

Calling 'Em

Lack of space necessitates cutting short any platitudinous remarks about the present grid situation, which is really developing into a pattern that more and more resembles the old fashioned crazy quilt. So, here goes the third installment of gridiron prognostications for this football Saturday: NEBRASKA, via the aerial attack and razzle-dazzle, will knock

HUSKERS FACE TOUGH FOE IN SOONERS

OKLAHOMA for the second Husker conference win. To make it more interesting, let's say by 12 points.

MISSOURI, considered the Cornhusker conference nemesis, will drop a hard fought contest to MICHIGAN STATE, because the Tigers lack a field general.

INDIANA will nose out ILLINOIS in what promises to be the Big Ten's stellar attraction of the day. The Hoosiers held Minnesota to six points and Illinois deadlocked Notre Dame last week.

KANSAS will drop another tilt to IOWA STATE. If the Jays win, Alf Landon will run for president again.

PITT, mightier than ever, will ram FORDHAM for the eastern headliner. Fordham's Rams are good, but the Panthers look tops.

IOWA will lose to WISCONSIN in another strenuous Big Ten tussle. Tubbs' Hawkeyes are developing but slowly.

KANSAS STATE will fail to make the grade against the razzle-dazzle MARQUETTE team. Football stock in Kansas is decidedly below par this year.

National nominations: Alabama to knock Tennessee, Texas to better Arkansas (even D. X., let's see a victory), Army to blast Yale, Baylor to bounce Centenary, Dartmouth to beat Brown, California to crush California Aggies and/or College of Pacific (two games scheduled), Notre Dame to wreck Carnegie Tech, Princeton to chill Chicago,

C. C. N. Y. to squash Susquehanna, Colgate to stem Tulane's Green Wave, Penn to pick Columbia's Violets, Cornell to sidetrack Syracuse, Duke to down Georgia Tech, Holy Cross to crack down on Georgia, Navy to nip Harvard, Penn State to lampoon Lehigh, Louisiana State to muss up Mississippi, Manhattan to mar Villanova, Minnesota to make monkeys of Michigan, N. Y. U. to jolt St. Johns, North Carolina to saw down Wake Forest, Northwestern to wreck the Boilermakers from Purdue, Oklahoma A. & M. to rince Washburn, U. C. L. A. to defeat Oregon State, Southern California to outplay Oregon, Penn to take Georgetown, Southern Methodist's Mustangs to buck Vanderbilt, Texas A. & M. to out-tussle Texa Christian, Tulsa to trip Rice, Washington to "waterloo" Washington State.

Practices all during this week have been light and have stressed aerial defense and offense. The Huskers were forced inside on Tuesday because of a wet field but took to the sod again on Wednesday and Thursday for workouts.

Despite the absence of Jack Baer, crack Sooner passer, practice sessions have indicated that Nebraska will be looking for a top flight passing attack from Oklahoma tomorrow.

Nebraska's passing game has improved visibly this week with the return of John Howell, veteran quarterback, to the lineup. Much needed practice on timing of running plays has been stressed and that phase of the game has shown improvement. The regular lineup, which was backed to pieces at Ames last week, is again intact and Saturday will probably see the first eleven again taking the field.

Altho there may be changes in the forward wall the starting lineup against Oklahoma will be: Ends: Dohrmann and Paul Amen.

Tackles: Fred Shirey and Ted Doyle.

Guards: Lowell English, game captain, and Bob Mehring.

Quarterback: Johnny Howell.

Halfbacks: Jack Dodd and Harris Andrews.

Fullback: Bill Callihan.

last few minutes of the game was more like an earthquake than a football game.

He went on to say that Nebraska didn't cheer in organized fashion, because they couldn't make as much noise that way as by the hog calling method.

Well, we didn't know our hoarse cries two weeks ago sounded like swine summoning, but if so, let's have more!

The University of Texas claims the distinction of having the only self-supporting student union in the country.

The second prize goes to Mortimer Filtermore, 3637 W. 59th, with the following:

"Nebraska should win the game by approximately 13 points. Oklahoma may score and if they do it will be by the pass. I make these conclusions because Nebraska has had two types of games. First they created a nationwide upset by beating Minnesota. For that game they were keyed to the limit. The next week they went into the Cyclone fray with a disinterested attitude and barely came back in the last quarter to eke out a victory.

