PLANS MADE TO SHOW SECOND FRENCH FILM

Students View 'Prenez Garde a la Peinture' at Varsity February 8.

"Prenez Garde a la Peinture," a French motion picture will be shown at the Varsity theater Saturday, Feb. 8. This is the second in a series of French pictures presented under the auspices of the Cercle Francais. This play is a fast moving, modern drama, familiar to American audiences as "The Late Christopher Bean," and "Her Sweetheart," which co-starred Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery.

The story concerns a humble French doctor who is swindled out of several valuable paintings by unscrupulous collectors. In a meeting of general confusion, he plots to recover the portraits. The story is complicated by the love affair of the physician's daughter and a young artist. Most of the amusement lies in rapid action and humorous situations. With the aid of subtitles the story should be easily understood by an English audience. New York critics hail the film as a new high point in comedy drama.

Professional, Departmental Honorary Constitutions Excluded.

"We are taking this action to insure more complete supervision of university groups, since it is the duty of the council to regulate activities of general student interest," stated Irving Hill, president of the organization. "Should constitutions fail to come in, the groups will not be recognized by the council, in case they apply for advice and regulation," continued Hill.

New constitutions and material changes of social and non-honorary organizations are included in the demand for charters, while departmental, professional and honorary must hand in only an announcement of their sponsors, officers, time and place of meeting, and whether or not a constitution is in operation.

Material will reach the committee in charge if addressed to Eleanor Clizbe, chairman of the organization committee, and left at the managing editor's desk of the Daily Nebraskan.

Coeds Reveal Campus Stock Of Most Eligible Bachelors

Leap year is the open season on men! With the close of final examinations, coeds on the Nebraska campus return with renewed vigor and enthusiasm to the chase begun New Year's eve. For most of the girls, 1936 is the first hunting season on this campus, since the coeds of four years ago are now graduated or extinct.

As a special service to feminine students, the Daily Nebraskan offers to its coed readers the nominations of recognized authorities—a list of some of the most eligible bachelors on the campus. "Little Colonel" Virginia Selleck's selections for the three most desirable men whose pins are most desirable are Frank Landis, Bill Marsh, and Irving Hill. Marylue Peterson's recommendations to her bewildered compatriots would include Bob Pierce, Duke Nolte, and Clayton Schwenk.

Miss Walcott Selects.

According to Jane Walcott, three "top" men still in circulation are perennial bachelor George Holyoke, with Schwenk and Marsh as repeats. Faith Arnold, Theta's efficient yearbook editor, diplomatically refused to be specific, but admitted that "the Cornhusker offers excellent opportunities too numerous to mention" for good hunting.

Masters' Band Numbers Gridiron Stars in Ranks

Frankie Masters has never gone in very extensively for athletics but the personable young maestro who brings his noted orchestra to the University Coliseum to play for the Interfraternity Ball Saturday evening could very easily overshadow many of the nation's leading college football teams, should he ever decide to outfit his orchestra in football uniforms.

For Masters could put eleven men on a football field who would total 2,326 pounds on the hoof, without including their football paraphernalia. Their average weight would be 211 5-11 pounds, and there isn't a football coach in the country today who wouldn't be willing to take a peek at the squad in the hopes of enticing some of the boys to enroll at his particular institution.

Avrodupois honors go to Dick Kissinger, bass player, who tips the scales at a mere 341 pounds. Not far behind him is Ralph Copsey, a former Cornhusker student and a star trombonist of Masters harmony kings who hits the 300 mark. Most of the other men range from 175 to 200 pounds, while Frankie himself, who would, of course, handle the signal-calling duties should he ever decide to convert his musicians to a hand of pig-skin toters, brings the average down with his scanty 160 pounds.

BARBS GIVEN BID TO ATTEND GREEK BALL

Fischer Dispels Doubts About Unaffiliated Not Attending.

Fears that the Interfraternity Ball to be held in the Coliseum Saturday evening is strictly a Greek affair and as a result unaffiliated students will have to be content with lesser entertainment for the approaching weekend, can be forgotten, President Jack Fischer assured Tuesday.

"The ball is sponsored by the recognized council of organized houses and the theme of the party will follow a Grecian form, but the price of admission and the character of the party are directed to make it an all-university affair," Fischer stated.

UNION PLANS READY FOR SUBMISSION TO WASHINGTON HEADS

Amendment Attached to Application for Funds.

Student union building plans have been completed and are ready, together with the amendment to the funds application, to be forwarded to Washington, Irving Hill, student council president, announced yesterday. Funds for the furnishing of the union building are still being received as the student council carries the drive into this semester. It is expected by Hill that several organizations still desire to make contributions but have been delayed in doing so. The total contributions to date reach $12,590.50.

4900 STUDENTS START TO CLASS THIS SEMESTER

Registrar's Latest Reports Show an Increase Over Last Year.

5900 TOTAL EXPECTED

Medical, Graduate College Registration to Come Later.

With registration once more surpassing that of last year, second semester classes have gotten under way. To date 4,900 students have enrolled as compared with a recorded total of 4,447 at the same time last year, according to latest reports of the university registrar.

The increase of 453 registrants is expected to mount rapidly as enrollment in the graduate college is completed on Feb. 15. Students in the Omaha medical college, in the school of nursing, and Lincoln teachers taking university courses will also swell the total. ## KNIGHT TO ISSUE CALL FOR HUSKER NINE THIS MONTH

Diamond Mentor Expects 35 Candidates to Report at Early Drills.

Winter's chilly blasts are having little or no effect on the baseball plan making of Coach Wilbur Knight who expects to sound his call for diamond candidates in about two weeks. Thus far, thirty-five players have signified their intention of being on hand for the initial workout and Knight is hopeful that this number can be increased to at least fifty.

Seven Lettermen.

With the return of seven lettermen, Coach Knight is considerably more optimistic over prospects for the coming season than he was at about the same time last year when he began moulding the 1935 aggregation. Howard Baker, Clevie Trimble and Lloyd Wampler are three experienced infielders who will return and the latter is also able to take a turn on the pitching mound when occasion demands. The only veteran hurler to return is Jerry Spurlock, while Al Turner and Ed Pohlman are 30-over catchers from last year's team. Vincent Jacobson is the lone survivor from the 1935 outfield trio to be on hand.

Plenty of Reserves.

Reserve material is being counted on strongly by Coach Knight and he has ten players who filled in last year but who did not earn letters. These players are Ed Fitzgerald, Charley Gibbs, Dell Hanskamp, Bob Leacox, infielders; Gerald Hansen, Bill Kiser, Oakley Larson, outfielders; Don Kuska, catcher; Arnold Peterson and George Keikes, pitchers.

Should the reserve performers fail to meet with the expectations of Coach Knight he will have on hand a number of promising players from the 1935 Husker football team. Seven infielders, three outfielders, one catcher and one pitcher make up this group. Paul Arner, Ivan Borman, Floyd Meachan, Eddie George, Phil Naviaz, Arnold Field, Clem Sundstrom and Laird Wolfe are the outfield candidates who can be counted upon to make strong bids for places in the varsity lineup. Norris Weible is a catcher from the freshman team while Lloyd Stall, a right handed hurler, will attempt to land a place on the pitching corps. At this date, pitching promises to be a weak spot on the team, therefore, it is with considerable uneasiness that the Cornhusker baseball mentor is casting a searching eye for talent in that department.

Sixteen Games.

Sixteen games have been carded so far for the Nebraska nine and negotiations are under way at the present time for several more contests. The Huskers will open their schedule by meeting Iowa State at Lincoln on either April 17 or 18.
