WAY DOWN SOUTH . . . WILL GO coed counselors, little sisters, sorority mothers and their daughters, to the plantation dinner at the armory tonight. The southern theme will be followed in the decorations and program, with George Anna Lehr singing "Old Black Joe"... and the tap dancing group and dramatic hobby class presenting appropriate selections . . . This party has been planned by Students Should File Names the Coed Counselors board and is the first activity of honoring the little sisters, to be held this fall . . . and from the amount of preparation and publicity it should be an affair well worth

NEBRASKA SQUAD DEBATE TRYOUTS SET FOR NOV. 22

With Prof. White By Friday.

Tryouts for the Nebraska debate squad will be held on Friday, Nov. 22, and students seeking membership on the team should file their names with Prof. H. A. White of the English department not later than Friday, Nov. 15. Subject of discussion for this season will be "The Continuation and Benefits of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration," ac-cording to Professor White, who is in charge of the debate team. Four teams of two men each will be put into the field to debate on this subject, which proved popular last vear.

Speak Eight Minutes.

Members of the team, when chosen, will be assigned to either the affirmative or negative sides by drawing lots several days before the debate, Professor White stated. Each man is supposed to work up all the material needed for both sides of the question, and then he will have about a week to look over his notes on the side assigned to him later by lot. Each debater will speak for a period of eight minutes, including both constructive and rebuttal in any proportion the contestant may choose ardson, Bernie Scherer, Fred AMES, Ia., Nov. 12.-When the present crop of Cyclone football players get along to the stage where they gain considerable satisfaction from recounting tales of their gridiron prowess one of their favorite tales will recall how they used insect spray pumps for throat atomizers 'way back in 1935.

Iowa State Trainer Waters Team With Insect Spray Pump

Trainer LeRoy Timm has discarded the old milk bottle method of supplying water for the Iowa State football team when time is taken out and instead sprints onto the field with a regular five gallon insect spray pump, with a fine spray nozzle attached.

By using the spray pump Timm finds it possible to moisten the men's mouths and throats without danger of giving them a swallow of cold water, which often proves harmful if the men are extremely warm. It is also a much more convenient form of keeping water on the field, Timm reports.

So MUCH water has flewed O under the bridge since last we pugilistically wandered a round and a bout that the old school seems quite changed. Everyone has settled a bit desperately down to business, which of course adds to the confusing irrecognizability (who is this creator of words Murray?). It's the midsemesters, probably, that have brought things

Political scientists shake their heads and confess that democracy, with its seemingly inalienable evils, is not what it might be. Elections are corrupted with bribery, stuffed ballot boxes, and "fixed nominations." Our offices are often filled with claptraps, back slappers, and handshakers, regardless of
