'One Side Governor!'

A few, but only a few persons got wrathful over the unseemly intrusion of photographers during the Charter day convocation Monday. It was a placid assembly; a smattering of earnest souls took surreptitious notes, a girl in the balcony opposite us worked petit point, the boy next to us pensively admired his handkerchief, initialed scarf. But a couple fellas were enraged at the activities of the candid snappers.

First it was Bill Clayton who burst out of the jangle growth of potted palms and flashed a shot in the face of the visiting notable and the head of our own great institution. Which was taken with smiling grace by the Britisher. The burning incident, however, occurred when Paul Bradley snapped several pictures by the speakers' stand in the middle of the address, the changing of the flashlight bulbs for which carried beautifully over the public address system. Not that the cultured Englishman paused a whit in his smooth flow of language (his diction reminded me vaguely of that of Freddie Bartholomew, even unto a slight lisp). But the minds of the audience were distracted by the interruption, and drawn away from the present European situation.

It all reminds me of a happening at the ill-fated W. A. A. ice carnival of two years ago. The alleged climax of the evening was the presentation of the queen of the carnival, Betty Christensen. The governor and Mrs. Cochran were honored guests for the occasion, and Nebraska's chief executive crowned the fair queen. At the crucial moment the ice in front of the makeshift dais and throne gave way, and a wild scramble ensued. Kennel Bon, in trying to photograph the queen in the midst of the confusion, yelled at the tall, sober faced man by her side: "Hey you in the hat, get out of the way!" The man in the hat was governor of the state of Nebraska.

One of our more candid critics has voiced the opinion that we are not sufficiently awed "by the wondrous way, and a wild scramble ensued. Kennel Bon, in trying to photograph the queen in the midst of the confusion, yelled at the tall, sober faced man by her side: "Hey you in the hat, get out of the way!" The man in the hat was governor of the state of Nebraska.

Y.W. STAFFS TO START WORK OF SECOND TERM

1937 Calendar of Meetings Scheduled to Begin This Week.

The Creative Leisure group, led by Frances Scudder and Velma Ekwall, and the Finance group, led by Maxine Durand, met Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The International Relations staff, under the leadership of Marie Koutou, met at 3 o'clock Tuesday, and the staffs on Personnel and Posters, led by Lorraine Elmberg and Birdene Jensen, met at 4 o'clock.

Wednesday at 3 o'clock Conference, Membership and Vesper staffs, directed by Frances Goldman, Evelyn Taylor, and Frances Marshall, will meet.

UNITARIANS TO HOLD PANEL DISCUSSIONS

Church Plans Series of 12-Minute Talks on War, Peace.

A series of panel discussions on the subject, "War and Peace," constitute the Sunday evening program planned by the Unitarian Church, 12th and H Streets, for Sunday, Feb. 21. Varying viewpoints will be presented by prominent Lincoln persons, and various phases of the topic will be discussed. Those scheduled to speak are: Professor David Fellman of the political science department, who will speak on the subject, "Munition Makers," Dr. A. L. Weatherly, pastor of the Unitarian Church, who will speak on "Militarizing the American Mind," Mrs. Bertha Smith, who will speak on "Neutrality," and Homer Kyle, who will present a satire on "Wars and Better Wars." Each speaker is given a period of 12 minutes in which to discuss his particular phase of the topic. The program is set for 8 o'clock.

N CLUB MEMBERS WELCOME JONES; BID BIBLE ADIEU

Varsity Lettermen Hold Banquet in Honor of New, Old Coaches.

A dual purpose was performed by an N club banquet last night, when members of the club, the football team, and "E" squad turned out en masse to honor the man who for eight years has been the guiding hand at the helm of Husker football, D. X. Bible, and to listen to the plans for the future as laid down by the new head coach, "Biff" Jones.

