

CAMPUS CAPS and GOWNS by the Stylists

Came the dawn, and with it, the glittering formal season. That time of year may mean uncomfortable tuxes and tight collars to the masculine population of Nebraska, but it implies clothes glamour to the coed, and already discriminating gals have chosen their gowns for upcoming social events. Frances Knutson, Tri Delta vice president, will wear a scarlet velveteen, drop shoulder with shirring at the side. Red slippers, and black velvet wrap complete the outfit. Jean Walt, Kappa, accentuates her blonde coloring with ice green satin, long flowing Grecian style, with clips at either shoulder. Elizabeth Bushes, who says it's the fit that counts, will pour herself into a magenta metallic gown, quite lovely in its simplicity. Faith Arnold, one of the campus' happily permanent brunettes, makes her appearance in a pink lame, full skirted with wide sleeves and a row of buttons on the back. Such brilliant shades, unusual cuts promise to make this year's parties colorful, to say the least.

Irene Castle's nomination—the perfect combination for young moderns with crowded social calendars ahead, the famous Thrill bra for uplift, the satin Lastex, girdle for tapering streamlines, and the low back cut for the most extreme formal. Ben Simons first floor.

For formal wear, MAGEE'S are showing ultra sheer hose in 2 thread sheerness. They are regular $1.95 hose with slight irregularities. You must see them to appreciate how lovely they are... special at 98c.

"I wanted a date with the pledge," mourned Wood Shurtleff. "But when she had to go to study hall, I took one with an active instead." And so he did. In the afternoon, he took Pi Phi Jean Fetter to a show, and in the evening he and fun with an upperclassman. Nothing like bestowing favors impartially, giving the gals a break.

Speaking of formal fashions—Black velvet sandals with the new "flat" or high heels for $3.95, and genuine silver kid for $5.00. Also white fur trimmed galoshes for $2.95 at WELLS AND FROST, 128 North 10th.

A well cleaned formal is practically a new one in any clever coed's estimation. And the clever coed is one who goes to SOUKUP & WESTOVER'S MODERN CLEANERS for her frock rejuvenation. You'll be surprised at the well dressed feeling you'll have when MODERN has cleaned last year's formal, and made it look like new.

"My daughter has the best of care at the University of Nebraska," the outstate mother said. "All her teachers are doctors." Score number one for Dean Lyman and student health.

And the final touch of glamour for formal wear. CADWALLADER'S white Lapin capes, coats and capelets. They'll keep you warm and still add that bit of elegance that every smart collegiate craves.

All unhappy in a less, convinced of the folly of their ways, and interested in the Batchelor's Brotherhood, might see it's eminent founder, Doug Sarson the D. U. house.

Little things that count—toward your complete evening attire, and are so exclusive, can be found at HOVLAND SWANSON'S. White bunny wraps, jeweled combination compacts, chiffon handkerchiefs, Renaissance jewelry, exquisite beaded, rhinestone and metallic formal bags all put on the finishing touches and are real necessities.

Rosalie Nott, Chi Omega, made her last weekend a success by wearing an unusual dinner dress in heavy violet crepe, shot faintly with gold, and draped "in the new mood."

MAGEE'S are offering a special value in full 12 and 16 button length evening gloves... at $3.95... in fine French kid. White, black and pastels.

Sequel to Ted Bradley's observations that all sorority gals should have keys to the houses... Sigma Nu's Cornob president, etc., etc., has a key to his own frat house so he won't have to use the fire escape. (The boys always lock the arched domicile on account of campus robberies and thiefs and thats.)

Evening purses. Seed pearl and sequin bags in clever styles to match all costumes. In white, gold, silver, and black... $1 and $1.95. MAGEE'S.

What Kappa and Chi Phi have seen the parting of the ways? And we thought officers got into the Military ball at reduced rates.

Miss Virginia Anderson, Kappa Alpha Theta, looking smooth and sophisticated in a lovely Upholstery Brocade formal from Gold's Kampus Korner. It is an old-blue damask and is gathered at the waist with a big bow that goes into a train. A distinctive fashion note, is the trim of coral and gold beads, which blends harmoniously with the mist hue of the gown. The merest trifles of gold kid sandals peep from under the hem at intervals and a rhinestone bracelet, set in yellow gold, and a gold sequin bag are the accessories to complement this evening gown.

don't forget to ask about the "Get Acquainted Box." B3122.

Rosemary Anderson, Delta Gamma, has a very unusual new dinner dress, of the school girl type. It is made jumper style with a full sleeved aquamarine satin blouse shirred deeply at the neckline.

Be delightful and different at the Military ball in one of ORKIN'S new formals. They come in colorful styles made of brocade, lame, and heavy velvet. Complete the costume with a Salasse hooded wrap and you can't help but be exciting.

And then there's the story of the Beta sponhore who goes "almost" steady with one Lincoln Delta Gamma, and checks up by double dating her the other nights of the week.

By careful, guaranteed cleaning, Evans triple the college girl's wardrobe even if her favorite gown is "the new one, blue one and one she wore last." But whether you have one or a dozen, your dresses and formals require the best of care if you are to have that smooth appearance. Put your trust in Evans and your "clothes worry" will fade away.

mous gold buckle holds the belt and lets the skirt flow gently to the floor in sweeping folds.

A ruby-red heavy costume velvet shows a wide deep square neck, sleeves full at the shoulder and gathered at the wrist, a tightly molded bodice. The skirt is immensely full, gathered at the waist in innumerable little folds and spreading out as it nears the floor to give the effect of quaintness and supremely feminine charm. The neck and sleeves are trimmed with the tiniest strip of ivory or yellow lace.

A BIT IN ADVANCE OF THE USUAL
news come little tidbits concerning that good old leap year institution, the Mortar Board party. And since 1935 is near enough to Leap Year to practically consider it so gals from Nebraska who take their ball date, or someone else for that matter, should have a really fine time. The men, trying feebly to imitate the weaker sex, will be sure to bring a small suitcase full of shaving brushes, and perhaps, if they are especially bitter, to order a steak instead of the usual coke.

But clever co-eds, who may not be bitter, but just a little cynical, will send radish corsages, and onions and beets. On the whole, the good old tradition about Leap Year, and Louie Cass'es firm contentions that a woman's place is in the home, coincide at this time more than any other—and so, find yourself a date for the year's big event after the Ball, and take advantage of your opportunities. They may never come again.

dividuality, and you can't go wrong as long as you choose a gown becoming to you. Lames, velvets, heavy crepes, and satins are all good. Sophisticated, demure, provocative styles all hold their places, and the gowns this year are made to enhance your beauty not to outshine it.

Poor Dog.

Mose: "What does yo' feed por dorg on, Pete?"
Pete: "Wal, since dog biscuit has gone up so, he has to be satisfied with what de rest ob us eats."

Not Very.

"Did the insurance adjuster act suspicious?"
"Not so very. He only asked how much gasoline it took to run my car and business.

Not to Dust.

Antiquarian: "This is a mortgage on an Assyrian house 5,000 years old."

Jones: "Just think! House, owner and car are dust. Nothing left but the mortgage."
