HONORARY PLANS FOR HOMECOMING

Innocents Society Makes Arrangements for Annual Party on Nov. 9 Following Football Game With Kansas University.

NIGHT CLOSED OTHER CAMPUS HAPPENINGS

Featured CBS and WGN Orchestra Arrives Here From Hotel Lowry in St. Paul Where It Played Regularly Over Station WCCO.

Tom Gentry and his Ambassadors, featured CBS and WGN orchestra, has been signed for the annual Homecoming Party by the Innocents, senior men's honorary sponsoring the dance. The event, which has been granted a closed night, is scheduled for Nov. 9 following the Kansas University football game.

Gentry's band comes to Lincoln from a recent engagement at Hotel Lowry in St. Paul, where it played regularly over WCCO. "Inflated claims about Tom Gentry's band aren't necessary to make this party a success," declared Irwin Ryan, member of the orchestra committee, "everyone acquainted with Columbia chain programs is acquainted with the caliber of this orchestra. We feel fortunate and proud to be able to present this band to the student body."

Works in Hollywood.
Show business is home for Gentry—his parents owned a circus. Leaving his family to go to Hollywood, he played three years in westerns as a handsome cow-puncher hero. Returning to his native state, Georgia, he organized his present orchestra known as the Ambassadors, which soon won a contract for the Biltmore Supper Club.

Discovered by Ben Marshall, director of the Drake and Blackstone hotels in Chicago, he began a long engagement at the Blackstone with a broadcast over WGN and the Columbia chain.

The World's Fair came to town, and Gentry moved into the Streets of Paris to play at the Casanova club, with WBBM featuring his music on their local and network programs. Ciro's Opera club followed with the reopening of the Chicago fair. After its closing, he began a tour of an eastern chain of theaters, beginning at the Palace stage in Chicago.

Entertainment Planned.
To augment the two features of Homecoming day, various groups have special entertainment planned for their alumni. Competition will be reopened for the best Homecoming decorations among fraternities and sororities, house parties have been planned for the preceding night, and alumni dinners will be staged before the dance.

Committee chairmen for the society are Don Shurtleff, orchestra; Irwin Ryan, publicity; Jim Marvin, decorations; and Irving Hill, tickets.

Shurtleff Dons Law Derby; Vows to Take Appeal to Authority

Don Shurtleff has been awarded the Brown Derby, weekly award of the freshman class in the Law college for the "dumbest crack" pulled during the week by a member of the class.

At the official presentation of the award, no specific case of dumbness was pointed out, but the Derby was given to Shurtleff on general principles.

While still receiving congratulations, Shurtleff issued the following statement:

"I am going to carry my appeal to the highest authority. My appeal will be based on the contention that I was denied my constitutional rights according to the fifth and fourteenth amendments to the constitution. Every citizen is granted due process of law. The decision of the freshman law class was rendered in an extremely disorderly and unconstitutional manner. All in all, it was a dirty gyp."

When asked to what authority he intended to appeal the decision, Shurtleff answered that he didn't know, but, nevertheless, he is going to appeal.

While the class was studying the legal process called by the term, demur, Shurtleff blossomed forth with this gem, "Demur the Merrier."

Despite Shurtleff's contention that he is a victim of injustice, his classmates feel that the decision is perfectly correct and just, as expressed by unanimous acclaim.

YEARBOOK OPENS NOMINATIONS FOR QUEENS CONTEST

Tassels Start Cornhusker Two Weeks Sales Drive Monday.

Nominations for the Nebraska Queens contest, conducted jointly with sales of the new Cornhusker yearbook, will open this week according to Business Manager Eugene Pester. One nomination will be awarded to each sorority that purchases twenty annuals, and barb girls will be allowed five candidates.

A new high record is being sought by the Tassels, girls pep organization, which took over Cornhusker sales this year. Their sales campaign opened Monday and will last two weeks.

Low Prices.
With a low price of only four dollars, the lowest priced annual published by any school in the Big Six district, the effort being made by the salesmen is expected to bring favorable results. For students not wishing to buy a book outright, a plan has been introduced whereby it may be paid for in four installments amounting to $4.25. One dollar is due when the book is ordered, two equal payments on Dec. 1 and Jan. 10, and the balance payable on receipt of the book in the spring.

Two Weeks Limit.
"All subscriptions must be purchased during the next two weeks," cautions Eugene Pester, business manager of the Cornhusker. "Last year the staff was forced to disappoint over two hundred students desirous of buying books after they had been published."

This year's annual is expected to be one of the most outstanding in the history of the university, according to a report of Faith Arnold, editor-in-chief. "Since a color scheme of scarlet and cream, Nebraska's own colors, and many (Continued on Page 3.)

Faction Fears Foul Play When President Disappears Monday

On election eve, zero hour in a political faction president's career, Frank Landis had the misfortune to be kidnaped. Landis, who is executive head of the Green Toga party, stood waiting on the Temple steps for the hour of dinner party to approach.

