

'We're Going to Win,' Asserts Cornhusker Team

BIBLEMEN KEYED FOR CONQUEST OF TOUTED GOPHERS

Minnesota Is Favored Team By Sports Press Dopesters.

NOT NEBRASKA ATTITUDE 'Cornhuskers Won Once,' Stadium Signs Shout.

Minnesota is coming to town Saturday. Minnesota—the very name bears a sense of foreboding disaster. Minnesota the powerful, Minnesota the hardy, Minnesota the mighty Hammerers of the North. National champions in 1934—1935 finds them minus a passel of Coach Bernie Bierman's choicest hands, but still on top of the heap in football rankings.

Saturday Minnesota meets Nebraska on Memorial Stadium sod. Two mighty powers in combat over gridiron supremacy. The goal is not hard to find in all probability another undefeated season for the Vikings, for the remainder of their schedule is not difficult. For the Huskers added glory to their conquest of Chicago and Iowa State and national honors galore.

Vikings Favorite Now. Minnesota is the favorite now. Critics show northern leanings when looking the game over from "dope" statistics.

But that's not the attitude in the stadium sanctum of Dana X. Bible's Cornhuskers. There is an air of fortification, of grim determination about the place. You sort of sense something, an aura of foreboding events. Events of great magnitude. There is something cryptic, mysterious, invisible about it all—it kind of gets you. You expect something. You're looking forward to something.

And the men around you. There's not the usual lackadaisical indifference conversation as they doff "civies" and arm themselves with shoulder pads, hip pads, helmets. Along about this time in the week the men are gambolistic in words and actions—no many young colts frolicking in a pasture. But not this week. They're set, determined. They're steeled hard—men. There's something kind of awe-inspiring and powerful about them. You sense cogency as they move lightly to and fro, thewled bodies rippling.

'We're Going to Win.' They will talk. But not much. Their expression tells a lot more. It can be summarized briefly: "We're going to beat Minnesota!" It isn't boastful bragging, the swaggerish bravado that the underdog adopts when he knows he's beaten. It's the real McCoy. It's power, it's—It's Huskerism. It's what every Nebraskan from the Missouri to Colorado is chanting in unison with his team: "We're going to beat Minnesota!" It's a product of belief, of confidence, of prayers and hopes and ambitions, and it's what's going to happen Saturday.

There are two signs hanging in the Cornhusker dressing room this week. One is a huge red "Minnesota Saturday" on a white background. The other expresses a lot more. It reads:

Nebraska Won Once. "Yes! Nebraska Won Once Upon a Time. "No, You Can't Remember, but the Old Timers Say It Was 22 Years Ago. "How much longer will we have to wait?"

Just until Saturday, is the Nebraska football team's answer to the last question—just until Saturday. Just until we get one crack at those Vikings. Just until Cardy and Sam and Chief and Jerry swing into action, just until—but they won't say more, those men of the Scarlet and Cream.

Rally Friday. "Minnesota has weight and plenty of reserves," warns Dana X. Bible, "but we're going to make up for that with speed and spirit. We're going to get the speed out there on the gridiron, but we're going to depend on you students to work up the spirit, and with plenty of it, with the firm assurance that the entire campus is behind us, we'll go in there and win from Minnesota."

Friday night the entire university is going to rally for its team. Every student in school is going to do his part to put that team on the field with all the pep and enthusiasm in the world behind it.

Kansas State Football Coaches and Veterans

This is what Kansas State football fans see when they think of their 1935 football team—the 16 lettermen who are expected to be the nucleus of the 1935 eleven. In the list are Captain Dean Griffing, center; Ralph Churchill, end; Maurice Elder, fullback; Leo Ayers, quarterback; Don Beeler, guard; Oran Burns, end; Augustus Casar Cardarelli, guard; Jim Edwards, fullback; Don Flenthrope, tackle; Paul Fanning, tackle; Barney Hays, end; Rolla Holland, guard; Robert Kirk, back; Dan Partner, guard; Ted Warren, back; Ivan Wassberg, center.

