Maestro Cummins Surpresses Desire for Athletic Career to Become Outstanding Musician

"Athlete and architect superior by nature, but musician supreme by inborn love and ability..." This is the tone of praise heaped by biographers upon the head of Bernie Cummins, king of the "sophisticated rhythm-makers" who has been procured for the Inter-Fraternity Ball, Saturday, Feb. 6, in the coliseum.

While at the academy, he did play football, such football, in fact, that he received recognition as one of the outstanding athletes in the school. His hopeful youth looked forward at that time to the days when he would mix plenty more football with an engrossing study of building plans. But fate had not woven such a simple pattern for Cummins' feet to tread. Both goals were deprived him. His family could neither afford to send him to school nor provide with the influence for procuring a job. He was forced to fall back upon his native, undetachable ability, music.

Musical Love Inherited. Cummins inherited a love for dramatic and music from his parents both of whom were extremely talented along such lines. Young Cummins had studied music since his grammar school days, so it was only natural that he should turn toward music when he was suddenly thrown upon his own.

After graduation he organized a five piece orchestra and toured the summer resort towns around Akron, Ohio, his home town. Meeting with acclaim at each succeeding appearance, he resolved to enlarge his orchestra until he was ready to present a musical organization that would stand the critical test of every dancer. First Tour Successful. First engagement that proved the maestro ready to assume a prominent niche in the professional dance rhythm field came shortly after his initial tours when the management of the ex-

BRADY DENIES ANY INVESTIGATION OF BIFF JONES' WAGE

Charges Misinterpretation Of Initial Statement by Out-State Papers.

Denying that the state legislature's appropriations committee would ever attempt to learn the salary to be paid Maj. Lawrence "Biff" Jones, Nebraska's new football coach and athletic director, Senator Frank Brady stated late last evening that outstate newspaper interpretations of his statements were entirely erroneous.

Senator Brady, who is chairman of the appropriations committee, said in a previous statement that the committee intended to investigate the salaries of all state employees. It is doubtful that the university professors' salaries will ever be mentioned in the committee, and it is certain that "Biff" Jones' name will never be mentioned in committee proceedings, Brady declared.

"It is the intention of the committee to investigate the salaries of stenographers and other employees of the state and set a standard wage for the different departments. There is a possibility that in the case of stenographers a junior and senior standing will be maintained," the committee chairman maintained. "However, salaries of university professors and officials are in an entirely different class and will probably never be discussed in the committee."

ENROLLMENT FOR NEW SEMESTER TOPS 5000 MARK

University Officials Predict Over 1,000 Additional Registrations.

Second semester enrollment was at the 5,080 mark Tuesday morning as compared with the 4,900 figure of a year ago, university registration officials reported.

It was pointed out that comparisons had not been possible earlier in the current registration, due to the fact that a storm last year made it necessary to extend the registration period.

More than a thousand additional registrations are expected, since some 400 medical and nursing students are not counted, graduate students have until the end of next week to register, as well as several hundred late registrants. Although no tabulation has been kept on the number of new students enrolled in the university at mid-year, the second semester registration is currently a little smaller than the first semester enrollment, which this school year was 6,546 students, an all-time record.

Shellenberg Asks Young Composers to Enter Lyricals Soon.

Original songs for Kosmet Klub's annual spring show, "Bar-Nothing Ranch," should be submitted to the Klub as soon as possible, according to a report of Bob Shellenberg, president. A $10 cash prize has been offered by the dramatics club for the best song submitted for use in the musical comedy.

Setting for "Bar-Nothing Ranch" musical comedy written by Herbert Yenne of the speech department, is a typical dude ranch such as might be found in Texas or New Mexico. Original songs should be of a type fitting for such a theme.

"Altho the deadline we have definitely set for these songs to be submitted is not until the 15th of this month, we would like to have them as soon as they are completed so that we can make arrangements for adopting them to the production," Shellenberg said. "Each entrant in the contest may enter as many songs as he wishes. Inasmuch as we will utilize several songs in the play, it is worthwhile for young song writers to make several entries."

Nebraskan Joins Red Cross Drive For Flood Funds

Innocents, ATO Make First Pledges as Campaign Gets Under Way.

Co-operating with Lincoln Red Cross authorities in an effort to raise funds for sufferers in the areas of the disastrous Ohio and Mississippi floods, The Daily Nebraskan today launched a campaign to secure contributions on the university campus. Even as the drive was opened, two organizations, the Innocents society and Alpha Tau Omega, came thru with initial pledges of $25 each.

In a message to the students of the university, Chancellor E. A. Burnett declared the Red Cross relief drive a most worthy co-operation. The necessity for aiding in flood relief in the stricken district lies on every citizen. Students should feel that obligation.

Make Donations at Office. Donations will be received in the offices of the Nebraskan any afternoon of the week and money received will be immediately turned over to Red Cross authorities. Daily a list of the organizations contributing will appear. Acting on the assumption that the average student donor will not be moved to seek publicity, the Nebraskan will not publish a list of the individual student contributors.

Students should feel that any amount, no matter how small, may be profitably used by the Red Cross, it was pointed out.

Those living in organized houses are asked to contribute as a group rather than as individuals. If, however, the entire organization does not vote to donate to the fund, individual contributions will be accepted gladly.

The flood situation at a glance is:

- 1. One million persons homeless. 2. $500,000,000 property damage. 3. 800,000 persons already under the care of Red Cross and other relief agencies. 4. Three million cubic feet of water per second pouring from the swollen Ohio river into the Mississippi.

Czechoslovakian Coed Becomes United States Citizen Thursday. University Graduate on Friday

American citizenship on one day and a college degree on the next—these attainments constitute the enviable record possessed by Miss Betty Klauer, student in the College of Arts and Sciences. Miss Klauer is the only student from Czechoslovakia registered at the university. On Thursday, Jan. 28, she officially became a citizen of the United States following an examination at the Lancaster county court room. On Friday, Jan. 29, she obtained the degree of bachelor of arts from the College of Arts and Sciences.

Since coming to the United States, "Betty" has been living at Wayne, Neb., with an aunt, Miss Ann Geissler, who is principal of the Wayne high school, which Betty attended for two years. During this time she learned to speak the English language. Following the completion of her high school course, she studied for two years at Wayne State Teachers' College. For the last year and a half she has been a student at the university. Interesting comparisons are pointed out by Miss Klauer between the schools of Czechoslovakia and the United States. In place of the system of grade schools and high schools of our country, the compulsory public educational system under which she was educated consists of one continuous course of eight grades whose curriculum corresponds to that included in the eight grades and first two years of high school in the average school system of the United States. Much emphasis, however, is placed upon training in practical skills—sewing, manual training and the like. These schools are not co-educational. They are in session for ten months of the year. Higher education may be obtained in co-educational colleges, business schools, and apprenticeships. Interest in the voyage from Czechoslovakia, Miss Klauer states, was greatly increased by the knowledge that on the same steamer, the George Washington, President Wilson made his voyage to Europe during the World War. In traveling through the capital city, Prague, she found evidence of the regard in which this American statesman is held in that country—in the naming of one of the largest depots, the Wilson station, and in the erection of a large statue of Wilson at the en-