Thus they have gone into games with two kinds of attitudes and this week finds the Huskers hitting a happy medium. Their feet are still on the ground, but they're determined to make it three straight."

Another reason I believe the Huskers will win is that they have a heavier line and one of the most stalwart forward walls in the nation. For this reason, the Oklahomaans will not score through the line, but may score via aerials, on which they specialize."

The above the judges thought worthy of second place, and remember, the judges' decision is final.

Yesterday the Biff boys shook the moth balls from their woolies and donned their hooded jackets and then moaned for mittens. Perhaps the Indian summer won't persist until Thanksgiving.

A cheer leader by the name of Belmont Magee, who journeyed 451 miles to lead yells for the vanquished Gophers two weeks ago writes an article for the school daily on Nebraska noise.

We here in Huskerland have been howling because our stadium cheering resembled a Quaker meeting, but from the story we learn that said cheering more than pleased the Minnesota yell king.

"If Nebraska dropped Andy Uram in his tracks, the stands were yelling before he hit the ground," writes Magee, "and the

Biffer Stresses Aerial Attack as Offensive Drive

Cornhusker Starting Eleven Runs Intact as Dad's Day Game Approaches.

Brushing up on offensive play last night Coach Lawrence "Biff" Jones' Huskers held their final scrimmage wearing hooded jackets.

Practices all during this week have been light and have stressed aerial defense and offense. The Huskers were forced inside on Tuesday because of a wet field but took to the sod again on Wednesday and Thursday for workouts.

Despite the absence of Jack Baer, crack Sooner passer, practice sessions have indicated that Nebraska will be looking for a top flight passing attack from Oklahoma tomorrow.

Nebraska's passing game has improved visibly this week with the return of John Howell, veteran quarterback, to the lineup. Much needed practice on timing of running plays has been stressed and that phase of the game has shown improvement. The regular lineup, which was backed to pieces at Ames last week, is again intact and Saturday will probably see the first eleven again taking the field.

Altho there may be changes in the forward wall the starting lineup against Oklahoma will be: Ends: Dohrmann and Paul Amen.

Tackles: Fred Shirey and Ted Doyle.

Guards: Lowell English, game captain, and Bob Mehring.

Quarterback: Johnny Howell.

Halfbacks: Jack Dodd and Harris Andrews.

Fullback: Bill Callihan.

Coed Footballer Predicts Winners in Saturday Tilts

By June Bierbower.

After picking 14 games right out of 20 last week for a not so wonderful .700 percentage, we hope that better luck is in the offing with Saturday's games, but with a flock of tough ones coming up,

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Shucks

ED STEVES

Below is the masterpiece of little Willie Jones, 4253 Coconut St., who wins the cast iron powder puff for completing the following simple sentence: "I think Nebraska will boom the Sooners, because..."

Says little Willie: "Nebraska will beat Oklahoma, because Nebraska has the best team." The judges thought this contribution was the best submitted, and remember, the judges' decision is final.

The second prize goes to Mortimer Filtermore, 3637 W. 59th, with the following:

"Nebraska should win the game by approximately 13 points. Oklahoma may score and if they do it will be by the pass. I make these conclusions because Nebraska has had two types of games. First they created a nationwide upset by beating Minnesota. For that game they were keyed to the limit. The next week they went into the Cyclone fray with a disinterested attitude and barely came back in the last quarter to eke out a victory.

Thus they have gone into games with two kinds of attitudes and this week finds the Huskers hitting a happy medium. Their feet are still on the ground, but they're determined to make it three straight."

Another reason I believe the Huskers will win is that they have a heavier line and one of the most stalwart forward walls in the nation. For this reason, the Oklahomaans will not score through the line, but may score via aerials, on which they specialize."

The above the judges thought worthy of second place, and remember, the judges' decision is final.

Yesterday the Biff boys shook the moth balls from their woolies and donned their hooded jackets and then moaned for mittens. Perhaps the Indian summer won't persist until Thanksgiving.

A cheer leader by the name of Belmont Magee, who journeyed 451 miles to lead yells for the vanquished Gophers two weeks ago writes an article for the school daily on Nebraska noise.

We here in Huskerland have been howling because our stadium cheering resembled a Quaker meeting, but from the story we learn that said cheering more than pleased the Minnesota yell king.