'Doc' McLean Seriously Ill in Local Hospital

The Husker football team is still preparing for Minnesota this Saturday, but it isn't the same team, for Trainer "Doc" McLean isn't there. The Husker miracle-worker in sprained muscles and injured joints is suffering with a serious attack of kidney trouble, and has been taken to the Lincoln General hospital.

Dr. Earl Deppen, team physician, declared that Doc's condition was serious after a blood transfusion Tuesday morning. The Husker trainer's presence with the team is invaluable, especially before the supremely important test with Minnesota, and both Husker athletes and fans were gravely concerned over his condition.

That plays its part in winning football games. Its inspiring, encouraging to the men on the field, gives them that little extra something that might be the difference between victory and defeat Saturday.

FRESHMAN TEAM TO SHOW GOPHER PLAYS

Coach Weir's Eleven Meets Varsity Squad This Afternoon.

Coach Ed Weir's frosh will be mighty busy the remainder of this week attempting to demonstrate the University of Minnesota's plays and formations for the benefit of the Huskers. The frosh will have a session with the varsity Wednesday afternoon and all the Gopher tricks will be revealed to them. Reports from the north indicate that Coach Bierman and his tribe are pointing for the Nebraska game and the Huskers are likewise getting set for next Saturday's great inter-sectional game.

Next Friday afternoon an eleven from the frosh roster will be selected to play one of the league tests. Coach Weir indicated that those frosh who have not been given much scrimmage opportunity will be picked. The game is an endeavor to unearth hidden grid talent from the unknown and untried frosh.

JAYHAWKERS PREPARE FOR MICHIGAN BATTLE

Kansas Scores 42 Points in St. Benedict Tilt.

LAWRENCE, Kansas, Oct. 9.—Battered by a rough and tough contest with the St. Benedict's Ravens last Saturday, which was won by the overwhelming score of 42-0, the Kansas Jayhawkers experienced a light workout this afternoon before starting preparation for the strong Michigan State eleven which they will meet at East Lansing next Saturday. While Kansas was drubbing the Ravens, Michigan State was also romping on Michigan to the tune of 25-6.

Saturday's game showed the Jayhawkers scoring in nearly every possible way to run up her total to 42 points. Touchdowns from rushing, from intercepted passes, from completed passes, return of punts all contributed to the victory.

Seven players, two of them sophomores, figured in the Kansas scoring. John Peterson; Bill Decker, who ran back a punt 42 yards through the entire Raven squad; R. B. Hayes; Howard Morland, a sophomore; and Clarence Douglas, also a sophomore who made two scored touchdowns. Points after touchdowns were scored 100 percent. Tommy McCall, kicking four and Fred Harris accounting for the other two. Douglas, left-footed sophomore, booted the ball over the St. Benedict goal line four different occasions on the kickoff, the runner being downed on the 2-yard line at one time. Of the Jayhawkers who made up K. U.'s starting and reserve squad last year, 12 will be on hand for the battle next Saturday. Three of the starting backfield are back although Mano Stukey, who received a head injury in last week's fray, will probably not be seen in action. Harris, punter; and Peterson, whose great defensive work helped hold Michigan State boys to a lone score last year will be ready to go. In the line will be Dick Sklar, all Big Six guard; John Seigle, R. B. Hayes, veteran end, who starred on defense in both the Notre Dame and St. Benedict game; Dean Nesmith, tackle; Ed Phelps, center; and Humphreys, end. Other players who saw action last year are: George Haggood, who figured in 8 of K. U.'s 11 touchdowns last season; Joe Giannangelo; and Bill Decker, who scored in last week's game.

Jayhawkers who carried the brunt of the K. U. attack last week are: Douglass who carried the ball 40 yards in 9 tries; Harris, who made 21 yards in 7 tries; Peterson 15 yards in 3 tries; Wienecke 17 yards in 5 tries and Decker who made 19 yards in 11 tries.