The banquet was served at 6:30 o'clock in the N club rooms. As a feature of the dinner, a white note book, trimmed in scarlet with a scarlet "N" on it, and which carried the signatures of the members of the football squad, the N club, and the associates who worked with Mentor Bible during his stay here, was presented to the ex-coach of the university.

With the note book, there went the heartfelt good wishes of every student in the university and a little note, which read: "To our good friend, D. X. Bible: 'In appreciation of your fine service to Nebraska and mindful of years of work, competition, and fun together, the N club of Nebraska presents you this testimonial of affection.'

"We will always be happy in your continuing success."

Those present then turned their attention to "Biff" Jones, new head coach. He outlined plans for the coming season, and told the assembly just what he expected of them in the future.

Coach Bible introduced Jones to the members of the varsity squad, and the assistant coaches presented him to the "E" and freshman teams.

OHIO STATE CHEMIST ADDRESSES NEBRASKA CHEM GROUP TONIGHT

Professor Evans to Talk On Carbohydrates at ASCE Meeting.

Discussing "Some Problems in Carbohydrate Chemistry," William Lloyd Evans, chairman of the department of chemistry at Ohio State university, will speak at a meeting of the Nebraska section of the American Chemical Society tonight at 7:30 in the lecture room of the Avery laboratory.

Author of several textbooks on chemistry, Prof. Evans will discuss his subject from a practical point of view, telling of the search for new uses for such important compounds as glucose, cane sugar, milk sugar, and the polysaccharide, starch. He will review the advances made in the knowledge of the construction of glucose and trace the action of alkali on it, with the possible theoretical degradation products.

STANLEY FORD VISITS NEBRASKA OFFICERS

Major General Stanley Ford, commanding officer of the 7th Corps Area, visited the Military Department Tuesday. His visit was unofficial. He met the members of the department and looked over the new artillery field.

The Major General was in Lincoln as a guest of the Chamber of Commerce and was honored by a luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce building and at a dinner at the Hotel Lincoln in the evening. He was the featured speaker at the meeting immediately following the dinner.

Himmel Calls Man Most Vicious Member of Animal Kingdom; Cites Examples of Killings, Kidnapings

By Marjorie Churchill. "Man is the most vicious member of the entire animal kingdom," stated Prof. W. J. Himmel of the botany department in a recent class discussion. At this rather startling statement during a discourse on brain mechanism, students of the biology II class aroused themselves from previous conditions of lethargy, gathered their variously distributed mental faculties, and focused attention on a series of challenging statements expounding the views of the instructor of botany on various current topics.

A Sad Loss; a Lucky Find

D. X. BIBLE.

—From The Lincoln Journal. BIFF JONES.

A large number of Cornhusker gridsters gathered to honor Nebraska's new mentor, "Biff" Jones and ex-coach, Dana X. Bible at the N club banquet held Tuesday evening. Stirring tribute was paid the departing coach by the Husker "N" men, and a rousing welcome was given the new Nebraska gridiron king.

DEAN HENZLIK TO GO TO EDUCATORS MEET

National Assembly to Open At New Orleans Sunday, February 21.

Dean F. E. Henzlik and a number of Teachers college professors will go to New Orleans next week to attend the Superintendence Department convention of the National Education association. Opening with a general session on Sunday, Feb. 21, the convention offers delegates a constant program of activity, including panel discussions, lectures, visits to public and parochial schools, and social events.

Educational problems such as school administration and finance, curriculum, health and safety of school children will be discussed by lecturers and delegates at sessions during the five days of convention. The entertainment program includes a carnival ball, trips thru the French quarter of New Orleans, a parade in which hundreds of New Orleans school children will ride floats depicting New Orleans Romance from the celebrated Mardi Gras, and concerts by high school bands.

Names of all those from Teachers college attending the convention will be announced later in the week.

Botanist Says 'Wild Beasts Kill to Get Food; Society Permeated With Spirit of Infringement on Others for Selfish Interests.'