Suddenly a large passenger bus, jammed with Sigma Chi pledges, bore down R street on the way to Omaha and a sneak night celebration. In a minute the idol of sorority supper speeches found himself a prisoner, bound with ropes and to Omaha.

Faction friends, fearing foul fenigling, fared forth to find leaders of the opposing party, who might have had a hand in the disappearance. Possibly Progressive party patriots were prompted to the deed with the idea of revenge for last spring's lawn party.

Light came when the pledges delivered a ransom note to the Kappa house, giving gory details of the abduction. "Police are patrolling the highways," it read. "Although the deed is attributed to the opposing party, brother 'salme' of the victim were responsible." All public fears were allayed by the closing paragraph, which read, "Brother Landis will be deposited on the Sigma Chi front stoop with Tuesday's Daily Nebraskans."

SCHOOL TO BRING JAMES STEPHENS FOR CONVOCATION

Hertzler Announces Well Known Poet to Speak Here Nov. 26.

PLAN HORACE PROGRAM

Students to Commemorate Birth of Writer in December.

Dr. J. O. Hertzler and the convocation committee have arranged to bring James Stephens, the well known Irish poet, novelist and critic, to the university for a convocation Nov. 26. Plans are also under way for a Horace commemoration program to be observed by the university sometime in December.

Whiting Williams, nationally known industrial consultant and lecturer will speak on the subject, "What's on the Worker's Mind" at the first general school convocation this Thursday at 11 a. m. in the Temple. As vice president in charge of a Cleveland steel company's personnel, Williams, in 1919, needed first hand information about his workers so he put a few dollars in his pocket, changed his name, put on overalls and became a journeyman laborer in America's mines and factories.

Determined to get further information about working conditions he labored for three years in the coal mines and steel plants in England, France and Germany. (Continued on Page 2.)

AWGWAN TO APPEAR WEDNESDAY MORNING WITH NEW FEATURE

'Campus Tempo' Added to Editorial Content of Magazine.

An editorial demand for better dance music at important social events of the university, including the military ball, interterritory ball, and junior-senior prom, is made in the Oct. issue of the Awgwan, which appears on the campus Wednesday morning. The editorial comments entitled "Campus Tempo," a new feature in the magazine this year.

Orchestras preferred by many students in a survey made by the Awgwan include Kay Kyser, Sleepy Hall, Joe Sanders, Bernie Cummins, Nobel Sissle, Tom Gentry, Smith Ballew, Art Kassel, Herbie Kay, and Ted Weems. The magazine contacted these orchestras through booking agents and found that all of them are available this year for the military ball and at reasonable prices, if those in charge care to get one of them.

The military ball of last year was criticized. Although the gross income was more than three thousand dollars, and the net profits more than one thousand, those who attended spent the evening listening to "Louis Panico wailing the 'Wabash Blues' on his famous trumpet before a band of pick-up musicians." The magazine says that upon the choice of the orchestra the success of the ball depends.

Bengtson, Van Royen Compose Book on Economic Geography

"No longer need there be fear of a world growing old, nor need there be fear of imminent overpopulation. The productive genius of man has been demonstrated and the necessity of the scientific spirit is evident. The social genius is still to be tested. It is this social and economic world which confronts us that should fire adventurous minds with enthusiasm. This, however, cannot be the final goal. Beyond lies the problem of developing greater and deeper human happiness, for men will have many hours daily wherein they need not toil at grinding tasks. Those hours should be conducive to scholarship, literary achievement and to the arts of painting, drama and music."

A book of 802 pages, from which the above quotation has been taken, so entirely new in the treatment of its subject matter that it will bring a significant amount of prestige not only to its authors but to the University of Nebraska and the state as well, has just been published by Dr. Neils A. Bengtson and Dr. Willem Van Royen of the

INNER CONFLICT DISTURBS FINAL ELECTION SETUP

Campaign Methods of Both Parties Attacked; No Prosecution Seen.

By Politicus VI.
Rallies were in order and orderly Monday night, when both factions made their final bid for the feminine vote. Cruiser cars, touring sorority row, detected no disorderly outbreaks in the rising enthusiasm of the fall election; downtown newspaper and press services were disappointed.

Underneath this public front a disorderly conflict was taking place, as far as the rules of the game were concerned. Last week Progressive supporters advertised their slate with colored ribbons, with their candidates' names stamped on them. Green Toga leaders, not to be outdone, printed handbills to be distributed Monday night and Tuesday.

Conservative elements in each faction, set against these campaign methods foreign to Nebraska tradition in the past few years at least, began a check and counter-check on legality. The result is that both parties may be guilty of violating a Student Council ruling on elections; the Green Toga party more so because their printed matter was distributed, not simply worn. What action either party may take in filing complaints will probably determine the outcome; it is doubtful that the Student Council will attempt any prosecution with the view of throwing out the entire slate or slates.

Who's going to win? The Green Togas have adopted a "Coach Bible" philosophy to replace the usual party optimism; some of them see no hope while others cheerily predict a split vote. The Progressives are old-fashioned—they foresee another Progressive landslide and let no gloomy thoughts allay their enthusiasm.

A short business meeting will precede the program.
