

'CHUGGER' SAM—LINE RUINER NO. 1.

No One Man Is Biblemen's Star This Year.

By Arnold Levin. Sam "the Chugger" Francis did what the mud prevented Lloyd Cardwell and Jerry LaNoue from doing Saturday, and ripped things up in general and the Missouri line in particular. Sam's the Chugger is one of the most feared line ruiners in these parts—not that he wasn't before he invaded Columbia, but his deeds there didn't harm his reputation in the least.

Outside of his proficiency at taking the ball yards in the general direction of the Missouri goal, he turned in much fine booting of a water logged, slippery ball for the Scarlet cause.

One peculiarity of the Cornhusker backs this season—no one man is outstanding game by game. The high spot spotlight moves from one glittering emulate to another without resting on any chosen one for more than a game or two. Which means that the backfield is as well balanced as a well balanced backfield may be without being over balanced.

Football men are having their autographs collected on a football to be given away to the lucky number holder at the homecoming ball Saturday. But as yet no one has asked Lloyd Cardwell if he plays.

"Kan Kansas" is the Nebraska campus battle cry. Some wag has asked "Can Kansas?" Which might be an attempt at humor or downright doubt of the Huskers' football ability. Somehow, from the general opinion of the game, I'd say it's an attempt at humor.

It might sound like two teams of Biblemen opposing each other, but it's not. It is strictly a university affair. That's the Daily Nebraskan-Cornhusker annual tilt to determine the gridiron superiors of University hall. With plenty of everything, the Daily Nebraskan is favored to repeat past victories. From an absolutely nonpartisan standpoint, this department can't see the Cornhusker team come out with under less than 20 points scored by the Daily. Their reserves aren't of the best, their starting lineup will boast of several weak points. But their coach has a dimple.

COLD WEATHER HAMPERS BIBLEMEN;

Big Six Title Clash Coming Up Saturday

BAUER'S RETURN BRIGHTENS HOPES

'Chief' Back in Harness as Preparations to Meet Jays Continue in Full Swing; Hapgood's Passes Bear Threat to Nebraska Aspirations.

LATERALS WORK WELL AGAINST FROSH

Hubka Drills Despite Cheek Injury Suffered Against Tigers; Fischer, Funken, Mercier Promoted To Varsity; Day Scouts Pitt.

Napoleon had nothing on Coach Dana Bible Tuesday afternoon. The French commander who marched into the freezing cold of Russian winter found his modern counterpart yesterday in the Cornhusker football dictator who marched his Scarlet soldiers through heavy passing charges in the chilly frost of the Memorial stadium practice field.

After rolling Don Faurot's Missourians into a Columbia gridiron that would have baffled Johnny Weismuller and a flock of mud hens, the Huskers met another weather extreme Tuesday in the first of the preparations for Kansas university this Saturday. Sweat shirts, sheep lined coats, and steaming breaths were in fashion, as the Scarlet waited through a passing session designed to set Kansas back in her place. Jays Undeclared.

The Jayhawks hold their undefeated league record and the top place in the conference by virtue of an aerial surprise in the last half minute of play against Oklahoma last Saturday. George Hapgood's accurate passing arm looks dangerously threatening to the Nebraska title aspirations unless the men of Bible can perfect a counter-attack of their own.

Two squads rambled against each other in an effort to perfect that attack yesterday. Thereupon Ed Weir's freshmen played the role of the conquered and went on defense against the alternating elevens. Sam Francis, Chief Bauer, Harris Andrews, and Johnny Howell were doing the main portion of the flipping, and Les McDonald, Bernie Scherer, and John Richardson were on the receiving end. The laterals which resulted in the Nebraska victory Saturday were in order again, Lloyd Cardwell and Johnny Williams working together frequently on the lateral that produced the second Husker touchdown. Just to get back in practice and offer a diversion, Sam Francis reeled off 20 yards or so thru the line at intervals, although heavy tackling was taboo.

Bauer Back in Lineup. Husker hopes in the injury department were looking brighter with the presence in the first string lineup of Chief Bauer and Ladas Hubka. Bauer's ankle was still an aggravation, and Hub was wearing a specially-designed guard to protect his cheek, but both were on in full swing. Both will undoubtedly get into the conflict Saturday, although Ken McGinnis will probably start in Hubka's place. Doctor Deppen opining that Hub couldn't make the starting grade. The first string starting lineup had Scherer and McDonald at ends, McGinnis and Williams at guard; Heldt and Shirey at tackle; Bob Mehring at center, and Howell, Cardwell, Francis, and LaNoue in the backfield. Harold Holmbeck, recovering from a shoulder injury, was alternating with Heldt.

Three additional athletes were coveting in varsity colors, Coach Bible having promoted three B players to the Scarlet squad. Benno Funken, Omaha, guard; Jack Fischer, Valentine, halfback; and Jack Mercier, Lincoln, end, earned removal to the Scarlet ranks, having sparkled in the nubbins corps which finished its season last Saturday.

Day Watches Pitt. Bill Day gets the only coaching assignment this weekend, spying on Pittsburg, playing Army at Pitt. Day watched the Panthers against Fordham last Saturday. Ed Weir, who has the record of never having a team he has scouted whip the Husker in 17 games, will watch Oregon States against Idaho a week from Saturday. The Huskers will meet the Oregon eleven Thanksgiving Day at Lincoln in the season's finale.

