

CAMPUSOCIETY

WITH LEAP YEAR NOT SO FAR IN the future . . . now seems to be an opportune time to discuss that problem of the feminine heart, the ideal man. Communications have been sent to several girls on this campus, for a newspaper article on the subject, by an eastern writer . . . and, as there is a request for a compilation, we decided to investigate the matter to the extent of questioning various members of the feminine population as to their views on the subject.

Result, as follows: Nebraska coeds prefer athletes, and athletic builds, good dancers, courtesy and no profanity . . . and think that Nebraska men are careless about small matters of politeness . . . and moustaches in any size or shape are definitely out! Take notice, you of masculine charm, beg, borrow or steal an "N" sweater, learn to dance . . . and the probability is that you will give some gal's heart a break!

Wahlquist is the general handy man of the aggregation, being a ball hawk both on offense and defense. His passing is distinctive. This will be his third year of competition on the Husker courts. For an earnest desire to play the game, the laurels go to Widman. Coach Browne declares that he is one of the hardest working players he has ever seen.

As a newcomer last year, Hale won his spurs with considerable ease and with one year of experience now behind him the coaching faculty expects him to keep the Scarlet from dragging in the dirt. But pressing each of these supposedly situated cagers are at least three other aspirants. Bob Leacock, an all around performer from Shenandoah, Ia., will be a hard man to disregard when the final five is molded. A lad who is a renewer on Nebraska is Bob Belka of Crete who was a minor letterman as a sophomore. At present he appears to be able to match his wares with the best of the candidates. Merrill Morris, former Jackson high school scoring ace, is in the thick of the bidding, also. As a B team forward he topped the list of scorers. Most of his shots are both uncanny and unguardable, but he is hampered by lack of size.

A trio of animated sky scrapers give glamour to Browne's brood. All three are better than 6 feet 4 inches tall in their stocking feet and make tip in shots a task of simplicity. To make things even rosier, all are sophomores with two more full seasons of play. The group includes Elmer Dohrmann of football fame, 6 feet 4 inches, Seward; Larry Nelson, 6 feet 6 inches, Curtis, and Floyd Ebaugh, 6 feet 5 inches. The graduation of the renowned Bud Parsons was greatly modified by the appearance of his young brother Bob. Young Parsons has, perhaps, the most natural ability of anyone on the squad with a pair of never miss basket shooting hands and standing 6 feet 2 inches in height. Another of the altitudinous boys is Les MacDonald, a flankman on the football eleven. He measures 6 feet 4 inches exactly.

The Scott boys, Clifford and George, who are no relation, will require more than a mere glance this year. Both are 6 feet and pack plenty of scoring punch. George is probably a standout over most of the squad with his persistent style of playing and a mastered unconscious jump twist shot.

From the strong Waverly clan of a couple of years back come Earl Daft and Everett Munn. Both handle the ball like professionals but Daft is a bit slow. Other predominating men are Paul Amen and Lloyd Wampler, two very likely possibilities from Lincoln high; Dick Kosman, and John Osborne.

Browne attributes the swelling of the squad partly to the improved caliber of ball played in prep circles each year and partly to the trip with which each varsity performer will be rewarded during the holidays. The jaunt, which will last two weeks, will include six games en route to the west coast and back.

Fans will get their first glimpse of the new team's ability Dec. 17 when the Husker quintet will battle the Brigham Young university. The Utah team should be more than a warmup scrimmage, in the fact that they turn out some of the most successful combinations of the western cage courts. No matter what the ultimate strength of the outfit, Browne is tutoring his forces with the expectations of meeting a team with more strength than the average piece of garlic. The game will be played here on the coliseum court as will all home games.

Armand Hunter. Both are graduates of the University of Nebraska and Miss Dalling is a member of Alpha Chi Omega. Mr. Hunter belongs to Chi Phi.

THIS afternoon the Theta Xi auxiliary will meet for a guest luncheon at the chapter house. Hostesses for the affair will be Mrs. T. S. Risser, Mrs. W. A. Mechling, Mrs. George Mechling, Mrs. H. W. Des Jardien, Mrs. Jack Etherton, Mrs. N. B. Weyand and Mrs. Anna Hyland. Red and green will be the colors used for the decorations.
