Nebraska High School Seniors Receive 250 Tuition Awards From University

To 250 high school seniors in Nebraska go scholarships to the university for next year. They are given by the regents, and have an estimated value of $70 each. Winning students were awarded scholarships on the basis of grades made in an academic contest held last April.

A total of 1,229 students, representing 380 Nebraska high schools, took part in the fourth annual competition for the 250 scholarships. It was the largest number of students and schools to take part in this contest.

Highest Score.
Philip Southwick, Friend, made the highest score of all those taking the examination. He has definitely decided to enter the University of Nebraska next fall and will take chemical engineering work. Helen Larson of Mead and Althadene Christenson of Harvard were tied for second place. Miss Larson plans to enter the teachers college of the university and Miss Christenson is planning to enter the college of arts and sciences. Hallard Moyer of Chadron won third place.

Moyer plans to enter the college of engineering.

Examinations were held in the local high schools in April in at least five subjects. There were English and algebra classification tests for all contestants and at least three other academic examinations based upon the student's high school work and the field he intends to follow at the University of Nebraska.

In addition to the winners, a number of alternates were named who may be granted scholarships if the winners do not claim all the 250 awards. These scholarships are made for the first semester of the school year, and renewed if the student's work justifies it.

Winners of regents' scholarships rank well above the average in school work at the university, a survey shows. Among the upperclassmen now enrolled who won such awards for the freshman year, more than 60 percent rank over 80 in grades. About half the former scholarship holders have average grades over 85; and only one is below 75 percent.

300,000TH BOOK IS ENTERED IN LIBRARY

Staff Celebrates Third Mile Post in Library Acquisition.

The official recording of the three hundred thousandth volume to be entered on the university library records was celebrated Thursday afternoon by a staff tea held in the catalogue room of the library building. Miss Nellie Jane Compton, assistant librarian wrote the title, author, and book number of the volume on the library records. Miss Compton has been in the service of the university library since 1896 when she was employed as a student assistant.

Twenty-three years ago, March 14, 1912, Dr. W. K. Jewett, then librarian, recorded the entrance of the hundred thousandth volume in the presence of his staff. On Oct. 13, 1925, the two hundred thousandth book arrived, but passed through the hands of the catalogers apparently unnoticed.

The volume selected for the distinction of bearing the accession number 300,000 is a handsome edition of Emily Bronte's famous novel, Wuthering Heights, illustrated with twelve wood engravings by Clare Leighton.

The catalogue room was decorated with bouquets of peonies in honor of the occasion. Tea and cookies were served.

JUNE ALUMNUS GIVES ACTIVITIES SUMMARY

tary's report by Ray Ramsay, points to the increasing membership, renewed interest and activity in Charter Day and other alumni work, and progress toward a student union building, and definite symbols of a brighter future.

Defending Nebraska's position beyond the pale of the ten outstanding universities in the United States, an article, "To Nebraska's Defense," explains the difficulties and curtailed budget under which the university is compelled to operate. The author declares that despite the fact that it is not heavily endowed as are most schools of the leading ten, the University of Nebraska has achieved distinct honor for the quality and work of many of its departments, while its graduates comprise about 1 percent of the college students listed in Who's Who.

A short resume of the university's history during the 1934-35 term is given in "A Successful Year," by Chancellor E. A. Burnett, who discussed enrollment, present and future needs, and the service of the university to the state.

New officers of the Alumni Association are introduced in the June issue while "Class Reunions" and "N. U.'s Sixty-Fourth Crop," describe activities of round-up and graduation week.

In "Nebraska's Honors" appear brief biographies of the six recipients of honorary degrees at the June 10 commencement. Three of the men had previously earned degrees at Nebraska.

Two full pages of snapshots depicting round-up and graduation week activities as well as a full page scene of Andrews hall are features of the June edition.

In addition to the regular departments such as Campus News, "The Librarian's Page," and news concerning individual alumni, are the Auditor's report, and a chart showing scholastic rating of various campus organizations.

BOARD DISCONTINUES SWIMMING POOL FEE

Regents to Use Fund for Student Health Work Beginning July 1.

Improvement in student health facilities for the coming year is assured by recent action of the university board of regents. As approved by the regents, the use of one-half of the medical service fee for the swimming pool has been discontinued and beginning July 1, 1935, all of the $2 per semester collected as a medical service fee be used for student health work and the student infirmary.

Among the improvements planned by the regents are the employment of a full-time woman physician and the appointment of an additional full-time nurse for the student infirmary.

INDUSTRIAL FILMS TO BE SHOWN STUDENTS

Industrial educational pictures will be filmed for science and engineering classes the morning of June 21, at 9, 10, and 11 at Morrill hall. The program is being sponsored by a prominent industrial concern. All summer school students are invited as well as those who are in these classes.

Featured in the program are pictures showing the mechanism of the operation of the largest automatic electric sign in the world, new improvements in internal combustion engines, and safety devices on automobiles.