By Marjorie Churchill. "Most wild beasts kill primarily for the purpose of obtaining food, seldom for the pleasure of killing," he continued. "But society is permeated with the spirit of infringement on others for one's own selfish interests. Witness the flood situation in the Ohio valley. While the hearts of the American people have gone out to the flood sufferers, the amount of looting of the property of refugees has run up into thousands of dollars."

Kidnap Wave. In connection with the recent wave of kidnaping he says, "Some of the most heinous crimes, as for example, kidnaping, have been perpetrated by man. And yet man is supposedly the most highly intelligent of animals."

GANGSTERS WHO GAVE FROSH LIFT LEAVE NO TRACE

Police investigations into the case of Norman Scheve, freshman who was given a ride by what he thought to be gangsters on his hitch-hiking trip to his home in Murdock last week end, have so far proved fruitless.

Having accepted a lift from a car loaded with men, Scheve was shown a machine gun and asked questions concerning business hours of banks and the distances between various towns. After he was released with proper warning at a point several blocks south of O. St., Scheve immediately caught another ride to Murdock.

He did not report his sojourn into gangsterdom until Sunday evening. Upon his return police took the situation in hand, but have as yet failed to uncover any clues to the identity of the men. Scheve received numerous phone calls Tuesday, several of them anonymous.

12 ORGANIZED GROUPS PREPARE BOOTHS FOR 1937 PENNY CARNIVAL

With each other for the popularity cup, 12 sorority and organized women's groups are preparing booths for the Coed Counselor penny carnival which will be held Saturday afternoon between 2:30 and 5 o'clock. The Coed Counselor Board accepted the 12 booth plans last week as most deserving a place at their festival.

"Football, Sam Francis" is the mysterious name of the booth that the Barb A. W. S. will offer to the carnival. Carrie Belle Raymond hall has entered in the contest with a plan that concerns live ducks and rings. Phi Mu is making preparations for a hazard horse race, and the Gamma Phi Omega will have an artist's studio to enter in a white rat classic.

A three act meller drummer and froak show will be presented by Delta Gamma. Sigma Kappa's attraction will be Bingo, Alpha Phi will sponsor a weight guessing booth. Plans for a shooting gallery were presented by Kappa Alpha Theta. Kappa Kappa Gamma will set up a rogue's gallery. Alpha Chi Omega will have an artist's studio and silhouette cutting, and Tri-Delt will have an archery game.

At the booth of the Coed Counselors, refreshments will be available and ballots for the most popular concession will be received and counted.

PETZ TO SHOW MOVIES AT ENGINEERS MEETING

Intramural Athletic Head To Explain Football Pictures Tonight. Harold Petz, director of intramural athletics, will show and explain motion pictures of Cornhusker football games taken by the university last fall at a smoker meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers to be held at 7:30 tonight in the N club rooms in the coliseum.

This is the first meeting of the group this semester and Morris L. Anderson, chairman, urges all civil engineers to attend. Other officers of the society this semester are Charles H. Carstens, vice chairman, and Harold M. Turnbull, secretary-treasurer.

Corn Cobs O.K. Plan

Corn Cob Society, men's pep club temporarily suspended by the student council, approved of the reorganization plan as it was accepted by the judiciary committee in a meeting Tuesday evening.

The plan for reorganizing the pep group goes to the student council this afternoon for sanctioning, and before it can be placed into operation the Infringents Society must also accept the revised constitution.

M'BRIDE PRAISES ATHLETIC BOARD'S WORK IN ALUMNUS

February Edition Carries Story by Ramsay on Union Building.

A farewell and a welcome by Gregg McBride '24, entitled "Exchange With the South" is the feature article of the new February Nebraska Alumnus. The veteran sportswriter of the Lincoln Star upholds D. X. Bible's decision to move his quarters to Texas, and at the same time praises the athletic council in electing so worthy a successor to the "Little Colonel." The new issue which appears on the campus this morning also carries, among numerous other interesting features, a story by Ray E. Ramsay, alumni secretary, on the plan to be used in financing the furnishing of the new Union building. The alumni, who have undertaken the task of raising $75,000 to provide the furnishings, established quotas for each county and section to raise in proportion to the number of alumni residing in that section. For the most part, (Continued on Page 3.)

