

By Sarah Louise Meyer.

We sometimes find our nondescript eyes brimming over at people of the "just people" variety. When our philosophical meanderings, human-wise, overwhelm us—on a busy corner, in a crowded bus, or on a walking tour on Poppa's arm—it is somewhat like snapping a candid camera shot in which one catches an unconscious expression of deep loveliness.

The subjects need not be lovely in themselves. That poor woman who hunches over crutches that aided her poor, helpless legs, had little classic beauty in her wan face. But the short glance of tenderness she bent on the pallid child with the knobby knees who waited for her so patiently was wonderfully beautiful. And the toothless man with the sharp features and shabby clothes who had a joy in new knee-high boots; that was wonderful.

Or there was the tiny flicker of a smile that shot life into the dead, brown eyes of a woman in blue, whose pitifully rounded shoulders seemed to groan under the miseries of eternity. And there was the proud and glowing sweetie clung to his arm with eyes absent turned toward display windows. But most tear raising of all was the purposeful absorption of the red haired girl who scraped earnestly at the dead sod of a parking, almost utterly heedless of the passerby, such as Poppa, who noticed only her ill-fitting green slacks.

Among the things we like: Portia Boynton's rendition of "Sleepy Time Gal," Bonnie Bishop's gringiggle, Kenny Pavey dancing with Eleanor Compton, Polly Gelatelly's perennial sweetness, Helen Lawrence Ames' fair hair.

For all his scorn of editorial departments, a scorn born of years of labor in the business department of campus publications, John Jarmin resorted to a reportorial pose recently. It just goes to show to what lengths a determined young man will go for one smile from a pretty girl. John particularly admired a young lady who tooted in the stage band at a local theater last week. Seeking a means of making her acquaintance, he called the manager of the band and posed as a Daily Nebraskan reporter seeking an interview. Apparently taken in, the manager told John the beautiful young lady's name. John then called her, made a luncheon engagement, and settled back glowing with the satisfaction of a job well done.

Velma of the Moon remarked the other morning: "The only difference between me and Gracie Allen is that she gets paid for being dumb."

TALENTED CAST ON BOARDS FOR PLAYERS' SHOW

Jenks in Title Role When 'Cyrano de Bergerac' Opens March 30.

Featuring one of the largest and most talented casts ever to be offered a Temple audience, the University Players will open for their final production of the season, "Cyrano de Bergerac," Monday night, March 30. The pending drama is a semi-tragedy masterpiece that has shown before record audiences in every part of France and England.

Adding to the brilliancy of the original work, the local showing will be even more worthy of comment with the presence of Hart Jenks, a veteran of the Players' stage and of New York theatrical centers, in the leading role. Assisting Mr. Jenks is Dorothy Zimmer, whose performance in past productions rides all necessity of further introduction, who will portray the role of the beautiful "Roxane."

The story is set in five different scenes which vary from the Main Hall of the Hotel de Bourgogne in the first act to the battle field of the fourth act, and from the "Poets' Kitchen" of the second scene to the balcony background of the acts and the convent garden of the fifth acts.

The play follows the life of the ugly but clever Cyrano and of his fruitless search for the love of the lovely Roxane. He finally is compelled to admit defeat to his more handsome contender Christian and it is not until the final curtain that the two find that they are truly in love.

Entries File to Compete in Identification of Crops, Weeds.

Saturday, April 18, is the date set for the Tri K judging contest, sponsored by the Tri K club, honorary agronomy society, according to a report of LeRoy Hansen, chairman of the publicity for the affair.

Students who have had only agronomy I or no course in agronomy will compete in the freshman section. The junior division will consist of all entrants who are not classified in either of the other two divisions. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded to winners in each section.

Chartres Plates on Display Pictures of Noted Cathedral in 'U' Hall

An exhibit of sixty large photographic plates of the Cathedral of Chartres with ten colored plates of stained glass windows is now on display in the library of the department of romance languages, U hall, 108. The plates, taken from the monograph by Etienne Houtvet, guardian of the cathedral, show fine details with exceptional clarity and are of interest not only to students of French but also to those of art, architecture and geography, according to Miss Marie Mengers, instructor in the French department and in charge of the display.

Accompanying the plates in the exhibit is a strip of photographs showing the exquisite chiseled enclosure of the choir, representing scene by scene the life of the Virgin and of Christ.

Cathedral of Chartres was started about 1020 at the instigation of Bishop Fulbert, but its final construction took place chiefly in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries with additions throughout the following centuries. It is chiefly famous for its 130 stained glass windows, magnificent in their intense reds, blues and greens that glow like jewels, and for the spire of its northern bell-tower which was completed in 1513, declared Miss Mengers in commenting on its beauty.

Roosevelt Confident of His Re-Election, Observes Clark

BY GEORGE FREY. President Roosevelt is supremely confident of his re-election next November, believing there is not a shred of doubt that he will serve another four years as the nation's chief executive, according to the observations of Dr. John D. Clark gathered during a recent trip to Washington and other points in the east.

Observers outside of the White House, however, see the election contest as a fairly close one, with the democratic administration given a slight edge. Doctor Clark said in an interview Monday afternoon.

Among the republican presidential aspirants, Doctor Clark says one hears much more about Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas than he had expected. General opinion in Washington is that Landon or a dark horse candidate will be the nominee. The other contestants for the nomination are not given much of a chance.

Washington Quiet. Doctor Clark spends the first semester every year at the university as professor of economics, and the rest of the time he spends traveling and studying. Said to be independently wealthy, he retired from active business participation several years ago, took a Ph. D. in economics and became a Ph. D. (Continued on Page 4).