ASPIRANTS CHECK OUT 85 BASKETBALL SUITS

Varsity, Freshman Report for Regular Workouts at Coliseum.

Eighty-five basketball suits have been checked out to varsity and freshman aspirants, and regular workouts are being held every afternoon at the coliseum, according to Assistant Coach Morris Fisher. Of this group, ten will be eligible for varsity competition this year. They include Parsons, Walquist, Whitaker, Baker, Wampler, Nelson, Belca, Munn, Duff, and Scott. The remainder of the squad consists of freshmen and second year men who will not be eligible for varsity competition until next year. "Because the varsity squad is small at the present time, and will not be much larger until the close of football season, at which time

BIG SIX LEADING JAYHAWKS LOOK TO TITULAR TILT

Kansas Retains Position at Top of Conference Standings.

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 6.—With the hoped-for, but hardly expected victory over Oklahoma a reality, the Kansas Jayhawkers looked forward to the Nebraska game next Saturday, and the possibilities of finishing well up in the conference standings. After dropping two nonconference games by decisive scores, the Jayhawkers opened their conference season a week ago by defeating Kansas State here 9 to 2. Saturday they went to Norman and in a last minute pass defeated the Sooners, coached by Biff Jones, 7 to 0.

Kansas thus retains its position at the top of conference standings, with Nebraska a close second. This situation shows the important place next Saturday's game has in the hopes of the Jayhawkers, since it is Nebraska's last conference

To Stage Inter-Class Tournament in Boxing

To advance the art and science of pugilism in the university, an inter-class boxing tournament will be staged Nov. 13 at 8 p. m. in the coliseum, it was announced Tuesday by Harold Matthews, assistant instructor in boxing.

Matthews encouraged all interested men to report to him if they wish to participate in the matches. There will be six or seven weight divisions.

From Matthews' two classes, thirty-five men have signified their intentions to take part in the inter-class sparring tournament. There will be no admission charge for spectators.

HUSKERS-KANSAS IN TITULAR CLASH

Jays Retain Conference Leadership by Downing Sooners 7-0 in Stunning Upset Victory as Biblemen Bowl Over Mizzou 19-6.

CRITICS GIVE SCARLET EDGE REGAIN CROWN

All League Teams Swing Into Action With Missouri Facing Oklahoma, Kansas State Playing Iowa State; Tigers, Wildcats Favored.

Mr. Adrian Lindsey's surprising Jays did what no one thought they could Saturday, and consequently K. U. and Nebraska will go title-hunting in Memorial Stadium this weekend.

Mr. Ad Lindsey's lads played a right mean trick on Oklahoma's favored Biff Jones et al. It was the "Biffer's" big day at home—homecoming with Sooners alumni splattered thickly all over Norman, come to see what this guy Jones had really done for their slipping elevens. And what did young Master Hapgood, of the Kansas tribe, do but shoot a touchdown pass in the last 30 seconds of play to blow everything sky high and add another inch or two to the "Biffers" already elongated mien.

To young Master Hapgood goes much credit—and much threat to Nebraska. Ad Lindsey was beaming—well he might, for he coached in Soonerland until the "wolves" got too close.

Huskies Win. While these momentous events were being recorded as Kansas' first victory in five years over Oklahoma, Nebraska was splash-splashing to a 19-6 victory under Missouri's overflowing skies.

The sum of all which means that Kansas and Nebraska are going to scrap it out for the big Six conference football championship of 1935 here in Lincoln Saturday.

All in all, the Huskers should win. They've got more reserves, more backfield power, and a stronger line. But Hapgood's passes are dangerous—they scored against Notre Dame and again against Oklahoma. And Kansas now isn't the team that lost to the Irish and Michigan State. In those two games both regular tacklers were absent—now Ad Lindsey has raised his forces to full strength.

Jays Improved. The Jayhawkers of 1935 are a greatly improved outfit over those of 1934. But Nebraska also has picked up cogency.

Kansas may hold an advantage in the imminence of the Pittsburgh encounter on the Nebraska schedule. The Jays will be pointing for the Scarlet—at the same time D. X. Bible's troupe will have eyes on the Panthers.

When the season began Kansas was rated the "weak sister" of the conference vermin. Now she's up at the top. But opinion in Huskerland seems to the effect that nothing can stop Nebraska. That may make a difference in the team's attitude—although it is doubtful if D. X. will allow his boys to make the same mistake twice.

Big Six in Action. The other four Big Sixers swing into action against each other—

Questing Jays Whiff Title

K. U.'s eager Jayhawkers, hard on the trail of a conference championship, come to Lincoln Saturday to joust with Nebraska for top spot in the Big Six ratings. Twenty-two of the searchers are pictured above—two teams in full battle array. Kansas is the surprise team of the valley this year. Given cellar spot before the season got under way, Ad Lindsey's boys are now knocking on the door to the hall of Big Six fame.

ages are being held about twice a week, and all first year men are given a chance to display their ability. According to Fisher, however, it is impossible to give an accurate list of the likely prospects, at this early date.

All freshmen who are interested in basketball, and have not already done so, should report to the coliseum as soon as possible, for the number of suits left is very limited.

Bernie Scherer Captain For K.U. Game Saturday

Bernie Scherer, Dallas, S. D., will be the Husker game captain Saturday against Kansas university. Playing a bangup game all season at left end, Scherer is especially adept at blocking punts and passes. He was named all conference end last season, and was re-
