petitions has been issued by the executive committee.

The advantages of a Union building are almost so obvious that they hardly need explanation.

Main floor plans published Sunday show provisions for a large dining room, office space, and a ballroom with ample floor space for all but the most extravagant of social functions.

A contrast of this with the present arrangement for activities serves to show the crying need for a Union. There is at the present time no place for banquets and luncheons to be held on the campus.

The only thing that the university now possesses in the way of a ballroom is the barnlike Coliseum. It is totally unfit for the smaller all-school parties.

The lack of a suitable eating place for luncheon or a quick lunch between classes is another pet gripe. The old Temple cafeteria, although much criticized, was well patronized by both faculty and students.

At the present time the publications offices are located in the dirty and inadequate cellars of University Hall; alumni offices are in the Temple building; lounging and loafing is necessarily done in "caking joints"; meetings are held everywhere from Social Science auditorium to the third floor rooms of the Temple building; both faculty and students are without adequate recreational facilities.

DESPITE all this the characteristic apathy of the campus still pervades the atmosphere. Signers for the petitions have been comparatively few and far between. And the deadline approaches without a sufficient indication of support for the committee to place before the Board of Regents.

Any objection to that fee seems ridiculous and unfounded. Undoubtedly in some cases it might take a little extra scraping to raise that $3 at registration time. But to offset that charge are the benefits to be derived from the Union by every student on the campus.

One thousand signatures are needed at once. With a student body of approximately 4,500 it is decidedly peculiar that only 2,000 have affixed their names to the petition. Unless the quota set by the committee is reached, the campus is likely to lose again its opportunity for the long-needed Union building.

SIGN THE PETITIONS.

A Sane View.

A SANE VIEW of the fraternity-barb situation was set forth recently by the president of the Inter-Club council. Rather than reviling the fraternities and sororities, as is characteristic of too many unaffiliated students, he admitted their desirability.

For many years a decidedly unhealthy situation existed on this campus. Fraternities were rightfully accused of holding exaggerated estimations of their own value and social position. The Greeks formed solid fronts in all activities, allowing no unaffiliated student to get in an oar.

During the past three years, however, a slow but definite change has been taking place. Fraternities and sororities, faced with failure, began to come down out of the clouds. Individual Greek students, beset with financial problems, woke up to the realization that unaffiliated students are after all human beings, and that practically the only difference between the two was in the size of the pocketbook.

At the same time there arose a movement, aided and abetted by affiliated students, for organization of the barbs. Strange to say, most of the resistance to the movement came from within the barb ranks, but a few leaders were quick to take advantage of the opening.

That movement has now resulted in the Inter-Club council and the Barb A. W. S. Unaffiliated students have made their way into all activities, and they are not begrudged their positions. Social lines are disappearing. But as the Inter-Club council president stated, these are just starters. Unaffiliated students, the majority of the campus population, deserve a place in the campus spotlight. It is for them to make their way.

Nason, post managing editor, took six. One member of the Crimson-White staff solved it in fifteen minutes, another in seventeen. The rest are still working on it.

You Figure It Out.

A few weeks ago the New York Post ran a puzzle which is still causing many a headache in America's metropolis. It was:

The king wished to choose the wisest man in his country as premier. To do so, he told three of the wisest: "I'm going to blindfold you and paint circles in red or blue on your forehead. When the bandages are removed, if you see a red circle anywhere, raise your right hand. When you have figured out the color of your own circle, lower the hand and the first to do that will be my premier."

"He is capable of building up a war psychology by consistently hammering his numerous readers with sensational headlines. The fear of war and the constant rehashing of what we are going to do when the next war comes builds up a fatalism which makes war a certainty in the minds of a lot of people."

suffer from a depression comparable to the present one as a direct result of that war."

As a hope for the League of Nations in a re-arming world, Eichelberger pointed out that England has the jitters and that she and every nation in Europe is running to the League for security. He says that the mutual assistance and non-aggression rates that have recently been signed in Europe are left open to Germany and any country signing them is not bound to anything that would be in violation of the covenant of the League.

Mr. Eichelberger mentioned the recent situation between Yugoslavia and Hungary as one in which the League mediated with success. He stated that European diplomats proclaimed this state of affairs between Hungary and Yugoslavia to be more serious than the motivating situation of 1914. "Troops were already on the march, but both countries blew off their steam at Geneva and the tension was relieved," he said.

CHANTS

BY CHANCE.

"Ladies of the Jury," the Fred Ballard play which will be a post-season offering of the University Players, will be given two performances only, on Thursday and Friday evening, May 23 and 24. This is the third revival of the play here at the Temple theater, and one of Miss H. Alice Howell's favorite plays. As in the past, the leading role, that of "Mrs. Livingstone Baldwin Crane," a society matron, will be played by Miss Howell. The play centers around the court room, with the members of the jury taking character roles.

On this jury are all the various types often found on real juries. Hart Jenks will play the part of a Scotchman, "Andrew Mac Kaig," Pete Sumpston will be the Italian, "Tony Theodolphus," and Bob Reade, the jury foreman, "Jayn J. Pressley." Armand Hunter is to play "Steve Brown," Melvin Fielder, "Spencer B. Dazey" and Dwight Perkins, "Alonzo." Mae Posey has been chosen to play the part of the tough little ex-chorus girl, "Mayme Mixer;" Molly Carpenter, "Lily Pratt;" and Polly Gellatly, "Cynthia Tate." Miss Howell, Nora Osborne as "Mrs. MacGuire," and Frances Brown as "Mrs. Dacey," are the other three jury members who help keep the courtroom in an uproar. Waldemar Mueller will be "Judge Fluke" of the court, and Dwight Loder the clerk. Dorothy Zimmer will be "Mrs. Gordon," Veronica Villnave, "Evelyn Snow," Clare Wolf, "Halsey Van Stye," Sid Baker, "Rutherford Dale;" Era Lown, "Bill Dobbs;" and Roy Squire, "Dr. Quincy Adams James, Jr."

