

Innocents Rank As Goal of All Activities Men

Senior Honorary Heads List of Many Campus Organizations.

For the university freshman who desires more than the ordinary routine of a college curriculum, Nebraska offers a myriad of extra curricular activities that make use of spare time and help to make a university education complete and well rounded.

door to success in life past the few years of college. Foremost in the ranks of men's activities is the Innocents Society which is the final attainment and ambition of every activity man on the Nebraska campus. Tradition has formed the honorary organization around 13 senior men who have been the most outstanding in every field during their first three years of college. Service to the school in extra-curricular activities, qualities of leadership, and scholarship are the criteria upon which selections into the society are made.

Tapped on Ivy Day. The new members of the Innocents society are juniors "tapped" Ivy Day each spring by the outgoing seniors. After being inducted into office by special initiation the new members serve until the next year's election.

When freshman men journey to the coliseum this Tuesday for registration they will see one of the first activities with which the senior honorary organization is connected—the sale of freshman caps. Cheerleaders for the sports season are all chosen, after tryouts, by men with at least a sophomore standing, by the Society. Probably the most important task of the Innocents for the year is the fastening of school spirit thru rallies and the football card section. Homecoming day, Dad's day, and the homecoming decoration contest all come under the direction of the senior organization.

The members of this year's society are: Robert Wadhams, president; Albert Moseman, vice president; Winfield T. Elias, secretary; Donald Boehn, treasurer; John Howell, sergeant-at-arms; James E. Murray, Dave Bernstein, Earl Hedlund, Thurston Phelps, Robert Martz, Richard Brown, Willard Burney, Web Mills.

COUNSELORS TO OPEN 1937 PROGRAM WITH FRESHMAN WELCOME

100 Women Make Plans for Greeting New Students Monday Morning.

Freshman women tomorrow will find friends on the campus when 100 Coed Counselors, wearing the official badge of the group, spend their day answering questions, getting girls in the right line, and setting up friendship booths in major buildings.

Today the Counselor Board and the Counselors under Virginia Fleetwood, Mary Jean Birk and Fern Steuterville will meet at Ellen Smith hall to make the final preparations for all Coed Counselor activities that take place during the Freshman's first week at school.

In Andrews hall, Teachers' college, and Social Sciences which will be located in Virginia Fleetwood, Mary Jean Birk and Fern Steuterville will meet at Ellen Smith hall to make the final preparations for all Coed Counselor activities that take place during the Freshman's first week at school.

Unaffiliated girls especially have been invited to attend the annual Coed Counselor welcoming party which will be held under the chairmanship of Mary Priscilla Stuart and Frances Knudsen in Ellen Smith hall Wednesday evening.

Mortar Board Heads Women's Activity Ranks

At the peak of all activities for women on the Nebraska campus stands Mortar Board, national honorary society for senior women who have their previous three years in school excelled all in their scholarship, active work in organizations, and leadership. The highest goal for all activity women, Mortar Board remains the inspiration of freshman girls interested in activities throughout their work in the various organizations on the campus.

Since joining the national society of Mortar Boards in 1921, Nebraska's group has become the Black Masque chapter, a name carried down from the local senior honorary, the Black Masques, which sprang into being here in 1905.

New members are announced by Mortar Board in the spring at the annual Ivy day following the presentation of the May queen and preceding the tapping of the Innocents. The candidates for membership are from the junior class and are chosen at a preliminary election of all the senior women on the campus. Final selection is made by the unanimous vote of the Mortar Board chapter. The presentation of the new honorary society is the masking of the new members by the old.

Mortar Board may include from 5 to 20 prominent women students with the exact number varying from year to year. At present the chapter is composed of 12 senior activity women. A faculty advisory committee assists the chapter.

Mortar Board, besides being a leading honorary, carries out an active year's program. Their Mortar Board party in the fall when convention is disregarded and the girls take their dates to a party in the coliseum is one of the projects of the organization. This year's Mortar Boards are: Maxine Durand, Eloise Benjamin, Jane Barbour, Betty Cherry, Marie Kotone, Martha Morrow, Winifred Nelson, Jean Marvin, Jane Walcott, Genevieve Bennett, Rosalie Mott and Donna Hiatt.

PUBLICATIONS HOLD TOP POSITION AMONG CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Hard Work, Scholarship Gain Promotions to Staff.

Foremost in activities for both men and women, either affiliated or unaffiliated, are student publications which occupy probably more spare time of the activity group student than any other group of extra-curricular arrangements.

James E. Murray.

In charge of the three major publications, the Cornhusker, the Awgwan, and the Daily Nebraskan is a publication board composed of five faculty men and three students elected each year. Appointments and forced resignations for all positions on the three publications are made by this board.

Published each morning except Monday and Saturday, the Daily Nebraskan has a staff of nine paid members in its editorial department and three paid members in the business department. James E. Murray of Lead, S. D., and Robert Wadhams of Lincoln, will serve as editor and business manager respectively for the first semester. Promotions, based upon resourcefulness and scholarship, are made each semester.

Freshmen interested in reporting for the Daily Nebraskan or working for the business department of this publication will meet at the offices in University hall this Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Permanent beats will then be assigned later in the week. No Freshman is eligible for a paid position on any publication staff.

FROSH CAPS

The Innocents Society held a meeting Friday, Sept. 10 to make arrangements for providing incoming freshmen with the traditional freshmen caps. Members of the society will be on hand to distribute 41 captioned insignia of all male members of the class of 1941.

Huskerland Gets 1937 Renovation During Summer

Both the 1937 Husker and the place where he dwells were adorned in a new garb this year.

An army of shirtless, sun tanned college men, worked most of the summer shaving, sanding and painting the wooden seats in the stadium to lessen the wear and tear on the fan. All seats were renumbered and charted.

The entire stadium was given an overhauling, painting the necessary portions. On both the playing and practice fields worked a squad of gardeners, warring against the pestiferous weeds.

Atop the west stadium now sits an enlarged press box. The new structure was lengthened at each end, thus accommodating radio hookups at the north and south extremities. Newsmen will be allowed the entire central portion of the hitherto crowded box.

The Cornhusker players will flaunt brilliant uniforms, new from the skin out this year. Chest length shoulder pads, new hip pads and shoes with special time mud cleats are the unmentionables of a Husker gridder's wardrobe. The fans will be dazzled by brilliant scarlet jerseys with white satin numbers on both front and back.

The playing breeches are of a knitted material, made thus for a tighter, yet elastic fit. Their color is an army khaki. Helmets will again be all white.

A sauciful of quicklime placed in a damp closet or cupboard will absorb all dampness.
