You Say It With a Cough.

One thing we have learned from our various recent exposures to art...

Filling Station Courtesies. A young faculty member of Butler university sets forth some unique recommendations...

Classes at 8 o'clock, for which flunks would be the penalty of tardiness...

Intentional Squeak. Paul Amen has, a bit belatedly, told us why the speaker's stand in the Temple theater squeaks...

Lent on Broadway. For our constant yearning for a luxurious leisure, filled with travel, theaters and nightlife...

As a matter of fact—and it grieves us so to report—the night clubs and restaurants are swinging along as gaily and as crowded as ever...

FRENCH TO TALK ON 15TH CENTURY SINGERS TONIGHT

Professor Will Discuss Italian Minstrels at P.B.K. Dinner.

Speaking on Italy's most picturesque minstrel men of the 15th century, the improvisatori, Dr. R. F. French of the romance language department will address members of Phi Beta Kappa tonight at the University club.

In his talk tonight he will review the history of the lyricists, their rise, contribution to the world of literature, and the decline of their popularity.

These poets were the chief source of amusement for many of the feasts and banquets of the time. Continuing, he said, "Many of these men were on the payroll of the king's court. It was their duty to attend all social gatherings and herald impromptu songs"

Prof. Aylsworth Presents Political Scientist's Approval Bases.

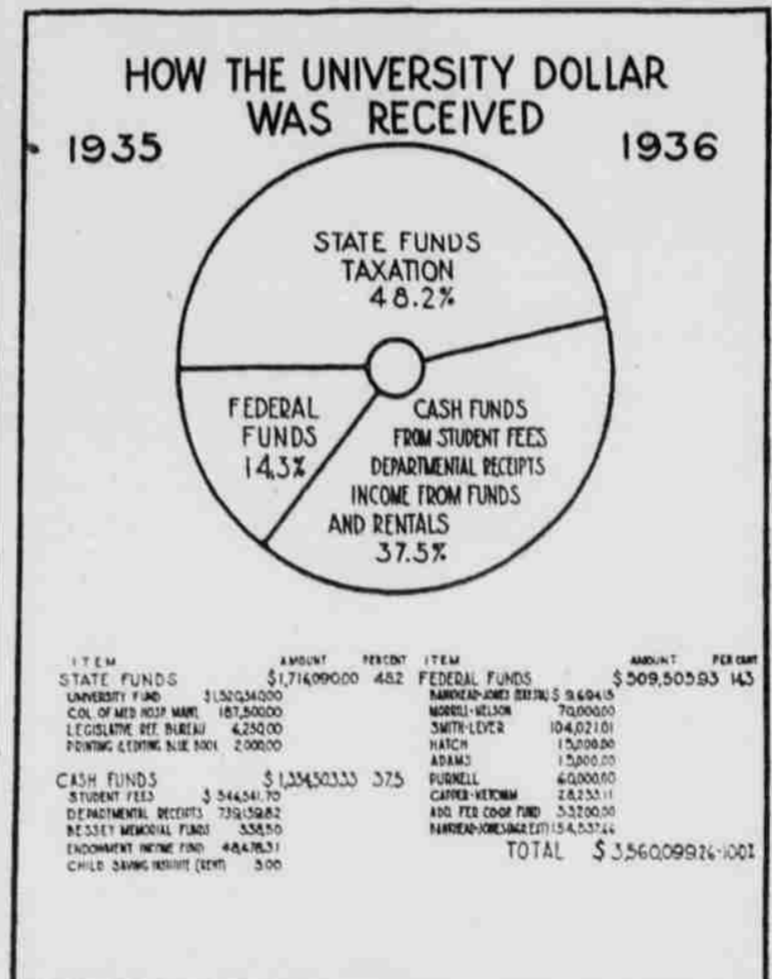

By Harold Niemann.

"It is to be regretted that the discussion of the president's recent proposal is characterized by so much emotion, undiscriminating adulation, narrow legalism, and even misrepresentation," Prof. L. E. Aylsworth, of the political science department, stated as he was questioned why the majority of political scientists favor the court reform.

"There is a dire need for more political realism and more people who prefer facts to fog, and believe that knowledge is more helpful than off hand opinions in the elucidation of public questions," Professor Aylsworth maintained. Regarding the supreme court and its power of judicial review as an important and essential part of our political system, the political scientist favors the maintenance of the court in its proper sphere as a genuine judicial body. The judicial review of acts of congress, much less of state legislatures, should not be abolished, but such control and modification of the use, or abuse, of the power of judicial review as dictated by over a century of experience should be instituted.

"Our supreme court is a great institution," Professor Aylsworth agreed. "It has rendered distinguished service in the past, particularly in the development of our national life, and should continue to do so. Nevertheless it is not divine, or sacrosanct, not a sort of..."

Neglect of Education Shown In Comparison of State and Federal Financial Support

(An Editorial) What part of the university tax dollar actually comes from state taxation? The accompanying graph shows that only 48.2 percent of university receipts in 1935-36 came from state tax funds. Compare this with the previous five years:

Table with 3 columns: Year, State Funds, Fed. Funds, Cash Funds. Rows for 1934-1935, 1933-1934, 1932-1933, 1931-1932, 1930-1931.

