BIBLE ADDS NEW AIDE TO HUSKER COACHING STAFF

Former Nebraska Football Player to Instruct Freshman Squad.

By Morris Lipp.

Once a great Cornhusker football end and basketball guard, Adolph J. Lewandowski will take his place as a member of the Nebraska coaching staff next year, Athletic Director Dana X. Bible announced Saturday.

"Lew," as he is known to followers of Husker athletics, played on the Nebraska football team at a flank position in 1928, 1929 and 1930. During the hardwood campaigns of 1929, 1930 and 1931 he was a guard and the speediest floor man on the basketball varsity.

Coach Bible and Lewandowski conferred in Seattle when the Cornhusker football party was returning from the victory over Oregon State at Portland. The appointment was approved by the athletic board at a meeting this week and Lewandowski's acceptance reached Coach Bible Saturday.

Jack Gavin Returns from Trek to Far East on Oil Tanker; Tells of Sailor's Strike, Typhoon, Russia

To sail the seven seas, swabbing the decks and painting the rails has been the unfulfilled ambition of scores of university "would be gobs." But last summer Jack Gavin, Bizad graduate, and Tom Davies, law college senior, vowed to work their way across the Pacific. Jack was lucky; Tom changed his mind.

Having decided to be sailors for the summer, the two left Lincoln on June 11. Just a week ago Gavin returned from California to meet the first snow storm of the season. Between these dates, however, Mr. Gavin had some experiences enviable to any nautical minded college student.

Work As "Stand Bys."

After tramping about California for weeks, the young man finally worked in as a "stand by" on

LULU RUNGE HEADS SCIENCE SORORITY

Sigma Delta Epsilon Installs Officers at Program Saturday Night.

Miss Lulu Runge of the mathematics faculty of the university was installed as the new president of Sigma Delta Epsilon, graduate women's science sorority at a dinner and installation program at Ellen Smith hall Saturday evening. Other new officers inducted into office included Miss Viola Jelinek, chemistry department, vice president; Miss Matilda Peters, of the home economics staff, treasurer; and Miss Adolphia Mitchell, of the department of geography, re-elected secretary.

DECEMBER AWGWAN COMES OUT MONDAY FOR CITY, AG CAMPI

Business Manager, Baker, Places Sales Stands At Ag College.

Filled with episodes of the hidden past pertaining to prominent members of the Nebraska campus, the December edition of the Awgwan, campus humor publication, will go on the news stands Monday. For the first time this fall stands will be set up on the agricultural campus. On the downtown campus stands will be in Andrews hall and Sosh. Fraternities and sororities will receive their magazines by noon Monday.

"We are trying to get the Ag campus as interested in the Awgwan as the downtown campus is at the present time," said Floyd Baker, business manager of the publication. "The sales of the last three issues of the magazine have been the largest in history. For this reason a larger number are being ordered for the December issue than any time before. We suggest that the students take the magazine home for the Christmas vacation, and let his or her parents read it."

Robinson Designs Cover.

With a prominent cover designed by Marvin Robinson, the publication promises to be the best printed this year. Featuring astonishing revelations about Dr. Louise Pound, professor of English, Prof. Arthur Jenness of the psychology department and Prof. Carl Steckleberg, violin instructor, written by Bill Hollister under the heading of "My Dear Mr. Ripley," the magazine will uphold its reputation as being a humor publication.

Lewandowski to Assist D. X. on Coaching Staff

Adolph J. Lewandowski, former Cornhusker football end and basketball star, will next year become a part of the Nebraska coaching staff. Since graduation in '31, "Lew" has been a member of the coaching staff at the University of Montana.

W. H. C. LAVES FLAYS U. S. NEUTRALITY ACT

League of Nations Director Speaks Tonight at Mass Meeting.

That the neutrality act of 1935 embodies the best sentiments and the worst thinking of the people working for peace in the United States was the opinion expressed by Dr. W. H. C. Laves, director of the midwest division of the League of Nations association, at a luncheon Saturday noon at the Grand Hotel.

The address on "Why Nations Go to War," which was the first of a series of talks held in Lincoln, Saturday and continuing today, was heard by approximately 80 persons, comprised peace workers, university professors, and students. Dr. Laves, who has been in intimate contact with foreign problems in European capitals during recent months, has been brought to Lincoln under auspices of the Nebraska League of Nations association, the Lincoln Peace Council, the university International Relations club, and the Fire-side Liberals of the Unitarian church.

Neutrality Talk Tonight.

The principal address by Dr. Laves in Lincoln, will be delivered at a mass meeting in the Unitarian church tonight, beginning at 7:30. The meeting is open to the public. The topic for the lecture is "Neutrality! Can it Maintain Peace?"

"The present setup in neutrality legislation assures the aggressor that the victim of aggression will receive neither arms, goods, nor credit from neighboring nations even if the latter are sympathetic towards the victim," Dr. Laves stated in the Grand Hotel talk. "Such a policy is bound to pave the way for unhampered aggression," he continued.

"An intelligent neutrality law, if it is to be based on a long range (Continued on Page 2.)