PHI Upsilon OMICRON TO GIVE ANNUAL LEAP YEAR PARTY FEB. 20

Ag Honorary Will Carry Out 'Star Dust' Theme in Saturday Dance.

With a starry background of midnight blue and white providing atmosphere for the "Star Dust" theme, Phi Upsilon Omicron, honorary home economics society will hold its annual leap year party at the ag students activities building on Saturday evening, Feb. 20, at 9 o'clock.

Featured on the evening's program will be the music of Mel Fetter and his orchestra, according to announcement issued today by co-chairmen, Elinor McFadden and Donna Hiatt. As has been the custom in past years, women attending the "Star Dust" event will act as escorts for the evening.

Committees which have been named to serve in making plans for the party include: publicity, Elsie Buxman, chairman, Pauline Walter and Helen Phares; chaplains, Ruth Schobert, chairman, Eula Wintermute, Agnes Artland; decorations, Emma Mauch, chairman, Kathryn Jones, Agnes Novacek, and Helen Wheeling.

Commenting on the progress of plans for the party, Miss McFadden stated, "Every member of the organization is working very hard to make this one of Phi Upsilon's best leap year parties, and we hope that a large number of university students will make plans to dance at the 'Star Dust' party on Saturday evening."

CLASSICS STUDENTS TO GATHER AT PARTY Club to Sponsor Ancient Roman Festival Tonight.

Celebrating the birth of the founder of Rome, classics students will participate in the "Festival of Romulus" sponsored by the classics club this evening at 7:30 in the party room of the Ambassador apartments.

Dr. Clarence A. Forbes, of the Latin department, will address the festival assemblage on the subject of "Ancient Universities and Student Life" preceding a period of games, singing and refreshments. Dr. Rapp, Latin professor in charge of the party, urges all classics students to attend.

Mad Scramble Accompanies Back Stage Bantering as Players Wait For Familiar Shout of 'Curtain'

Last Minute Rehearsals, Make-Up, Writing Letters, Prove Interesting Diversions to Those Outside of Audience's View.

Back stage with the University Players last night found the huge cast scrambling among the jumbled pieces of scenery and props to be "on set" for the curtain rising at 7:30 of Lost Horizons which opened at the Temple Monday night.

Nervous whispers, creaking from scuffling feet on the stage stairs hinted as Vera May Peterson as Janet Evans, actress and Waldemar Mueller, as Ralph Bondley, her faithless lover stouff on the drama, tensed deep puff which persisted throughout the play with the exception of some well-guided bits of humor portayed by Portia Boynton in the role of Rita Tiensjen, friend of Janet Evans.

Prom Heads Ask To Set March 6 As Date for Ball

Prom Girl Filings Close 5 P. M. This Afternoon

Candidates for 1937 prom girl honors must file their names in the student activities office in the coliseum by 5 o'clock today, if they are to be eligible to run in the election which will be held on the night of the Junior-Senior Prom.

SOUTH DAKOTANS MEET HUSKERS IN DEBATE TUESDAY

Varsity Squads Discuss Extension of Powers Of Congress.

Debating on the subject, "Resolved, that Congress should be empowered to fix maximum hours and minimum wages," two members of the South Dakota university debate squad met Nebraska's arguers in the Social Science auditorium yesterday afternoon. The debate, following the precedent of Nebraska, was a non-decision affair.

Representing the University of South Dakota were Susan Zinn and Elinora Drafaal on the affirmative. Nebraska was represented by William Curtis and Leonard (Continued on Page 3.)

GINSBURG PREDICTS DECLINE OF SOVIET POLICIES IN RUSSIA

U.S.S.R. Headed Toward Fall, Professor Tells Relations Club.

