

HUSKERS' SPIRIT BODES EVIL FOR RIVAL PANTHERS

'Jock' Sutherland Team Maintains Standards Despite Loss.

Year after year the Panthers of Pittsburgh have won over the Cornhuskers of Nebraska. This year, however, things are different. Pitt is described as a typical Jock Sutherland team despite the loss of Miller Munjas, but Nebraska has that certain indescribable "spirit" in its Cornhuskers that bodes evil for Pitt.

In a short, peppy, and spirited practice rehearsal Wednesday afternoon, the Huskers, attired in track suits, brushed up on their passing attack with Coach Ed Weir's frosh attacking as the passive defense. The nippy November weather instilled a lot of pre-game enthusiasm in the Cornhuskers who scurried about plucking passes from mid-air.

Coach D. X. Bible, weighted down with the problem of winning a game from the highly-touted Panthers, had little to say during the practice session. He repeated the dressing room slogan "If we're to beat Pitt eventually, why not Saturday?"

Bentley Talks Shop To Sports Writers From High Schools

By Bob Cocklin.

John Bentley, sports editor of the Lincoln Journal, talked shop with high school sports writers when they met for a round table discussion in Social Science hall recently at the prep school press convention.

No person can please everyone with his writing, so he should write exactly what he thinks and let other people's opinions be forgotten, Bentley told the neophytes.

Mr. Bentley went into a detailed discussion of the methods employed in covering a major league football game. He disclosed that the Lincoln papers lead the nation in having the complete football scores on the street. At the Minnesota game Lincoln was undoubtedly the football center of the nation as some 86 of the nation's leading sports writers overflowed the press box. Sixteen Western Union wires were used in comparison to nine, the largest number ever sent out from our stadium before. At the 1934 A. U. one Paris newspaper had the results cabled to Paris.

In closing, Mr. Bentley said that a clear, concise account of a game written in an interesting style would always beat one written in a supposedly feature style.

Men More Polite Than Co-Eds at Ohio School

(By Associated Collegiate Press.) COLUMBUS, O.—The average male student is so much more polite than the average coed that it's far from funny.

According to the standards of good manners laid down by the Emily Posts of the land, young women should smile and whisper "thank you" in response to small favors. Maybe some young women do, but coeds do not, at least they don't at Ohio State.

An ambitious and curious young man at that school stood beside a much used door last week and opened it for everyone who approached. Only two out of every fifteen coeds said "thank you" for the favor, while only one out of every fifteen men neglected to do so. Most of the coeds, the experimenter reported, seemed to feel that the door was opening of its own accord, probably in deference to their beauty.

NEBRASKA END

Back in 1921 Nebraska boasted of a Scherer—Leo by name. In that year, with Leo Scherer in a starring role, Nebraska beat Pittsburgh for the first and only time, 10-0. In 1935 the sons of the Scarlet have another of the same family in its ranks—Bernie. Will history repeat itself? That question is almost a fervent prayer at Nebraska.

IOWA STATE GETS STIFF SCRIMMAGES FOR DRAKE GAME

AMES, Iowa, Nov. 14.—Another Monday layoff followed by two days of scrimmage marked the opening of Cyclone preparations for the thirty-fifth annual revival of the Drake-Iowa State gridiron classic billed for this weekend.

Determined to make a winning team out of what opponents have characterized as the best Iowa State squad in 5 years, Coach George Veenker has been lading out huge doses of the "will to win" this week as he points the Cyclones for their next to the last game of the season. On the weekend following the Bulldog game Iowa State will meet Kansas in the last game of the Cyclone card.

With the team suffering no injuries in the Kansas State clash last Saturday, the Cyclone mentor has kept the same first string intact during this week's practice and indicates that he will use the regular starting lineup.

"Goal line fever," a weakness from which the team has suffered all season and one that has thwarted innumerable Cyclone scoring drives, has been receiving attention from the Cyclone mentor. Twice in the Kansas State clash last Saturday, sustained field drives were halted by the Wildcats a scant five yards from the goal line.

And despite one of the most dazzling aerial attacks ever exhibited by an Iowa State team, the Cyclone passing game is continuing to be revamped, polished and further perfected for the sake of the Bulldogs. Fewer lateral and more forwards will improve the Cyclone attack, Veenker believes. He feels that such an attack may even improve on the aerial display of twenty-two completions out of thirty-three Cyclone attempts in the Kansas State game.

BIG SIX TEAMS FIGHT FOR RANKING IN FINAL M.V.I.A.A. CHECKINGS

Title Settled on Nebraska; Kansas Holds Second Place.

The 1935 Big Six football championship has found its way to Nebraska, but the conference grid machines are still in battle for subordinate positions in the final check up.

Dana Bible's Cornhuskers are the only league team with its conference schedule completed. Kansas has two, Kansas State two, Oklahoma one, Missouri two and Iowa State one more game to go.