FAIR BOARD CHOOSES 'SEQUOIA' AS PAGEANT FOR MAY PRODUCTION

400 Ag Students Portray Mythical Development of Grain Industry.

"Sequoia," a mythical pageant portraying the cultivation of grain and development of the industry, will be the production given by over 400 ag students as the main feature of Farmer's Fair, May 9, according to Elsie Arthaud, directors of the play. The pageant was written especially for the Fair by the pageantry class.

"Since Nebraska is essentially an agricultural state, students and people from surrounding sections are promised a production of unusual interest," stated Miss Buxman.

The natural amphitheater on ag campus which was improved last spring will be worked on again this year, in the hopes of creating a real beauty spot for the pageant, commented Arthaud. Directing the play will be Elsie Arthaud. (Continued on Page 3).

ENGINEERS TO SHOW PICTURES OF BRIDGE

Johnson, Peshek to Give Illustrated Lecture on Carquinez.

Slides of the Carquinez Strait bridge of California are to be shown by Emory Johnson and Joe Peshek, engineering college seniors, at a meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers March 25.

Carquinez bridge, which was completed in 1927, is of the cantilever type with two main spans of 1,100 feet. This span length makes it the second largest of its type in the United States and the fourth largest in the world. It is also notable for its deep pier foundations, 135 feet below water level. Another feature of interest is the consideration which was given to possible special protective details. It is a privately owned bridge which was built at a cost of $8,000,000 and was conceived by a California business man, Avon J. Stanford.

At this meeting further plans for engineers week will be discussed. There will also be a discussion of the engineers inspection trips which will be taken during the week of April 19. There will be two general tours, one thru Nebraska and the other to terminate at Hot Springs, Ark.

NEBRASKA SQUAD ENTERS NATIONAL A.A.U. TANK MEET

Crack Medley Team to Seek Honors at Chicago, April 1-4.

Announcement of Nebraska's entry in the National A. A. U. swimming meet to be held April 1-4 at the Lakeshore Athletic club of Chicago was made yesterday by Jack Minor, Cornhusker swimming coach. Minor will take a three hundred yard medley team composed of Robert Thornton, Pete Hagelin and Glyndon Lynde. This combination is considered the best in the Big Six conference and stands a good chance of taking a high place in the event according to Minor.

The Big Six record for the medley relay event set by Jack Gavin, Thornton and Lynde at the last conference meet, stands at 3:19.9, but time trials set by these men last Friday cut the time to 3:08.5. Minor believes that a little more practice will send the mark still lower.

"We are entering these men for a twofold purpose," said Minor. "I believe our chances of placing high in the medley relay event are excellent and I expect the boys to do very well, also they will get more value from watching swimmers like Jack Medina and others than they would from a year of competition."

D. KUSKA TO TALK ON STREAMLINE HISTORY

Agriculture Engineer Student To Present Paper Tonight.

Donald E. Kuska, major in agricultural engineering, will present a paper on Streamlining at the meeting of the ASAE meeting Tuesday evening, March 24, at 7:30. He will speak of its history and development of streamlining in the future. The methods and factors to be considered will be discussed. Streamlining is and will be one of the major factors to be considered in the development of future modes of transportation, states Mr. Kuska. The Nebraska student branch of the American Society for Agricultural Engineers was selected to write the constitution for the national convention in 1936. The constitution which has been completed will be discussed and voted upon.

Detailed plans for Engineers Week will be discussed and Vernon G. Keller, chairman of the Agricultural Engineering for Engineers Week has asked that any good suggestions should be presented at this meeting. Every member is urged to be present as this is the most important meeting before Engineers Week.

Rostand Sued for Plagiarism

Mishaps Arise in Casting 'Cyrano'

BY WILLARD BURNEY. An interesting sidelight on the great romantic stage hit, "Cyrano de Bergerac," which is being opened in the Temple theater for a week's run March 30, is revealed when it is learned that the brilliant author, Edmond Rostand, dedicated the work to the great French actor, Coquelin, and was later sued for plagiarism by an obscure Illinois lawyer. The story itself reads somewhat thus: Coquelin was in Europe what Mansfield was in America, and Edmond Rostand brought forth his famous production with the following words: "It was to the soul of Cyrano that I intended to dedicate this play. But since that soul has been reborn in you, Coquelin, it is to you that I dedicate it."

For the famous actor had enacted the leading role, Cyrano, and all Europe was at his feet. In far away America there was Mansfield, who had been watching and waiting for a new play, one that would provide a role equal to his fame and ability. When Cyrano trod the boards in the Parisian stage Mansfield's attention was directed to the performance and he made up his mind that Cyrano fitted him better than it did Coquelin; and when Coquelin played the piece in London, Mans-

FACULTY MEMBERS TO CONDUCT PROGRAM IN HOLDREGE APRIL 17

Chancellor Burnett Will Launch Plan; Includes Model Classes.

The University will move to Holdrege on Friday, April 17, when Chancellor Burnett and members of the faculty will conduct the school in Holdrege just as the university is conducted here. This new idea will, it is expected, be followed in other cities of the state from time to time and will constitute not only an important innovation but a program of value to the people of Nebraska.

Holdrege First City. Holdrege will be the first city in which the downtown university will function under the new plan with programs for both the grade and high school students in the morning, a business men's program at noon, "classes" in the afternoon, a big dinner meeting in the evening, followed by a great city wide program later. During the latter part of the afternoon there will even be a coaching school under the direction of Coach Bible who is going to move out to Holdrege for the day.
