LINCOLN, NEB.

E.W. LANTZ ANNOUNCES PLANS COMPLETE FOR SECOND MIXER FRIDAY

750 Students Attend First All-University Party at Coliseum.

With approximately 750 in attendance at the first all-university party of the summer session, plans for the second such affair to be held Friday evening are being completed. It is expected that an even larger crowd will attend the second summer dance.

Dave Haun and his 12 piece orchestra will again furnish music for the dancing from 9 until 11:30 o'clock in the coliseum. Admission will be ten cents, as it will be for all parties during the summer term.

"We were delighted to have such a large crowd at the first party of the summer," E. W. Lantz, director of the summer session recreational program announced. "The party was successful in every way and we hope to make the affairs even more successful by getting more students to attend."

Softball Progress.

Fine progress is being made in the softball practices, according to Miss Gertrude Leavitt, in charge of the women's recreational program. "We are planning several games with other women's teams in this city and in surrounding towns," Miss Leavitt stated, "because the women enjoy contesting with other teams. The men seem to like to play just among themselves for the exercise."

Tennis lessons will not start for another week, since Bob Harrison, who was to instruct, is in the hospital recovering from an appendicitis operation. An assistant will be selected to help with the instruction, and those who signified their interest in taking part in the tennis activities are asked to spend the week in individual practice.

DR. REED TO ATTEND WPA DISTRICT MEET

Iowa State College Will Entertain Conference

Dr. A. A. Reed, director of the University of Nebraska extension division, has been invited by L. R. Alderman, director of the education division of the WPA, to attend a training institute at Iowa State college, Ames, June 22 to July 4. The federal education division is conducting the institute for state directors and supervisors in the emergency education program. As one of the outstanding pioneers in the development of extension work, Dr. Reed has been invited to take part in the program. He expects to attend both the Ames conference and the Nebraska conference on supervised correspondence study.

Dr. Howerton Directs Chorus Professor Spends Fourth Year Here

In the high school music issue of the Nebraskan, it is quite natural that there should be an interview with George Howerton, director of the chorus, and one of the leading figures of the summer school of music.

In speaking of his choral work, the young director was enthusiastic. "In the four years which I have spent at the University of Nebraska summer school, I have found the high school pupils very eager and willing to work hard."

Under Dr. Howerton's tutelage the chorus has grown from a group of twenty-five to the present number of 102. The chorus this year, according to the director, "has better voices, which are more easily blended than ever before." The chorus will present a concert on Friday, July 10, culminating the four weeks course which they have been taking.

Many Students Now Studying Music Here For Second Summer

"It's a great success" seems to be the consensus of opinion regarding the all-state high school music course now in progress under the sponsorship of the school of music.

All enthusiastic students of music, the more than one hundred young people gathered for the four-week session here declare that they enjoy practicing and appreciate the opportunity to get instruction under famous conductors.

All agree too that the music course is "lots of fun." The swimming pool is a big attraction for many students, who in their home towns have had little opportunity for such recreation. Some are having their first experiences playing tennis, while others are taking advantage of their recreational periods to perfect their games.

One dance has already been held and the young virtuosos are looking forward to other parties before the course is ended.

The high school students not only chat enthusiastically about the merits of the course. Many of them have proved their interest in the work by attending the session for the second time. Others have been enrolled in the course three years and several will have spent four summers in study here when this session closes.

Thirty-three that are enrolled in the course this summer have attended before, either last summer or in the two previous years of its existence. They are as follows: David Fowler, Margaret Porter, Ruth Brokaw, Ward

MISS LEFFERS GIVES METHOD INSTRUCTION

Graduate Student Conducts Model High School English Class.

Furnishing an opportunity for inexperienced teachers to get an idea of how to teach an English class, Miss Ruth Leffers is conducting a demonstration class in English daily from 10:30 to 11:50 in room 212 of Teachers college. Anyone interested is invited to attend a meeting of the class, according to Miss Letta May Clark, assistant professor of methods of instruction in English.

The class, which is for 11th grade students, furnishes instruction in both literature and composition. A normal day's program is made up of a recitation period, conducted by Miss Leffers, from 10:30 to 11:15, and a supervised study period, conducted by the regular practice teacher, from 11:15 until 11:50.

Miss Leffers, a graduate student at the University this summer, has had two years of experience teaching at Exeter.

