BURNETT OPENS CONCLAVE WITH WELCOME TALK

University Faculty Active In State Prep Staff Conventions.

Members of the University of Nebraska faculty will again take an active part in the district conventions of the Nebraska State Teachers' association this coming week. Convention centers include Lincoln, Omaha, Norfolk, McCook, Kearney and Alliance, where delegates will gather on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Chancellor E. A. Burnett will give the address of welcome in the university coliseum to delegates at the district 1 meeting in Lincoln, Wednesday morning. At the evening session, Dean F. E. Henzlik of the teachers' college will be the leader at an open forum.

Miss Luvicy M. Hill of the teachers' college faculty will address a commercial meeting of the district 1 convocation on "Improvement in Instruction in Commercial Education," and at the same session a talk on "Advantages of Modern Methods in Teaching Shorthand" will be offered by another teachers' college instructor, Miss Gertrude Beers.

Herbert Yenne of the speech and dramatic art faculty speaks on "The Place Drama and Speech Should Hold in English," at an English sectional meeting. Dr. Willem Van Royen addresses a geography group on "Present Political Problems in Their Geographical Setting," as a part of the Thursday program.

"A Short Feature in Latin" is the topic on which Dr. O. W. Reinmuth of the classics department will talk before a Latin group in Lincoln Thursday. Group singing of Latin songs will be led by Dean C. H. Oldfather of the arts and science college. Lloyd D. Teale of the Romance language department faculty, who spent the summer in war-torn Spain, will address a modern language group on "Traditional Spain versus Modern Spain," Thursday.

Dr. E. E. Lackey, associate professor of geography, will act as discussion leader on the topic of "Some More Problems in the Teaching of Geography"; among those on the panel are Dr. Esther A. Anderson of the geography department and Hazel Davis of the teachers college faculty.

Dean O. J. Ferguson of the college of engineering will give the principal address before the mathematics section. A University of Nebraska string quartet composed of Emanuel Wishnow, Dorothy Holcomb, Lee Hemingway and Catherine Cox, with Earnest Harrison accompanist, will furnish the music for the music section.

At the state association of Deans of women and girls meeting Friday the principal address will be given by Dr. Hattie Plum Williams, professor of sociology. Dean Amanda Heppner, dean of women, talks on "Some Outstanding Phases of the St. Louis Convention," and Miss Elsie Ford Piper, assistant dean of women, speaks on "Why Regional Meetings: The Answer Given by the Denver Conference." They are included on the Friday program of the Lincoln convocation.

"A Guidance Program for Nebraska Schools," will be discussed before the vocational guidance section at Lincoln by Dr. Cecil Scott and Dr. Dewey B. Stuit, both of teachers college faculty.

C. K. Morse, of the University Extension Department, announces, "All members of the University of Nebraska faculty are invited to be present at the all-convention banquet scheduled for the Cornhusker Ballroom at 6:30 o'clock, Wednesday evening. This banquet is under the management of the Lincoln Teachers Forum, of which A. E. Folsom is president. The principal speaker will be Dr. E. K. Fretwell of the Teachers College in Columbia University. The tickets for this banquet may be reserved in advance at the Nebraska State Teachers association headquarters or may also be secured at the desk of the Hotel Cornhusker."

Thursday and Friday, mornings and evenings, there will be sessions in the University Coliseum. Other buildings on the campus that will be used at various times during the convention are the Little Theater, Gallery, and several classrooms in Morrill Hall, Social Science Auditorium, Temple Theater, Mechanical Engineering Auditorium, and Vocational Agriculture Hall at Ag College.

Includes Homecoming.

Although the convention officially closes Friday night, many teachers will stay over for the Saturday Homecoming game. Also at 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon the University Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Raymond Reid, will give its Fall Concert in the University Coliseum.

At the district 2 convention in Omaha Margaret Fedde, professor of home economics, is speaking on "My Trip to Europe," before the home economics section Thursday. From the classics department Dr. Clarence A. Forbes will go to Omaha to talk on "A Decalogue for Latin Teachers."

Norfolk, scene of the district 3 teachers convention, will hear Dr. W. H. Morton, chairman of the department of secondary education, talk on "That Life May be Rich," at a general session Friday. Newton W. Gaines, state extensions agent in community organization, will address the joint rural institute on "Looking Ahead," Thursday at Norfolk. Mr. Gaines is also scheduled for a talk entitled "Psychology in Presenting Agriculture Information," before the vocational agriculture section. Dr. Morton also talks on "The Administrator Holds the Key," before a meeting of superintendents and principals.

Also on the district 3 slate is W. H. Browne, head basketball coach at the Cornhusker institution, who speaks on "A Philosophy of Athletics in Education," to the men's physical education section.

The district 4 convention of teachers meets at Kearney from Wednesday to Friday. Prof. Norma Gillett, teachers college faculty member, gives an address before the intermediate grades division meeting on "Teaching of Reading in Grades 4, 5, and 6."

"Improving the teaching of Home Economics" is the subject for a talk by Prof. Rowman E. Eliff, assistant professor of vocational education, to the home economics section, Thursday. Geograph-visual education leaders at Kearney will hear Dr. Earl E. Lackey of the geography department talk on "Map Grids by Projection," and a travel talk on Europe, illustrated with slides, by Dr. Esther Anderson, also of the geography department.

