

COPY FOR '36-'37 'N' BOOK GOES TO PRINTER

Freshman Manual Will Have
Scarlet and Cream
Cover Design.

Copy for the 1936-37 "N" book will be sent to the printers in the near future, according to Eleanor Clizbe, editor of the freshman catalogue of University information. The book is published each year by the Y. W. C. A. on the University campus. Richard Becker, of the Y. M., is business manager for the publication.

The books, which will be on sale at the opening of school in the fall, will have many new features this year, including a cover done in Nebraska colors, cream with a scarlet "N."

Additional space has been given to the description of student publications this year, Miss Clizbe stated, and the book will contain pictures of the presidents of the various outstanding organizations as well as information concerning the campus, major activities, faculty, and a catalog of school events.

A page acquainting new students with college jargon will be included in this year's book, in addition to the page of college traditions, which is meant to give the freshman an idea of what important functions to expect.

SKETCHES

One of the very few Hollywood stars who even dares to think of fall right in the midst of the mid-summer heat, Claudette Colbert has announced that the one definite plan she has made for her winter wardrobe has to do with furs. Because Claudette adores all shades of brown, beige, tan and rust she will have Travis Banton design a "safari" brown sealskin coat for her. This will be a combination of sports and formal coat so that it may be worn in the daytime or at night with equal chic.

LeRoy Prinz, dance director at the Paramount studios, traveled around the world three times in order to study dances of all nations.

Jane Rhodes, 14-year-old singer with an Ambassador Hotel orchestra, has been placed under a long-term contract by the Paramount studios.

W. R. Johnson of the conservation and survey division is author of a recent bulletin entitled "The Ostracoda of the Missouri Series in Nebraska."

School Should Give Broad Understanding

mentary schools, and that there was more of a trend in the last few years for teachers in the secondary schools to teach their subject matter in relation to social conditions. Trained Teachers Needed.

"The facts about the 'isms' should certainly be taught in the schools but not before the senior year in high school," she declared. Then they should be presented by a well trained and well informed teacher.

In the opinion of Su-t. Lowell DeVoe of Plattsmouth, the schools should be leaders and not followers in the attempt to set up a new social order. Believing that the schools would set up certain desirable objectives in our social and economic field according to the principles of the frontier thinkers and then indoctrinate children in that direction, he thinks that they would be of utmost value.

"This new process of indoctrination of objectives should begin in the home and be carried on through the elementary schools," DeVoe stated. "What the curriculum would be would depend on the objectives."

Three Problems.
In setting up this new social order, there would be three problems to meet, he believes. First, the fact that the teachers must be better trained; second, that the schools are not the only factor which should work to set up a new social order; and third, that there will be the problem of knowing what objectives to indoctrinate.

Youth should be educated with regard to facts about old, present, and suggested orders, in the opinion of Dr. H. H. Linn, visiting instructor in the teachers' college. The student of today should be made to see the weaknesses and good points of all three problems. "It is not advisable to indoctrinate the students with this idea or that, nor to set up a scheme or skeleton of an order and try to make them conform to it," he said. "Rather, teach them how to think, not what to think; then let them form their own opinions."

nate the students with this idea or that, nor to set up a scheme or skeleton of an order and try to make them conform to it," he said. "Rather, teach them how to think, not what to think; then let them form their own opinions."

Policy of Progress.
J. W. Litherland, superintendent of schools at Culbertson, outlined a policy of progress firmly backed by the schools.

"The schools should not attempt to tear down the old order, and erect a new one, but should instill in the pupils a desire to find the faults of the old order and correct them," he believes.

Since the position of the teacher gives him or her great influence over the forming of the students' opinion, the Culbertson superintendent believes that great care should therefore be exercised in keeping both sides of any question constantly in the pupils' minds.

FRANCIS, AMEN LEAVE WITH AMERICAN TEAM FOR BERLIN OLYMPIAD

that sailed for the 11th Olympiad in Berlin from August 1 to 16.

Olympic Marks Bettered.
World record performance Olympic marks were bettered in 7 of the 14 finals contests Sunday and in 8 of the 17 events decided during the two-day meet waged on the new municipal stadium. With 49 athletes accounting for 51 individual places on the team, apart from the makeup of the two relay squads, Ohio State's renowned Jesse Owens qualified in his three specialties. He will seek the first Olympic "triple" since Paavo Nurmi of Finland turned the trick in 1924 at Paris.

Cardwell was entered in the hop, step and jump at Princeton in order to keep in shape for the Olympic finals to follow when he pulled the muscle in his leg. The Luscie pained him so much in his first leap Sunday that he couldn't even get off the ground and didn't attempt another.

Twenty From California.
With twenty athletes in the competition, California boasts more than any other state. They include the University of California Negro, Archie Williams in 400 meters, Cornelius Johnson of Los Angeles, Louis Zamperini, Torrance, Calif., high school boy, and a trio of pole vaulters, Bill Sefton, Earl Meadows, and Bill Graber.

The team that sailed for Berlin last night to represent the United States, is the largest that has ever been sent.

TEACHING HEADS LIST SUMMER STUDENTS' WINTER OCCUPATIONS

three students were placed. Such occupations included farmers, day laborers, salesmen, tradesmen, mechanical employees, and the like, according to Mr. Moritz.

Teachers in 8 Colleges.
Of the teachers attending the summer session, 540 are registered in the teachers college; 54 in the arts and science college; one in engineering; six in business administration; one in pharmacy; 13 in agriculture; five in the school of music; 419 in the graduate college; and 16 unclassified.

The largest number of students registered in the summer session, who are also enrolled during the winter terms, are in the arts and science college. The figures are as follows: arts and science, 164; teachers' college, 130; engineering, 53; business administration, 58; dentistry, 11; pharmacy, one; agriculture, 46; school of music, nine; pre-med, four; school of journalism, five; and graduate, 64.