"If Nebraska dropped Andy Uram in his tracks, the stands were yelling before he hit the ground," writes Magee, "and the last few minutes of the game was more like an earthquake than a football game.

He went on to say that Nebraska didn't cheer in organized fashion, because they couldn't make as much noise that way as by the hog calling method.

Well, we didn't know our hoarse cries two weeks ago sounded like swine summoning, but if so, let's have more!

The University of Texas claims the distinction of having the only self-supporting student union in the country.

The second prize goes to Mortimer Filtermore, 3637 W. 59th, with the following:

"Nebraska should win the game by approximately 13 points. Oklahoma may score and if they do it will be by the pass. I make these conclusions because Nebraska has had two types of games. First they created a nationwide upset by beating Minnesota. For that game they were keyed to the limit. The next week they went into the Cyclone fray with a disinterested attitude and barely came back in the last quarter to eke out a victory.

Thus they have gone into games with two kinds of attitudes and this week finds the Huskers hitting a happy medium. Their feet are still on the ground, but they're determined to make it three straight."

Another reason I believe the Huskers will win is that they have a heavier line and one of the most stalwart forward walls in the nation. For this reason, the Oklahomaans will not score through the line, but may score via aerials, on which they specialize."

The above the judges thought worthy of second place, and remember, the judges' decision is final.

Yesterday the Biff boys shook the moth balls from their woolies and donned their hooded jackets and then moaned for mittens. Perhaps the Indian summer won't persist until Thanksgiving.

A cheer leader by the name of Belmont Magee, who journeyed 451 miles to lead yells for the vanquished Gophers two weeks ago writes an article for the school daily on Nebraska noise.

We here in Huskerland have been howling because our stadium cheering resembled a Quaker meeting, but from the story we learn that said cheering more than pleased the Minnesota yell king.

"If Nebraska dropped Andy Uram in his tracks, the stands were yelling before he hit the ground," writes Magee, "and the last few minutes of the game was more like an earthquake than a football game.

He went on to say that Nebraska didn't cheer in organized fashion, because they couldn't make as much noise that way as by the hog calling method.

Well, we didn't know our hoarse cries two weeks ago sounded like swine summoning, but if so, let's have more!

The University of Texas claims the distinction of having the only self-supporting student union in the country.

The second prize goes to Mortimer Filtermore, 3637 W. 59th, with the following:

"Nebraska should win the game by approximately 13 points. Oklahoma may score and if they do it will be by the pass. I make these conclusions because Nebraska has had two types of games. First they created a nationwide upset by beating Minnesota. For that game they were keyed to the limit. The next week they went into the Cyclone fray with a disinterested attitude and barely came back in the last quarter to eke out a victory.

Thus they have gone into games with two kinds of attitudes and this week finds the Huskers hitting a happy medium. Their feet are still on the ground, but they're determined to make it three straight."

Another reason I believe the Huskers will win is that they have a heavier line and one of the most stalwart forward walls in the nation. For this reason, the Oklahomaans will not score through the line, but may score via aerials, on which they specialize."

The above the judges thought worthy of second place, and remember, the judges' decision is final.

Yesterday the Biff boys shook the moth balls from their woolies and donned their hooded jackets and then moaned for mittens. Perhaps the Indian summer won't persist until Thanksgiving.

A cheer leader by the name of Belmont Magee, who journeyed 451 miles to lead yells for the vanquished Gophers two weeks ago writes an article for the school daily on Nebraska noise.

We here in Huskerland have been howling because our stadium cheering resembled a Quaker meeting, but from the story we learn that said cheering more than pleased the Minnesota yell king.

Coed Footballer Predicts Winners in Saturday Tilts

By June Bierbower.

After picking 14 games right out of 20 last week for a not so wonderful .700 percentage, we hope that better luck is in the offing with Saturday's games, but with a flock of tough ones coming up,

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.

Idaho over Utah State; Wisconsin over Iowa; Iowa State over Kansas; Kansas State over Marquette; Kentucky over Washington and Lee; Louisiana State over Mississippi; Manhattan over Villanova; Virginia over Maryland; Michigan State over Missouri; New York U. over St. Johns; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Purdue over Northwestern; Oklahoma A. & M. over Washburn;

Iowa to Whip Kansas.