Dr. L. C. Wimberly, professor of English and editor of the Prairie Schooner, will lecture on "Let U-Write" before a Kearney English group. The district 4 convocation will also have an opportunity to hear a talk on "Modern Language in Nebraska," by Dr. Harry Kurz, chairman of the department of Romance languages, Thursday.

Speaking on "Our Future in Vocational Agriculture," is Dr. H. E. Bradford, chairman of the vocational educational department, while Prof. C. J. Frankforter, chemistry teacher, speaks on "Motor Fuels and Motor Lubricants," to the science group.

McCook, mecca of high school teachers in district 5, will hear a principal address delivered by Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, professor of secondary education, on "Our N. S. T. A." at a general session Thursday.

Also on the McCook program are Dr. Vera Rigdon of the geography department, talking on "The Rural Teacher Gets a Break," and Prof. A. C. Easton, supervisor of practical arts, who speaks before the industrial arts section Friday. Dr. Rosenlof will deliver a second talk of the elementary and joint rural institute meeting, his topic being "Specific Changes in the Course of Study for the Elementary Schools of Nebraska."

As a part of the commercial arts special meeting, a demonstration of the functional method of teaching Gregg shorthand, will

SALE OF 'N' STAMPS WILL REACH 20,000

Workers Expect Receipts To Far Exceed Those Of Last Year.

With receipts already exceeding those of last year's N stamp salesmen, the individual and team workers on the stamp committee this year are almost sure to reach the goal of 20,000 set by Martha Morrow, A. W. S. board member in charge of the sale.

Topping the list of group salesmen is the Alpha Xi Delta team, composed of Lois Cooper and Carol Sims. Together they have sold a total of 3400 stamps. Jean Meents of Alpha Omicron Pi heads the list of individual salesmen, having sold 1138 stickers. Twenty-one teams made up of representatives from all organized women's houses on the campus are conducting the sale.

The drive begun Oct. 2 and will end with a final check-up in Ellen Smith hall Thursday, Oct. 29. Miss Morrow asks that all salesmen report between the hours of 4 and 5:30 on that day.

DR. HARRY TALKS TO LUTHERANS TONIGHT

STUDENT DIRECTORY FOR 1936 TO APPEAR ON CAMPUS MONDAY

Volume, Largest in History, Lists Faculty, Student Names, Addresses.

Containing all 6,539 students enrolled in the university plus several hundred faculty names, the 1936-37 student directory, biggest in history, will make its appearance on the campus Monday morning. Gordon Williams has served as editor, and Jay Richardson as business manager, under the publishing direction of the Y. M. C. A.

Oct. 26 is the earliest date the directory has ever been put out, making four new records this year's work has set up. Included in its composition are, besides the advertising, the names of all students attending the university in Lincoln, their city addresses, telephone numbers, and social affiliations, if the person has any. Likewise the addresses and telephone numbers, together with degrees, titles, departments, and teaching positions of the faculty members will be listed in alphabetical order. At the end of the book are given social and professional fraternities and sororities, with the names of actives and pledges under each.

Differing from the green of last school year, the directory will be covered with a goldenrod jacket, cut in the usual size of five by four inches. It will go on sale tomorrow morning in Long's, Coop, Graves and Regents bookstores and in booths in Social Sciences and Ag hall, at the regular price of 50 cents a copy.

All late registrants will be included in a special supplement. In addition maps of both the town and agricultural campi have been drawn to be included in the publication, together with a new section of pictures photographed of university buildings.

GROUP CHAMPIONS NEW PROPOSAL IN FIGHT OVER UNION

R street site is most suitable. And because an L-shaped structure affords better facilities for expansion, it should be accepted."

Another Union committee member, George Pipal, remarked, "Some time ago I asked a university official why they didn't get convocation speakers that were more attractive in the student point of view, and he replied that they were afraid a good speaker might draw too large a crowd. The coliseum is too large, and the Temple is too small to use for convocations. We'll just have to wait until we get a student union building with a good auditorium."

Need of Auditorium.

"That chance has come," Pipal continued, "and now the administration wants to build a structure with no auditorium, and worse yet, no provision for the addition of one. By placing the E-shaped building in line with Social Sciences, as the plans demand, only 65 feet of clearance will be left between it and Teachers college, hardly room enough for an auditorium. And an addition cannot be made on the side, since the annex would run into the site of the proposed library. The L-shaped building is the only plausible way out."

Meanwhile, Ray Ramsay, alumni secretary who has seen six years of union building agitation from the inside, added a "take it easy" note to the fray.

"If this grant is what I hope it is, Nebraska is about to receive the greatest single contribution to its extracurricular life that has been made in its history. But we don't even have the terms of the grant yet. What if there were provisions included that the university couldn't meet?"

ROLAND NYE TO TALK AT Y.W.C.A. VESPERS

Pastor to Give Discussion On Life of Service, Next Tuesday.

Roland W. Nye, of the Emmanuel Methodist church, is to speak at the Y. W. C. A. vesper service this coming Tuesday, according to Frances Scudder, vesper chairman. This weekly meeting will be held at Ellen Smith hall at 5 o'clock, to which all university women are invited.

The theme of the service is "Life as a Place of Service." Doris von Bergen is in charge of the devotional period.

The vesper choir, under the direction of Margaret Philippe, will sing a special number. Elizabeth Ackerman, vesper choir accompanist, will play a piano prelude.
