SEEN OVER THE WEEKEND.

Genevieve Hoff standing shivering in front of the stadium awaiting the start of the rally...Pat Woolery's newly acquired roadster occupied by Mr. Woolery and Madeline Uridil...Wade Meredith, Mary Gavin, Bill Cline, Jack Gellatly and Dow Wilson giving Johnny Howell a send-off cheer... Bob Hughes, Sigma Nu, back at school after an illness of several months...a blind man and a huge police dog at the train rally...the dog with a box for contributions in his mouth and a Nebraska feather tucked over one ear...Marguerite Hazard and Archie Carpenter en route to the ag mixer...quiet on the Saturday morning campus in contrast to last week's hulabaloo...three Phi Psi's setting on the front steps idly waving a Nebraska pennant...Dorothy Van Patten, Theta wearing a corsage and that after initiation smile at the ag mixer...Mr. Selleck and Dean Thompson standing between teachers and sosh evidently discussing suggested sites for the Union...and little or no activity on an out-of-town game week end.

Paging The Smart Coed

Pale Hands I Love.

Pale hands, pink tipped may be all they ever were beside the Shalimar, the beau ideal of every girl, the admiration of every man; but on the campus brown hands, white hands, large hands, small hands, long narrow hands with tapering fingers and square efficient hands with perfectly ordinary fingers—all are equally desirable. The only essentials for the modern beautiful hand are softness, smoothness, good grooming.

Don't—even if you're thinking of doing so—congratulate yourself too soon on these "snap" requirements. Softness, smoothness and good grooming are not attributes of every hand in these days of hard water, wintry weather, chemistry, zoology and botany lab. In fact if you want to have beautiful hands despite all, you'll have to give them careful attention.

Remember, first of all, that it's not the housewife only who gets her hands in hot water a dozen times a day. You, too, in the interests of cleanliness, are constantly washing your hands. To avoid consequent, dryness, chapping, flaky skin and roughness that comes from washing the hands and exposure to cold, you should use a good hand lotion after every washing. Massage it in carefully, starting at the finger tips and working down over the wrists half way to the elbow. Never forget the wrists—they are the no-mans land between sleeves and gloves and undergo all the storms of washing and weather. Now wring your hands hard. This will quicken circulation and help parched skin to absorb the cream.

At night, before retiring I recommend a thoro cleansing with beauty grains, the pore deep wash that refines skin texture. This should be followed with a liberal application of the hand lotion, which softens and soothes. Leave the hand lotion on over night—wear loose cotton gloves over the lotion at night for the best and quickest results—and you'll be astounded at the improvement in your hands.

If all this seems like a good deal of trouble, just remember that your hands are almost as much in the public eye as your face, that beautiful hands are almost as much of a beauty asset now as they were in the days of the Victorian poets. Ten minutes a day is not too much to spend on them! —Helena Rubenstein.