NEW ALUMNUS ISSUE CONTAINS REPORTS OF RESIGNING OFFICERS

June Magazine Includes Alumni Reunion News; Cover by Kirsch.

"Morrill hall," an etching by Dwight Kirsch, adorns the cover of the June Alumnus, published recently. A poem on the first page by Elmer Reeder Horne, supplementing the etching is entitled, "Morrill Hall."

Photographs of the new alumni officers and a resume of their careers and an article on the commencement luncheon are found in the June issue. Following the Alumni article is one called "Round-up Days," which tells of alumni class reunions, which occurred at commencement time this year.

Seniors Write.

"At Graduation" is the title of an article written by a senior man, fraternity member, successful in activities and scholarship, who remains anonymous. On the second page of a double spread, a senior woman, also anonymously, finds every path cut off by "Closed Doors."

Marylu Petersen is the writer of "Have You Seen Nebraska," illustrated by three lovely photographs of Nebraska scenes by Dwight Kirsch. Miss Petersen enlarges on the theme of "know your own state" and takes the reader on a tour of Nebraska beauty spots.

Striking a pertinent political note, Dr. Lane W. Lancaster presents an article on "An Old Friend, State's Rights," which deals with that ever present problem in the co-operation between state and federal governments.

McBride Reviews.

Gregg McBride, sportswriter for the Lincoln Star, gives a Cornhusker sports review for the year past, outlining Nebraska's sports triumphs and defeats and presenting season and varsity highlights.

An interview with Dr. Rebekah Gibbons, associate professor of "Knife and Fork Recreation," gives interesting information on summer foods, which come within the average budget.

PROF. FROLIK GIVEN DEGREE AT MADISON

Prof. A. L. Frolik, of the department of agronomy at the college of agriculture, received his doctor's degree at Madison, Wis., on June 22. Mr. Frolik's graduate work was taken in agronomy and marsh ecology. He and Mrs. Frolik attended the commencement exercises at Madison.

OUTSTANDING MUSIC STUDENTS PERFORM

A recital presented by outstanding students in the all-state high school music course will be held Saturday morning at 9 a. m. in the Temple theater.

Solo numbers will be presented by students recommended by each of the music instructors. The public is invited to attend this recital, a new feature of the high school music course this year.

RYAN SEES NEED OF NEW PRINCIPLES IN TEACHING PRACTICE

Wisconsin Educator Talks at Annual Summer Conference.

H. H. Ryan, principal of the experimental high school at the University of Wisconsin told Nebraska school teachers and superintendents attending the third annual summer conference sponsored by the University at the Temple Wednesday that "we have reached a point in secondary education where no more progress will be made until new educational principles have been outlined."

Ryan spoke before another large audience during the morning program which was presided over by Mrs. Genevieve Clark, county superintendent at Fairbury. The remainder of the program was given over to discussions and addresses by G. W. Hildreth, principal at Fremont, Neb.; Earl T. Platt, assistant director in charge of supervised correspondence study at the university and R. C. Haight, superintendent of Grass Range, Mont. schools.

Learn From Business.

Speaking on the subject, "Turning the Corner in High School Curricular Development," Ryan declared educators today can learn (Continued on Page 3).

MUSIC STUDENTS HOLD PARTY SATURDAY

Norton, Howerton Special Guests at High School Dance

High school students here attending the all-state music course at the University school of music will hold a party Saturday evening from 8:30 until 11:30 in the ballroom of Carrie Belle Raymond hall.

William W. Norton, director of the high school band and orchestra and George Howerton, in charge of the high school chorus, will be special guests at the party. Chaperons will include Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoff, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Devoe, Miss Frances Stowell, Miss Marthat Marrow and Klair Bosse.

FAMOUS EDUCATORS VISIT CAMPUS FOR ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Haight, Washburne, Ryan Speak at Meetings This Week.

Several of the country's leading educators are here for the University of Nebraska's fourth annual summer conference June 23 to 25, and the conference on supervised correspondence study scheduled for

FRANK M. CYR. R. C. HAIGHT.
—From The Sunday Journal and Star.

June 26 and 27. The two programs have been arranged one after the other so that delegates will have the opportunity of attending both.

R. C. Haight, superintendent of schools at Grassrange, Mont., chairman of the national conference on supervised correspondence study, will be here for the entire study conference. Another important leader in the correspondence study field, Dr. Frank Cyr, assistant professor of education at Columbia teachers college, will be here for the program June 27.
