WORKMEN ERECT THRONE FOR IVY DAY FESTIVITIES

Campus Interest Turns to Revealing May Queen Thursday.

WILSON TO GIVE ORATION

Mortar Board, Innocents Societies to Select New Members.

By Elizabeth Bushae. Erection of the May Queen's throne on the scene of the Ivy Day festivities turns campus interest and speculation toward Thursday, May 7, when identity of the May Queen and her court will be revealed in the morning, and the selections of Mortar Board and Innocents to membership highlight the afternoon's activities.

The May Queen and the maid of honor were chosen by junior and senior women at an election March 26, the eligible senior woman receiving the highest number of votes to serve as May Queen, and the senior woman receiving second highest serving as her maid of honor.

Attendants to the May Queen are chosen from each of the four classes, their identity to be kept secret until Ivy Day morning. The two pages announcing the arrival of the procession are also selected from among the women students of the university.

Name Attendants. Juvenile attendants to Nebraska's twenty-fifth May Queen will be Michael Lawlor, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawlor, crown bearer; Virginia Nye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barlow Nye, and Judith Flansburg, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Flansburg, flower girls; and Jerry and Ann Jovanet, children of Mr. and Mrs. Victor F. Jovanet, train bearers.

Leaders of the ivy and daisy chains are not made known until Ivy Day, when they enter the grounds and form the setting for the May Queen's procession and her crowning by the maid of honor. Four senior women are chosen to lead the ivy chain, and four junior

ESTES COOPERATIVE GETS RETURNS FROM SOCIAL WEDNESDAY

Ice Cream Affair Open to Public on Lawn East of Social Science.

Financial returns from the ice cream social to be held at 7:30 Wednesday night, May 6, will be donated to the Estes Cooperative for their annual conference held at Estes Park. The social will be held on the lawn east of social science annex. Ice cream and cake will be served for 15 cents.

Lorene Adelsack, general chairman, urges that the students attend and states that "although this is a new idea on the campus, we feel that its novelty will be an attraction to many students, and will be successful as a pre-Ivy day celebration." Mildred Holland will act as food chairman, George Rosen and Rowena Swenson will be in charge of the general arrangements, and Betty Cherny and Neil Parks will comprise the publicity committee. There will be entertainment and music during the entire social.

This year's conference will be held from June 5 to 15. Nebraska has always had a large delegation and it is hoped that as many will be able to attend this year.

IVY, DAISY CHAINS TO REHEARSE TODAY AT 5

Final Procession Practice Must Be Attended by All Participants.

Final rehearsal of the ivy and daisy chains scheduled for 5 o'clock tonight at the east side of the gymnasium will be conducted by Herman T. Decker, director of singing; William T. Seniors in the ivy chains and representatives from sorority houses and dormitories in the daisy chain must attend the second rehearsal in order to be eligible for the honor. The members of the chains are to sing the Ivy Day Chant during their procession on the Ivy day grounds, those in the ivy chain wearing white, and those in the daisy chain wearing pastel shades.

MISS RIGDON WRITES FOR 'MAY SCHOOL EXECUTIVE'

'Equipment for Teaching Geography' Subject of Article.

Miss Vera E. Rigdon, instructor of geography, has an article entitled "Equipment for Teaching Geography" published in the May edition of "The School Executive."

Frank E. Sorenson, superintendent of the public schools of Syracuse, Neb., has co-operated with Miss Rigdon in publishing the article. He has stated the faults of public school geography. He states that schools often purchased geography equipment, giving but little thought to the contents, but using the publisher's name as a basis for their selection. Now companies have salesmen who not only know their equipment, but have also been trained in geography.

The purpose of the article is to help instruct superintendents or administrators to buy materials intelligently and effectively. Miss Rigdon made suggestions in her article as to the proper way to select materials.

PATERSON TALKS ON ADJUSTMENT IN OCCUPATIONS

The Prominent Psychologist Addresses Psi Chi Open Meeting.

"The institution of regular advisory boards and advocacy of a testing program for high school and university students to aid them in discovering the work for which they are most naturally adapted," was the point stressed by Dr. Donald G. Paterson, prominent applied psychologist, in his address, "Studies in Occupational Adjustments," delivered last night at the sixth annual open meeting of Psi Chi, national honorary psychological organization.

Dr. Paterson described the work of the employment stabilization research committee at the University of Minnesota where he is a member of the faculty. The committee was organized to make a cross section analysis of the unemployed.

Study Is Made. A comprehensive study was made of each unemployed person who registered with the committee, including a personal interview; a complete history of the person embodying his experience, education, ideas and aims for the future; occupational tests to disclose his clerical and mechanical abilities; personality tests, and a physical examination.

"A surprisingly small percentage of the unemployed are jobless because of technological changes," declared Paterson. "Much of the unemployment was caused by the failure of educational and business organizations in not properly training laborers for their work rather than by technical changes and the substitution of machinery for hand labor."

Data Compiled. Data compiled by the committee showed that the intelligence and clerical aptitude tests were not affected by the eyesight of the person. Further tests prove that despite popular opinion there is

'Sneakers' Tour Campus Daily

Campus Host to High School Children

Hundreds of high school students are conducted daily on tours of the interesting points on the campus, under supervision of guides appointed by L. E. Pike of the University news and feature service.

The practice of being hosts to students on their "sneak days" is one originated several weeks ago thru an agreement between the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and the university. Senior classes of all the high schools in the state and nearby schools in Iowa and Kansas are invited by the chamber to visit Lincoln.