Ag Cafeteria Skit Wins First Place in Fun Show

"March of Time," a skit by the Ag Cafeteria club, won first place in the Coll-Agri-Fun show given Saturday evening in the Student Activities building on Ag campus. The skit was awarded a cash prize and a silver trophy. "Evolution of Love" by the Farm Operators was awarded second place by the judges. Curtain acts which won first place were the German Band and a Chalk Talk.

PRESBYTERIANS HOLD CHRISTMAS SERVICE

A tradition of 20 years will be observed this afternoon when the student and young people's groups of the First Presbyterian church hold their annual Christmas candle lighting ceremony, an event that has long opened the Christmas season in Lincoln churches. The service proper will begin at 4:30 but an hour before that many of the thousand young people who are expected to attend will gather for preliminary services.

Dr. Howard Talbot of Omaha will be the principal speaker at the ceremony and 130 voices of the three church choirs will join in the processional. To augment the spirit of worship cathedral tapers and 100 trees have been arranged in a Gothic theme on the rostrum.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL PLANS EXAMINATION OF CURRICULA HERE

Nebraska Participates in National Movement for Standardization.

In a nationwide effort to standardize and bring to a general high level engineering curricula of colleges and universities of the country, the University of Nebraska and other schools are being examined by committees representing the Engineering Council for Professional Development. The Nebraska examination is tentatively set for the week of Jan. 25.

Dean I. C. Crawford of the University of Idaho will head the committee of five who will inspect the engineering setup here. The examination will be thorough to the nth degree. Not only will the engineering college curriculum proper be studied, but also all courses serving as supplementary material, including chemical engineering subjects, physics, English and economics.

Test Highway Labs.

In addition the highway testing laboratories will be checked, as well as general policy of the institution, the registrar's office, finance and alumni files which will be expected to show the recorded progress of all graduates of the college. The committees will confer with Chancellor Burnett and will also check up on engineering library facilities, classroom and laboratory space.

Dean Ferguson and Prof. J. W. Haney of the mechanical engineering department represented the council as members of the examining committee for Montana State university Nov. 23.

Variances of Opinion on Recent Abdication of King Edward Show Sides of Human Nature—Waiton

Editor's Note: In the following article Dr. W. E. Waiton of the university psychology department, analyzes the underlying reasons for the many answers recently published by newspapers concerning the conduct of the former King Edward.

When individuals are asked by the press to express opinions concerning national and world affairs the answers may reveal their won hopes, ambitions, and aims in life. Such answers indicate clearly the motives of the person questioned and we have no better example than those concerning the English ex-monarch's romance.

The individuals to whom love of power is a force which motivates their lives, no matter how little they may have been able to employ its exercise, feel that Edward has made a grave mistake. An unexpressed longing fills their

H. GOULD TO SING LEADING ROLE OF ANNUAL ORATORIO

Kirkpatrick Directs More Than 300 Vocalists in Christmas Aria.

With the final rehearsals over and the guest artists on hand, Howard Kirkpatrick, director of the university school of music, is ready to present "The Elijah" this afternoon at three o'clock in the coliseum before one of the largest audiences ever to attend a Christmas performance. Sunday will mark the forty-first time that the university has presented to the people of the state an oratorio dedicated to the Yuletide season.

Supplementing the ensemble singing of the Choral Union, which this year with the addition of many Lincoln vocalists will number more than 300, will be the solo roles taken by Herbert Gould, one of the country's outstanding bass soloists, who will take the part of Elijah; Meribah Moore of the University of Kansas; Mary Polk Shockey and Parvin Witte, both popular Lincoln artists. DEBATERS TAKE PART IN MOCK LEGISLATURE

Bstandig, Curtiss, Holstein, Ivins Attend Kansas Assembly.

"Officially" representing Nebraska at the third annual student legislative assembly held in the Kansas house of legislature, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Paul Bstandig, David Curtiss, James Ivins and Edmund Holstein took an active part in the legislative affairs. Bstandig, posing as a Nebraska democrat, was appointed chairman of the public utilities committee, while Curtiss, republican, was named on the public welfare committee. James Ivins, independent, served on the ways and means committee and Edmund Holstein, democrat, was a member of the foreign relations committee.

Hardly had the gavel ceased to sound for order before the 125 student members started their verbal battle over the election of a speaker for the unicameral legislature. Amidst boos, cat calls, and Bronx cheers, which marked almost all assembly meetings, the speaker was finally elected. (Continued on Page 2.)

hearts that they could in some way have the opportunity to rule such a nation. Impossible, but at any rate they can criticize him for throwing away his opportunity.

Unromantic Persons Give Opinion.

There are those people who in their youth took "time out," found someone who could cook, wash and do house work, and were married. If they ever experienced love and romance, these states were short lived. Before long they began to use the expressions, "puppy love," "silly romances" and similar sayings of an emotionally sterile individual. Degrading love, they insinuate that it is but a temporary state in the development of the child and adolescent, comparable to certain bad habits or to diseases such as measles and (Continued on Page 2.)
