JUNIOR-SENIOR BALL SCHEDULED MARCH 5

Bernstein Says Orchestra Will Be Obtained Thru Midwestern Co-Operative Booking Agency; Predicts Good Music as Result.

Jane Walcott, Arts and Sciences junior, and Dave Bernstein, Bizad junior, were elected to serve as co-chairmen of the Junior-Senior Prom committee when the Student Council met in special session yesterday afternoon. Other members of the group are Virginia Anderson, Genevieve Bennett, Bill Clayton, Marie Kotouc, Betty Magee, Bob Martz, Web Mills, Al Moseman, Rosalie Mott, and Bob Wadhams. Elected annually the committee is put in complete charge of the Junior-Senior Prom which is traditionally the closing formal affair of the school season. Although responsible to the council, the committee wields a free hand in making all preparations for the party.

Good Band Says Bernstein. "Thru aid of the Midwestern Co-operative Student Booking agency with which the council recently decided to affiliate, we intend to have the best orchestra and the best party, not only of this school year, but in the history of the university," declared Bernstein.

His partner, Jane Walcott, added that "this year's committee will not make the mistake of letting preparations lag. We will have our group organized and working just as soon as possible." This year's prom will be held (Continued on Page 2.)

STAGE SET FOR 1936 OFFERING OF 'ELIJAH' AT COLISEUM SUNDAY

Kirkpatrick Adds Finishing Touches to Choral Union Production.

Under the baton of Director Howard Kirkpatrick and accompanied by the Nebraska Symphony orchestra, over 300 voices will be heard singing Mendelssohn's "Elijah" in the annual Christmas program presented by the university Dec. 13 at the coliseum. Sunday afternoon will mark the 41st program dedicated to the people of the state of Nebraska.

Handel's "Messiah" has echoed the Christmas story in past presentations and several other standard works have been used, largely thru the efforts of Carrie Belle Raymond. Last year, Professor Kirkpatrick, director of the school of music, introduced Mendelssohn's "Elijah" to a large and appreciative audience whose response was incentive enough to (Continued on Page 3.)

DEBATE TEAM GOES TO KANSAS MOCK SESSION

Forensic Quartet to Uphold Four Bills at Student Legislature.

Coach White and four of his deputies, David C. Curtis, James R. Irvin, Paul Bestandig, and Edmund Holstein, left yesterday afternoon for Topeka, Kas. where they will attend the third annual student legislative assembly, which is being held in the statehouse Dec. 10, 11, and 12.

Four bills have been sent to the assembly and will be upheld by the Nebraska representatives at the gathering.

The mock legislature, which students from 28 schools in eight states will attend, is intended to give effective training in forensics and governmental procedure. Believing that the plan is a worthwhile step in the advancement of (Continued on Page 3.)

HOLIDAY ISSUE OF BLUE PRINT TO GO ON STANDS TODAY

N. U. Engineering Magazine Features Article by W. J. Lempke.

Featuring an article on aerial photography by W. J. Lempke, E. E. 11, the December issue of the Nebraska Blue Print, publication of the college of engineering, is out today. An article on Science and the Social Sciences by Donald F. Othmer of the Polytechnic Institute of Boston, as well as the regular features, Alumni News, Sledge, Jr., The Engineer and Progress, and the Dean's Corner, also appear.

In his article, "Picking Cable Routes from the Air," W. J. Lempke, division superintendent of the long lines department of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, describes the procedure used in picking out a cable route by means of aerial surveys, and makes recommendations concerning further use of photography surveying in connection with preliminary surveys. According to Mr. Lempke, the method of using aerial surveys in lands heavily wooded and containing swamps, peat beds, and few roads is fully justified from the standpoint of cost and efficiency.

VOICE, PIANO STUDENTS TO GIVE RECITAL TODAY

School of Music Instructors Sponsor Program at Temple Theater.

Five voice and piano students of the school of music will present the weekly student recital in the Temple theater, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Appearing on the program will be Naomi Mendenhall, Geraldine Krause, Mildred Platz, Lella Massie, and Mrs. Yerdia Robertson. Naomi Mendenhall, a piano pupil of Miss Morley's, will play the first numbers of the recital, "Prelude and Fugue, B flat" by Bach, and "Prelude, Op. 28, No. 17" by Chopin. "The Virgin's Slumber Song" of Reger, and "As We Part" by Igenfritz will be sung by Geraldine Krause, who studies with Miss Wagner.

A student of Miss Klinker, Mildred Platz will offer two piano compositions, Mozart's "Romance" and Liszt's "Sposalizio" "Bagatelle" by Bartok and "Le Seville-Lane Joyeuse" by Turina will be played on the piano by Lella Massie, whose teacher is Mr. Harrison. Mrs. Yerdia Robertson, a student of Mrs. Van Kirk has chosen the vocal selection, "The Stormy Evening" composed by Homer, to conclude the program. Miss Whitma Anderson has made arrangements for the recital.

Tomorrow afternoon delivery boys with florist boxes under their arms will spring up, as thick as mushrooms, on the doorsteps of fraternity houses and other dwellings of campus Romeos. Out of the nests of wax paper in the boxes, those men who are going to the Mortar Board leap year party will lift the product of their dates' ingenious imaginations.

Following are a few of the delightful surprises in store for those lucky fellows who will attend the Ball. Large yellow chrysanthemums surrounded by a cluster of red candy kisses and sprigs of holly, and tied with red tulle ribbons, will grace the lapsels of the escorts of Frances Spencer and Helen and Peggy Pascoe, of the Chi Omega house.