Delegations come in varying quantities from private automobiles to special chartered trams. Friday of this week is expected to be one of the heaviest days of the year, according to Pike, when a special train will bring students from Holdrege while another will transport classes from Shenandoah, Ia.

The tours consist of an inspection of the coliseum, where they are usually greeted by one of the coaches, the stadium and then to the museum in Morrill hall. Many groups are shown around the ag campus. Interrogation has proved these to be the most popular places in the minds of the visitors.

Guides report varying degrees of interest, altho the morning sessions seem to pay the most attention to their conductors. Francis Johnson, one of the guides, believes that afternoon visitors are too tired, and therefore cause the most trouble, asking such questions as "What is this?" when approaching Memorial stadium.

Many groups wish to see the state capital, while others show a much greater interest in the campus. One group is reported as demanding to go thru every building on the city campus.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO COLLECT UNION BUILDING PLEDGES

Hill Asks Organizations to Have Money on Hand This Evening.

Student Union building pledges will be collected on Wednesday of this week between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock. Collection of the money will be made by members of the Student Union building committee of the student council.

Irving Hill, chairman of the committee, requests the organizations to have the money ready as this action is in accord with the resolutions passed by the committee at its meeting held Thursday, April 30.

The money collected on these pledges will be placed in an interest bearing account and definitely marked to be used for furnishings. The pledges at present amount to approximately $20,000, or about one-half the total expense of furnishing the building, according to a statement of L. E. Gunderson, finance secretary of the university.

Apply for WPA Loan. The present plans for financing the $400,000 Student Union building rest mainly in the hands of a bill pending legislation in a committee of congress. As originally proposed the bill granted money to only the WPA. A group of congressmen is attempting to have 700 millions of this set aside for WPA projects which have been listed by Secretary Ickes.

The Nebraska proposal for 45 percent of the cost of the building, or $180,000, is in the PWA list. There is at least an even chance of this bill passing as amended.

Students Pay Fee. The remainder of the building cost will be raised by selling bonds to be issued by the University Dormitory corporation. This corporation was created by the legislature several years ago to finance the building of dormitories and student activities buildings on the campus. Subscriptions for the sale of these bonds cannot be taken until the government ap-

Ivy Day Activities, 'Then, Now' All Eyes Turn to Coming Festivities

With the approach of Ivy day, the eyes of the campus are turned on the junior class, and speculation is high concerning the men and women who will be chosen from it as Mortar Boards and Innocents.

The Nebraska Chapter of Innocents society was founded thirty years ago as a student agency to "guide university attitudes in athletics." It was scarcely established before it began to extend its activities, however, and today it manages freshman convocation, the sale of freshman caps, pre-game rallies, slogan cards, cheer leaders, Homecoming night party, Missouri-Nebraska bell victory trophy and Homecoming house decorations contest.

The society also sponsors the annual Dad's day with its luncheon and special ceremony at the following football game. The colored card stunt section which entertains spectators between halves during football games is also an innocent project.

In 1932 the Innocents inaugurated several new activities. They conducted the sale of season athletic books, published a series of articles on campus extra-curricular activities, and sponsored the organization of a Freshman council to acquaint new men students with the traditions and ideals of the university.

Thirteen junior men, selected for their previous service and promise of future leadership are "tapped" by outgoing members of the society of Innocents each spring to serve for the following year.

Two years after the founding of the Innocents society, in 1905, the Black Masques, forerunners of the Mortar Boards, took up the practice of masking their juniors on the Ivy day celebration. With the presentation of the first May queen, it was the charter members (Continued on Page 4).

'HIGH BARRIER NO PROTECTION FROM EXCESS SURPLUS'

Cabinet Officer Derides U.S. Policy as 'Baby of Industry.'

SAYS USE HOME MARKET

1,500 Hear Secretary Urge Greater Industrial Use of Farm Products.

Returning to the midwest for the first time since his debut into the realm of national politics in 1933, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace stepped to the rostrum in the Activities building of the university college of agriculture, Monday afternoon, to answer the charges laid against the agricultural program set forth by the New Deal administration.

In presenting his defense the gray haired secretary from Iowa, assured the 1,500 farmers who had journeyed to Lincoln for the address that Agriculture was decidedly on the road out but cautioned them that unless the rigid tariff policy of the nation was abandoned we would soon find ourselves in the midst of another dilemma such as that of 1932.

Committee Finishes Plans For Special Event Saturday.

With 20 entries already submitted for the inter-sorority riding contest, sponsored in connection with the Farmer's Fair spring horse show, plans are under way to make final arrangements for the contest which is to be held on Saturday afternoon, May 9, in the specially constructed outdoor arena of the ag campus, according to Herbert Nore, chairman of the committee in charge of the riding event.

"Interest in the contest is even greater than in previous years," Mr. Nore declared, "and present indications point toward the keenest competition in years."

Trobridge Judges Contest. E. A. Trobridge of Columbia, Mo., has been secured to judge the contest. He is connected with the University of Missouri, and is rated as one of the most popular judges in this field in the United States.

Contestants who enter the competition will ride with three different gait, the main ones being a walk-trot and a canter. Bud Shreves of the Shreves riding academy will give information and lessons to any contestants if they wish, according to the announcement made by Mr. Nore.

Contestants F118. Names of the various contestants which have thus far been entered by some of the organized houses on the campus include: Alpha Chi Omega, Phyllis Robin-