Often former University Players return to the scene of their triumphs to star in current productions. This season several former players such as Hart Jenks, Dorothy Zimmer, Mary Kay McDonald, and Jay McLaughlin have returned for various plays. One however, who is returning for the first time since her graduation last year, is little Mae Posey. This petite Player surpassed Jean Harlow, according to some who saw the play, as the languorous blonde in the movie production. While an active member of the Players, the diminutive Alpha Phi took a prominent role in "The First Mrs. Fraser." In that play, Mae happened to be the "second Mrs. Fraser," however. She also played opposite Hart Jenks in the Shakespearean play, "Read To Rome." In this play, "Ladies of the Jury," Miss Posey is a gum-chewing, slangy little ex-chorus girl, "Mayme Mixer," who wins her way into your hearts as well as Pete Sumpston's. Before the play is ended, "Miss Mixer" and "Tony Theodolphus" decide to get married. Mae says she thinks "Mayme" is a "grand part," and if Mae likes a thing, look out! One of her special interests is tall brunettes, but the funny part is, she usually appears with blonds! She also has a yen for lemon sours and radio broadcasting. At the present time, when she isn't around the campus, she is broadcasting at KFDR, where she has a social hour.

As "Ladies of the Jury" is the last production to be presented this season, no doubt it will be well supported, especially since Fred Ballard is a Nebraska playwright and a former University Player. Many people think he had Miss Howell in mind when he created the starring role. At any rate, those who see it will soon know. Tickets are on sale at the Temple the evenings of the performance, and at Magee's in advance.

Students Offer Recital of Original Music Compositions, Arrangements

Annually original compositions by students in the theory department of the School of Music are presented at a student recital. This year seventeen students have written or arranged compositions which will be presented at the recital on Wednesday afternoon, May 22 at 4 o'clock in the Temple theater.

Winifred Rostede has arranged "Prayer" by Schubert for a string quartet and this will be played as the first selection on the program by a quartet composed of Mrs. August Moizer, first violin, Eunice Bingham, second violin, Professor Moizer, viola, and Lillian Elche, cello. The quartet will play as the second number, "Minuet Antique" by Karganov, which has been arranged for string quartet by Margaret Witke and which has been granted the Alpha Rho Tau award.

New Compositions. Evelyn Stowell is the composer of "Invention in C minor" which she will play as the next part of the program. It will be followed by "Invention in A minor" by Betty Zatterstrom, "Invention in G minor" by Helen Kunz, and "Invention in F minor" by Cornelia Whistler, which will be presented by Ruth Randall. Violet Vaughn has composed "Novolette," which she will play. "Fugue in C minor" will also be played by its author, Marie Wood. "Fugue in C minor," written by Russell Cummings, will be played by Ruth Randall. Marie Wood will also play "Invention in E minor" which she has composed and Ruth Hill will play her composition, "Fugue in E minor."

"Poem" Wins Award. "Symphonic Poem," by Harry Geiger was granted the Pi Kappa Lambda award and will be played by the composer. Eunice Bingham has written "Invention in G minor" which she will play, assisted by Paul Sell. Another of Miss Bingham's compositions, "Fugue in C minor" was granted the Alpha Rho Tau award. It will be presented by Eunice Bingham, first violin, Paul Sell, second violin, and Ruth Sibley, cello.

A suite for piano, "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" has been composed by Bernice Klein. It contains the following movements "Sleepy Hollow," "Ichabod Crane," "The Quilting Frolic," and "The Headless

WOMEN SWIMMERS TO COMPLETE LAST TOURNAMENT TODAY

Second Round Deck Tennis Must Be Finished by May 23.

Competitors in women's intramurals will compete their second and last swimming meet today at 5 p. m. Phi Mu carried off the honors in the meet held last week, with Kappa Kappa Gamma placing second, Chi Omega third, and the independent team fourth.

Entrants in swimming may enter any two of the following events: 25 yd. free style, 25 yd. back stroke, side stroke form, breast stroke form, plunge for distance, and diving.

Due to the seventy-three teams which are battling in the deck tennis tournament, much interest is being shown in the second round which must be completed May 23, by 6 p. m. or a forfeit for one or both teams will be posted.

Following is the schedule for deck tennis: Delta Gamma 3 vs Kappa Alpha Theta 1; Kappa Delta 2 vs Kappa Alpha Theta 2; Chi Omega 4 vs Phi Mu 6; Alpha Phi 1 vs Kappa Kappa Gamma 2; Delta Gamma 15 vs Chi Omega 1; Phi Mu 1 vs Delta Gamma 17; Kappa Delta 19 vs Gamma Phi Beta 3; Kappa Delta 5 vs Delta Gamma 7; Chi Omega 3 vs Kappa Delta 9; Delta Gamma 18 vs Kappa Delta 1; Chi Omega 2 vs Kappa Delta 3; Phi Mu 2 vs Kappa Delta 3.

The ladder tournament, which contestants in the tennis club began Monday of this week, will be played until this session of school is over. About twenty girls have entered. Each entrant has the privilege of challenging any person three spaces above her on the ladder, with the result that the winner and loser exchange places. One match must be played every week, and as many more as desired may be entered.

Chaney Takes 880 for Champ Sooners

Chaney of the championship Oklahoma squad led the field to the tape in the 880 yard run, followed closely by four Kansas State runners, which made it a monopoly for the two schools. The K-Aggie men trailing Chaney are, left to right, O'Reilly, fourth; Dill, second; and Eberhart, third. Kansas State took ten points out of the event, while Oklahoma nabbed five.