Cigarette Cossage to Shine. Margaret Anderson, A. O. P. plans to present her date with a cossage of cigarettes. Ellen Full-

WARNING TO STUDENTS WATCH YOUR STUFF! THIEVES WORKING NEBRASKA CAMPUS

Suspecting a gang of clothing thieves to be at work on the campus, Police Sergeant L. C. Regler issued a warning to students and faculty members to take special pains in guarding their overcoats and other personals.

Issuance of the warning was made following the report of the second overcoat loss in three days which occurred in class room buildings on the city campus. An overcoat belonging to Robert Davies was the object of the first disappearance. His coat, described as a new one with a black leather belt was lost from the architectural school between 4:30 and 5 o'clock on Monday of this week.

Morrill hall was the scene of the second suspected robbery which occurred between one and three yesterday afternoon. A brown coon skin coat owned by Miss Katharine Faulkner, assistant professor of drawing and painting, was taken from room 309. Miss

Faulkner valued the coat at approximately $200. "This is the first time in quite a number of years that clothing has been stolen from class buildings," stated Regler. "I believe that it may be an organized gang who travel from campus to campus, stealing articles of clothing wherever possible and shipping them to Omaha or Kansas City for easy disposal."

Regler advised that if such a group does exist, they are no novices at the practice, for similar burglaries have been reported at the city library and most of the other larger public buildings. "Since these losses have been increasing in frequency and value, students and faculty members will just have to watch their things more closely than ever, until this menace is erased. If you see any suspicious characters do not hesitate to notify us, and we will investigate without the loss of a minute."

NEBRASKA-IN-CHINA STAFF SETS SECOND BAZAAR FOR DEC. 10

Proceeds from Sale to Go to Fund for Foreign Missionaries.

Because of the success of the original bazaar held Tuesday at Ellen Smith hall, the Nebraska-in-China staff of the Y.W.C.A. will sponsor a similar bazaar Thursday from 9 in the morning to 5 in the afternoon.

Mildred Holland, chairman of the Nebraska-in-China committee, announced plans for the second bazaar Tuesday night, following the close of the first sale. The carnivals are held for the purpose of raising money to support missionaries in China.

Linen's tea and many Christmas gifts will be displayed at the bazaar. All of the merchandise has been imported from the orient by the Y.W.C.A. Among the novelties are little woolly dogs and knick knacks for what-nots. The bazaar is open to all students and to the public. Tables will be arranged with displays in the main hall of Ellen Smith Thursday.

'Chronicles of Chronic Immigrant' Topic of Address By Austrian Who Started as Laborer in This Country a Half Century Ago.

SEES AMERICA AS MELTING POT OF WORLD

Student of New York's East Side Populace, Author of Immigration Books, Tolstoy's Life Left Austria to Avoid Military Service.

One of the country's most interesting personalities and best informed lecturer on immigration and immigrants, Dr. Edward A. Steiner, sociologist and professor of applied Christianity in Grinnell college, will speak at a university convocation this morning at 11 o'clock in the Temple theatre. Dr. Steiner will speak on the subject of "The Chronicles of a Chronic Immigrant."

This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of Dr. Steiner's coming to America after escaping from Austria to avoid military service. His experiences as a day laborer in the mines of the country, and his difficulties in getting a foothold here led him to make a study of America as the great melting pot.

Once a Laborer. Trained as a classical philologist at the University of Heidelberg, Dr. Steiner was well prepared to rise from common laborer to professor of sociology. He divided his time between his classes in Grinnell college and the people of the lower east side in New York City, studying their problems from every angle. His efforts brought him into contact with almost every economic, social, and political problem of the day.

Author of numerous books on immigration, he has been the guest of Theodore Roosevelt, Andrew Carnegie, J. P. Morgan, and Harry L. Hopkins, who recognized his experience and views as valuable to the country.

Place of New York in U. S. Scene. Topic of Third College Contest.

With "L'Amour des Petits Faits" as his subject, Reginald French spoke before the Le Cercle Français last evening in Gallery A at Morrill Hall. Thirty-five persons attended.

Mr. French, instructor in the Romance Language department, told some personal incidents relating to his teaching experience. "Students are so occupied, learning facts that when they are asked to give the central idea of an article or story they are unable to do so," in Mr. French's opinion.

"Students do not make an effort to understand questions," he said, therefore they can not answer them. The problem is to detach those facts which have some personal significance from those compiled facts which have no meaning." Mr. French concluded, "Ensemble" singing of French Christmas carols concluded the program. Robert Stookey accompanied at the piano.

Announcement was made by Lenore Teale, president, of a Christmas party to be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 16, at the home of J. R. Nesbitt. Games and songs will constitute the evening's entertainment. All interested are invited to attend. Each is asked to bring a ten cent gift with him.

COL-AGRI-FUN PLANS REACH COMPLETION

Final Dress Rehearsal Set For Tonight; Revue Is Saturday, Dec. 12.

With the final dress rehearsal of all skits and curtain acts of the 1936 Col-Agri-Fun revue scheduled for this evening, plans for the annual presentation to be given in the Ag Student Activities on Dec. 12 are complete, according to John Bengtson, manager of the board in charge of the show.

Comprised of seven skits and eight curtain acts, the program is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening, and according to present plans will be followed by a dance in the Activities building.

Inaugurating a new tradition in relation to the annual revue, the Col-Agri-Fun board has announced (Continued on Page 4.)
