tion of big business, but the rights of the individual citizen from the effects of laws passed by a weak legislature and a dominate executive, or a weak executive and a strong legislature. "Take from the courts the power to protect the citizen, and constitutional government has been effectively repealed in America, as legislative bodies pay too little attention to these rights of the citizen. The president is the servant and not the master of the people, the constitution being the employer of the servant. The people may increase the powers of the president, but not the president."

Cosmetic Trick of Season--To Match Lips, Finger Tips, and Evening Frock

Smart girls are matching lips and finger tips and furthermore the trick of the season will be to harmonize cosmetics and nail polishes with the frock. Costumes and cosmetics have never before been so closely allied. Winter nights will see lovely displays of pastel finger nails to match the Paris shades in materials. No more blood red nails for evening.

skin should have Mauve powder, evening rouge and lipstick, green iridescent eye shadow, and blue-green mascara. The brunette with clear skin should have a make-up of green powder, scarlet lipstick and rouge, blue eye shadow and mascara.

Renaissance artists subordinated all other features to the eyes, and so it seems we'll have to follow suit, since formals for 1936 are very definitely going back to this period of lovely ladies and gallant romeos.

Redness of the mouth should never detract from the eyes any more than rouge. Use coloring to look healthy, but remember pink cheeks are out of place. You want only a suspicion of color. If you get involved in a silvery brocade, as many of us are bound to do, make your eyes as important as possible. Don't spare the eye-pencil and the mascara. You can train the eyelashes upward, and you should, for this makes them seem longer. If the eyelids are insignificant, if the part above seems puffy powder the lid and put eye-shadow between the lid and the eyebrow. This is a movie trick and helps set the eye back.

As to lips give them a very alive tint, but not the flaming, strident sort of thing that insists on dominating the entire face. And remember to be a matchmaker where cosmetics and nail polishes are concerned.

Cheap Enough.

Jones: "Did you get that mining stock at a bargain?" Brown: "Yes; I gave other mining stock for it."

Pessimistic. "All Gaul was divided into three parts." "Automobilists, motorcyclists and pedestrians, I suppose."

AMERICA ON ROAD TO DICTATORSHIP STATES SIMMONS

European Beliefs Lost.

"Our government is the outgrowth of the religious beliefs of the people who founded it, and are stated in the Declaration of Independence, in that they are certain unalienated rights of the citizen, power must be derived from the consent of the governed, and that men are created free and equal. In Europe these beliefs have been lost, as there are no unalienated rights, no equality and rulers give the people as much power as they see fit."

Discussing the suppression of the freedom of speech in Europe, Mr. Simmons declared that "this basic right has been attacked in America," in the effort of the NRA to set up a controlled press, which he said the press would not allow; in the statement of the chairman of the federal radio commission that "The United States government has the right to control what is said over the radio"; and the provision in the utilities act passed by congress denying the use of the mail to those utilities refusing to register with the federal government.

Mr. Simmons also stated that freedom of the courts was being denied to a certain extent. He gave as examples the stopping of gold cases against the government, and making the government both judge and jury, as well as the prosecution, and trial by jury denied by the NRA in certain cases.

"The government is now levying taxes to make the citizenship abide by the wishes of Washington," Simmons declared, "in refunding certain taxes to those who do as the federal government says. We see this in the Guffey coal bill and the social security law passed by congress this year. We see certain utilities disallowed the right to petition."

Concluding, Mr. Simmons said the courts are not for the protec-