'GO-FUR THE GOPHERS' BATTLE CRY OF WEEK BEFORE MINNESOTA TILT (Continued from Page 1.) will move on down to the coliseum. Members of Corn Cobs, men's pep organization, have gathered all manner of inflammable material for a tremendous bonfire behind the coliseum. Trucks will be drawn up here at the theater and speakers will be seated on them, in full view of the crowd and in the glare of the fire.

Dana X. Bible will act as Master of Ceremonies at the bonfire, and will introduce his team and the speakers. James Heldt, Scottsbluff senior tackle, will answer on behalf of the Biblemen. He is captain for Saturday's conflict.

Towle to Speak. Max Towle, who played on the Nebraska eleven of 1913 which defeated Minnesota 7 to 0 for the midwestern championship, will give a pep talk at the bonfire.

Following the bonfire events, the parade will follow the band down 12th street to "P" street and thence to the Stuart theater for a down town rally in the theater. Innocents, Corn Cobs, Tassels, "N" Club, and band will gather on the Stuart stage to lead students in honor of their team.

"This is the biggest home game of the season," stated Fred Chambers, chairman of the Student Rally Committee, "and we want to make it the biggest rally of the year. Everyone should be out, and we ask students to form orderly lines in the parade and to stay out of cars. If this is going to be a good rally everyone should walk and join into the spirit and pep of the occasion."

"The Corn Cobs will do all in their power to make this rally a great success," said Ted Bradley president. "We are going to see that this bonfire can be seen all the way to Omaha, where, as we understand it, the Minnesota team is going to spend the night, and we're going to make this rally heard all the way back to Minneapolis. But in order to do so, we must have the co-operation of every student in the parade, and this entails keeping in orderly rows and leaving cars behind."

SCARLET CINDER ASPIRANTS TRAIN FOR CONFERENCE

Twenty Marathon Specialists Report for Season's Work.

They're at it again! Coach Henry Schulte's cross country track aspirants, with Assistant Coach Glenn Funk, Husker ace two-miler of last year, showing the way, are winding their way round the Memorial stadium track again in preparation for another conference cinder season.

Some twenty marathon specialists have been following Funk around the turns in the stadium oval the past week, getting in shape for the coming campaign. But the newly-appointed member of the Husker coaching staff isn't satisfied. "We want a lot more runners out here," he said Tuesday. "We've got a nucleus for a fine team, but we've got to have some more candidates to arouse a little interest and competitive spirit."

Chief among the distance artists are Bob Morris, Wilson Andrews, and Chet Beaver. Beaver and Morris are veterans at the mile and two mile. Beaver having provided a very substantial pillar in the Husker team for the last two seasons. Morris, also only a sophomore, is an old hand at the game, having scintillated on the Lincoln high cinders and participated in the junior A. A. U. mile last July.

Also prominent among the sweat-clothed track-pounders are Harwin Dawson, speedy North Platte sprinter who is working at and Rice, and Ray Madison, distance men last year. Sophomore standouts are Roy Blikt, Harold West, Leo Hunt, and Walt Stolle. Howard White, another member of Pa Schulte's team last year, has not returned to the cinder wars.

Sesco Asher, Scottsbluff veteran, has also been doing his stuff, altho he will not be eligible until the second semester. Asher was half a lap behind Funk last week when the Central City assistant coach turned in a mile and a half in 7:16.

Three conference tilts have been scheduled for the five man team which will wear the Scarlet colors between the halves of Nebraska football games this fall. Oklahoma will bring what is probably the strongest cross-country team in the conference to Lincoln on Oct. 12. The Sooners will be headed by Floyd Lochner, Big Six champion last spring and a nationally-recognized threat in the mile. The Huskers will tangle with Kansas State and Missouri when Dana X. Bible's football warriors meet those universities, and will compete in the conference championship tilt at Manhattan Nov. 24.

'Mangle Minnesota.' SELLECK SEES SELLOUT CROWD FOR MIDWEST CLASSIC SATURDAY. (Continued from Page 1.) Missouri game in 1928. This other approach to the record reached the "sellout" stage two hours before game time, and consisted of some 3,000 knot holders. The kids will not be admitted to the bleachers this year, but will be entertained at a gridgraph party in the coliseum.