That communism in Russia is on a decline and will face in the next few years the most serious crisis of any dictatorial government was established by Dr. Michael Ginsburg, professor of Greek and Latin, as he discussed the government of Russia before members of the International Relations club in the Temple building last evening. Having lived in Russia most of his life, Dr. Ginsburg presented an accurate picture of Russia's conditions.

"I am skeptical of the new Russian constitution," Dr. Ginsburg maintained. "The new document guarantees the right to work and upholds that one should work according to his ability and then be paid by his work. It also instituted a system of secret balloting. I feel that it is too early to proclaim communism the last word in the field of government, and only time will test the new document."

"The unworthy part of the new constitution," Dr. Ginsburg, continued, "is that the document declares the communist party the only legal party. The press, then, has been in the hands of the only legal party. With such control by the communist party, no opposition can possibly work."

"More than 6,000 people, I am sure, have been killed since the first attempt at Lenin's life in 1922. It looks to me as if Stalin wanted to give an object lesson to the whole world in these killings. In the first recent trial I know that 16 communists were executed. (Continued on Page 3.)

Opportunity to Sign Noted Band Ends in Request For Change.

Proposed change of the Junior-Senior Prom Friday, March 5, to Saturday, March 6, will be considered and decided by the faculty senate committee on student affairs when it meets with the two co-chairmen of the committee, Jane Walcott and Dave Bernstein, and with Student Council President Arnold Levin at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Because of an opportunity to procure one of the nation's leading dance orchestras on Saturday night, the prom committee has applied to the senate for the privilege of changing the date. The original closed night was scheduled on the university calendar by the student council prior to the closing of the school year last spring.

Big Band Available March 6.

"There has been pleading for good, big name orchestras on this campus for so many years, that we do not wish to pass up the fine opportunity which has been extended to us for this party," Levin declared. "One of the best orchestras ever to play on the Nebraska campus, will be available for Saturday, but according to the committee, there is no comparable band to be hired for the date schedule."

Action for the change was begun last week when the committee submitted its application to one of the subcommittees of the faculty senate. Failing to receive the consent of the group, appeal was made and a grant to present the cause to the entire committee on student organizations and social functions was allowed. Final settlement of the question will be forthcoming this afternoon.

Students Desire Change.

Remarking upon the case from the standpoint of his official capacity as faculty advisor to the student council, Prof. E. W. Lantz declared that he believes the movement is not the creation of the council. "It is rather," he explained, "the necessary result of aroused student opinion. The majority of the students on the campus are desirous of hiring the finest orchestra possible and are demanding that the council change the date in order to hire one."

Y.W. MEMBERS URGED TO LEARN PATRIOTISM

Thompson, Peace Secretary, Asserts Democracy 'Shaky.'

Using "Salvation of the State is Watchfulness in its Citizens," the inscription on the outside of the state capitol, as the keynote of his address, Leon Thompson spoke on "Personal Thoughts on Patriotism" before the Y. W. C. A. Vespers at Ellen Smith Hall at 8 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Thompson who is field worker for the national council for the prevention of war and executive secretary of the local committee, stated that his work is directed in organizing young people against war.

"Democracy today is shaky," he asserted. "The only answer is to use democratic processes. We must learn what we want in patriotism."

Frances Platt, chairman, followed the talk on patriotism with a short account of the "Music That Washington Knew." "Yankee Doodle" was one of the earliest patriotic songs and its exact origin is unknown.

Phrases from some of the songs mentioned by Miss Platt were sung by a trio composed of Mary Ellen Osborne, Mary Jo Henn and Lois Eneyart. All present sang "America for Me" at the close of the meeting.

Vesper choir, directed by Maxine Federle and accompanied by Bernice Dilleman, sang "Church is One Foundation" as the procession-al, and "Ode to Washington" as the special number. Margaret Griepentrog gave the devotional.