What could better illustrate the shrinking income of the university from state tax sources than the increasing percentage of federal funds in the university tax dollar. Yet, in all

Officer Strawn Had All The Fixings But No Prey

Intended Attack on Floor Of Coliseum Stirs Up Drama at Dawn.

By Marjorie Churchill. A shot, a thud, running footsteps—but no dead body, no perfect crime to go down as unsolvable in police annals.

The time was the wee, sma' hours of Sunday morning last. Officer G. E. Strawn, night watchman of the campus police force, on his nightly jaunt around the campus, rounded the corner of the Pharmacy building and noticed a light in the north end of Social Sciences. Immediately apprehensive because of the book-store safe in that end of the building, he rushed hastily to the spot in time to catch a glimpse of two figures running out the north door armed with a questionable array of ominous looking equipment and headed for the coliseum, the scene of the Prom festivities of the previous evening.

Halts Prey With Shot. A shout failing to elicit response, he fired into the air, whereupon the fleeing marauders halted in their tracks, turned, and ran full speed back toward the officer.

Pros and Cons on Court Reform

PROF. L. E. AYLSWORTH.

"The majority of lawyers believe that the civil, political, and religious liberties of every American depend basically upon a judiciary independent of the executive department or of a combination of the executive department with Congress," Dean H. H. Foster of the university law college maintained yesterday as he explained why most lawyers oppose the re-amping of the Supreme Court.

More than a month ago President Roosevelt proposed a reform to the federal judiciary that has aroused more controversy, according to the recent polls, than the November election. But Roosevelt's suggested reform is not a new issue, nor had it gone unsuspected after the president's son hinted such a proposal before the election. Polls have now been conducted on the issue; the majority of lawyers oppose.

POLITICAL PROPOSALS AWAIT COUNCIL VOTE

Judiciary Board Draws Up Two Resolutions for Election Reform.

Two resolutions intended to act as a beginning wedge in opening a move to clean up men's politics were compiled at a meeting of the judiciary meeting of the student council, Monday afternoon. The resolutions will be presented before the governing body at the next meeting, and a vote will be taken on them at the following session.

The two proposed reforms as formulated by the judiciary board, sitting with the committee on investigations provide for a system of judicial review by the judiciary committee of all candidates filling for official positions, and for the

Dr. Foster Explains Basis For Legal Opposition To Proposal.

DEAN H. H. FOSTER.

"Every poll taken shows that lawyers are so overwhelmingly opposed to re-amping the Supreme Court that their vote can not be explained on the basis of party politics or on the basis of views as to new deal policies," Dean Foster pointed out.

"The reason for the vote lies in the fact that lawyers believe that fundamental principles involved in our legal system and embedded in the American Constitution are to be violated and that with our country already on the road to recovery no emergencies exist sufficiently to justify such a departure from fundamentals."

STUDENTS HEAR PRO, CON VIEWS AT FIRST FORUM

Daily Nebraskan to Take Poll on Reactions To Meeting.

Pro and con of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's supreme court reform bill will be argued from the layman's point of view at the first student forum of the year in Temple theater at 11 o'clock this morning.

Two outstanding Lincoln citizens, Editor James E. Lawrence of the Star and Attorney C. Petrus Peterson, will present their arguments in favor of and in opposition to the chief executive's proposal.

Regarded as the major political question at the present time, the momentous court reform issue has been selected by the newly appointed committee with the assistance of the faculty convocations committee.

No Technicalities. "The question has been designed so that the speakers will not become involved in the technicalities of the problem, but rather will base their arguments upon the general theme of the proposal," stated Al Schroeder, co-chairman of the forum's committee. "Additional members, age limit, and retirement are the principle points of dispute about which the speakers are expected to center their discussions."

Students are especially asked to attend the forum prepared to ask questions and to give their ideas concerning the proposal. A one minute period will be allotted to students who wish to speak at

ALUMNI DONATE TO GROWING FUND FOR UNION FURNISHINGS

Ramsay Gets Unsolicited Contributions, Praise For New Project.

Alumni are responding, both by letter and check to the new Student Union building. About ten percent of the goal of $75,000, mostly in unsolicited donations, has been received already, Ray Ramsay, secretary of the Alumni association said Monday.

"The Alumni as well as many others are taking interest in the project," he said. "Those who have already made their donations have also wished the undertaking success and given it their approval. There are a few, however, who view it as unnecessary."

Most of those who object to a Student Union building, object on the grounds that other buildings are needed more. Several have the erroneous idea that the student center was obtained at the cost of a new library. Secretary Ramsay pointed out that the new building will not be paid for by state appropriation as the prospective library would be. Therefore the erection of a Union building de-

HONORS ASPIRANTS MUST REPORT BEFORE MARCH 18

Mrs. Zimmer, Statistician, Requests Completion of Grade Records.

Aspirants to honors must present reports of removal of delinquent grades by March 15, according to Mrs. M. V. Zimmer, statistician in the registrar's office in order to be considered for honors convocation this semester. All C, D, and F hours must be removed, and the candidate must have carried twelve hours in each of the two preceding semesters, to gain consideration. Seniors may present 24 hours for the two semesters as a whole.

Not included in averages are grades in required subjects of military science and physical education. These subjects are considered of the body rather than the mind, states Mrs. Zimmer, and are therefore not deserving of honors status. Honor students are chosen from the upper ten percent of each class in the various colleges.