Meanwhile, across the fence from the financial department, Coach Dana Bible was pursuing tactics far from coincident with John Selleck's "We're in the money" actions. The Husker mentor is doing nothing that might be interpreted as a confident attitude toward Minnesota. Monday the twice-victorious Scarlet warriors were handed a duo of new plays and were told that they must develop a scoring punch before they could stand up with the Gophers.

Forwards Warned. It is possible that the Husker backfield might be a little in the dark concerning the nature of a "scoring punch." But Roy Lyman's front wall, after watching Cameron Ed Weir's pictures of the Minnesota 20 to 0 licking last year, could not fail to see the obligation devolving upon them. Altho Roy Lyman's efforts in reconstructing the front fence have left no room for criticism, and remembering that Minnesota is not a shadow of her last year's battering ram, the manner in which the Gophers surged thru the Nebraska line, the way in which Bernie Bierman's line surged thru into the Husker backfield could not fail to serve as a warning to what may happen if the Biblemen aren't on their guard.

Tuesday's workout was confined largely to defensive maneuvers with the freshmen carrying the ball.

Defense Strong. It's an injustice to the Huskers of course, to say "carried," for Ed Weir's prizes couldn't do much more than keep the ball on the line of scrimmage. The Husker line of Lester McDonald and Bernie Scherer, at ends, Johnny Williams and Kenneth McGinnis at guard, Jimmie Heldt and Jack Ellis at tackle and Paul Morrison at center didn't tolerate any monkey business on the part of the frosh.

and when an occasional black-shirted hopeful did crash thru, a backfield of Sam Francis, Jerry LaNoue, Lloyd Cardwell, and Henry Bauer saw to it that any ambitions he might have had were submerged immediately.

Ellis in at Tackle. Ellis' presence in Fred Shirey's usual tackle post will add a little more avoirdupois to the line, and it may prove a powerful factor in meeting the Minnesota artillery. Elmer Dohrman and Ladas Hubka were not on hand to start the scrimmage, but McGinnis at guard and McDonald at end displayed plenty of power in the Cyclone game and are expected to compete on equal terms with the usual holders.

Cardwell and Francis, altho participating in the scrimmage, took it easy, as in the last half of the Cyclone mix, since Coach Bible is taking no chances of having his powerhouse backfield depleted by injuries. Bernie Scherer, who suffered slight bruises last week end, was out in full strength again.

'Go-fur the Gophers.' Patterson Speaks on 'The Right to Believe'

"The Right to Believe" was the subject of a lecture given by Dr. Charles Patterson of the philosophy department at the Y. W. C. A. vespers which was held in Ellen Smith hall Tuesday afternoon. With Margaret Philippe directing, the vesper choir appeared for the first time at the vespers and devotionals were under the direction of Eleanor Clizbe.

CORN COBS TO SELL RED 'N' MEGAPHONES, PENNANTS AT GAMES

Pep Group to Inaugurate Subscription Drive for Awgwan.

That red "N" pennants and megaphones will be sold at the football games by the Corn Cobs, men's pep organization, was made definite Tuesday by an announcement by Ted Bradley, president, that the cheering novelties would be received this week.

Since the concession of selling programs at the games and a closed night for a university party were not allowed to the group this year, the organization decided at its last meeting to adopt this new project to raise funds for the treasury. Plans were also made to inaugurate a new subscription sales drive for the Awgwan, campus humor magazine. Subscription blanks will be passed out Wednesday evening.

A report concerning the eligibilities of members and pledges will be given at the meeting. All new pledges are expected to bring the pledge fee with them if they have not paid.

Bradley declared that it is imperative that all active members as well as new pledges be present at all meetings which will be held every Wednesday evening. Three unexcused absences will result in a member's loss of certain privileges, he stressed.

'Go-fur the Gophers.' Social Dancing. The social dancing class will meet Friday evening from 7 until 9 o'clock in the armory.