Kansas holds second place and will for a week, regardless of the outcome of the Oklahoma-Kansas State tussle, the only conference match this weekend. The Jays will have to win one and at least tie the other of their remaining games to hold their positions.

If Kansas State downs Oklahoma, a doubtful possibility, and then whips Missouri, while Kansas drops one of hers, the Wildcats will grab runnerup position. Oklahoma, with only one game left, is not in a position to challenge the leaders.

From all indications, Missouri and Iowa State will tie for fifth and sixth, unless Missouri's latent potency snares Kansas State.

Present standing of Big Six teams, together with "if" percentages for win, lose, or tie, in the next game:

| Team         | Won | Lost | Tied | Pct. |
|--------------|-----|------|------|------|
| Nebraska     | 2   | 1    | 0    | .667 |
| Kansas       | 1   | 1    | 1    | .500 |
| Kansas State | 0   | 2    | 1    | .167 |
| Oklahoma     | 0   | 3    | 1    | .125 |
| Missouri     | 0   | 3    | 1    | .125 |
| Iowa State   | 0   | 3    | 1    | .125 |

| Team         | Win | Loss | Tie | Percentage |
|--------------|-----|------|-----|------------|
| Nebraska     | 2   | 1    | 0   | .667       |
| Kansas       | 1   | 1    | 1   | .500       |
| Kansas State | 0   | 2    | 1   | .167       |
| Oklahoma     | 0   | 3    | 1   | .125       |

MISS SHEARER SPEAKS BEFORE A.W.S. GROUP

Tassels—President Explains Organization of Pep Group Wednesday.

Elizabeth Shearer, president of Tassels, girls' pep organization spoke to members of the freshman A. W. S. group at their regular meeting yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Ellen Smith hall.

Explaining that Tassels was a member of the national organization, Phi Sigma Chi, Miss Shearer described the manner in which girls were selected for the pep organization on this campus. As various projects which the Tassels undertake, the speaker listed the selling of tickets for university players and the sponsoring of the sale of the Cornhusker.

As an additional feature to the program a parliamentary law skit showing the correct methods of voting for a motion at a meeting and the system which should be followed in debating a motion, was presented by the program committee made up of Jean Leftwich and Dolores Bors.

Elsie Buxman, sponsor of the freshman organization announced that the guest speaker for the next meeting to be held on Wednesday, Nov. 20 would be Elizabeth Bushie, president of W. A. A. This meeting is to be held in the form of a tea in order that the members of the freshman group may become better acquainted.

The committee in charge of the tea will be headed by Betty Mayne, president of freshman A. W. S. She will be assisted by Elinor Anderson, Phyllis Jensen, Dolores Doel, Phyllis Baxter, Frances Baldwin, Barbara Sellack, Mary L. O'Connell, Maxine Westman, Rosalie Valgamore and Barbara Griffin.

Look Out—Here Comes Amen!

Paul Amen, former Lincoln high football and basketball player, is 5 feet 11 but appears almost stubby when lined up with the other end candidates on D. X. Bible's Cornhusker squad. He's only a sophomore, but all he lacks is experience to hold down a regular end berth. His determination and 173 pound active frame have gained a few fans this season, and he's looked forward to for next.

Up in the air or down on the turf, Amen passes look all the same to him, and his defensive play is rounding out. As a prepper, Amen is fitted into a backfield berth, but has shifted to the line on the Cornhusker squad.

Paul has two weaknesses—riding a motorcycle and City league umpires. He's rarely seen without his put-putter. It is well known that good high school backs have made fine linemen, witness Ed Weir. However, it's rare for a lineman to shift into the ball lugging division. So Paul Amen started on the right road.

Psychologists Note That Relaxed Driver Is Most Wreckless

(By College News Service)

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Nov. 12.—Psychologists throughout the country this week noted with interest the results of scientific tests which indicate that the tense, nervous type of automobile driver is the best.

A series of 3,087 tests was made of twenty-one test drivers of the Atlantic Refining company who engaged in a 600,000 mile oil test drive. Physicians and scientists made exhaustive studies of the drivers after they had completed 500,000 miles of driving without accident to find out how they did it.

The tests showed, among other things, that:

The relaxed, comfortable driver is actually slower in applying his brakes than the driver who is tense, excited or otherwise uncomfortable.

Drivers who had just completed eight hours of driving 320 miles were somewhat quicker in their reaction time at the end of the run than they were in the beginning. The difference averaged one-eighth of a second, enough to make a difference of eleven feet in the stopping distance of the car from a speed of forty miles an hour.

It was found, however, that at the end of four hours' driving, a thirty minute rest period would speed the reaction time from one-eighth to one-quarter of a second. Drivers who ate a heavy lunch were inclined to be slower than those who ate lightly. Insufficient sleep on the other hand, showed immediately in the general responsiveness of the drivers.

Dr. A. S. Pearce, Duke university zoologist, is making a special study of oyster diseases and their prevention. The work is being financed by the government.
