Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, under act of congress, March 3, 1879, and at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, act of October 3, 1917, authorized January 29, 1922.

Student Pulse

But Teacher, It Isn't Our Fault

Two things in the Thursday issue of the Daily Nebraskan combined admirably to give the cause for this small and probably futile article. The first was the editorial, asking for more contributions to the "Student Pulse" column. The second was headlined, "Patterson Scores Sale of University Identification Cards, Stadium Seating Difficulty Due to Student Folly, Says Educator." For a member of the faculty to put such stress on the idea that it is entirely the fault of the student body that the student section of the stadium was over-subscribed seems quite a little like calling the kettle black.

Of course, the actual figures are not available to us mere students, but if I remember correctly, there were about 5,500 student tickets and about 1,000 faculty tickets purchased. The ratio of students to faculty members is certainly more than 5 1/2 to 1. If the average classroom were 22 students to 1 faculty (this seems to be a not unfair proportion), the teachers bought about four times as many tickets per capita as the students did. Perhaps the reform should start with those who are supposed to be examples for the students.

WADDELL TO SPEAK AT ALL ENGINEERING ASSEMBLY TUESDAY

Mechanical Engineers to be present for the address Tuesday.

Famed Bridge Builder.

The convocation speaker is best known for his work in the field of bridge construction. Many of the notable bridges and viaducts located in all parts of the world are the products of his skill. Because of his service to the Japanese government as bridge engineer, Dr. Waddell was decorated by the emperor of Japan as knight commander of the Order of the Rising Sun and by Grand Duchess Olga of Russia, sister of the czar, to the first class order of the Societe de Bienfaisance for services as the principal engineer of the Trans-Alaskan Siberian railroad engineered in 1907. The Chinese government conferred further honor on the American engineer and in 1923 the king of Italy made him a member of the Order of the Cavaliere of the Crown of Italy.

Dr. Waddell in his earlier years was connected with the faculties of several universities, among them the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and the Imperial University of Japan. He has also been a consulting engineer in Kansas City and other large centers before going to New York City where he is now a partner of the engineering firm, Waddell and Hardesty.

Nickel Steel Research

Dr. Waddell is known to many people in this section of the country as the builder of the Sioux City-Missouri river bridge and as chief engineer for the Omaha Bridge and Terminal company, where he designed the double track railroad and highway bridge across the Missouri in 1893 and several other bridges over the river at Jefferson City and St. Charles, Mo. He is also internationally known for his extensive researches in the use of nickel steel for bridge construction, and as a result of this study, three large bridges, the Manhattan bridge in New York City, the Free bridge at St. Louis, and the Quebec bridge were constructed of metal suggested by Dr. Waddell.

The University speaker is well known for several books in his chosen field and is a member of practically every honorary and professional engineering society in the country. Though 83 years of age, Dr. Waddell is unusually energetic and is still actively engaged in the business of his firm. When he was here in 1911, he donated the university $1,000 to help needy engineering students acquire an education. Since then this principal has increased thru interest accumulation to about $2,000.

checkers are round and half are square, and he has yet to be defeated at a game.

Other favorite pastimes are playing bridge (with perforated cards), attending the movies, and playing popular music by ear on the piano. He also plays the trombone and can tune a piano.

No Dog For Him

Getting about the campus presents new problems to Ewald. He is usually accompanied from class to class by Drval or other friends, but his sound sense of direction and his ability to estimate distance and the number of steps from one place to another enable him to be almost totally independent of Drval's help. He doesn't mind crossing streets, but prefers intersections with traffic lights so that he can hear the direction of the stream of cars, and know when it is time to cross.

Reporters recently asked Drval if his blind roommate would feel like a Seeing Eye dog. They were barking up the wrong tree they found out. Explained Drval simply: "Ewald gets along by himself."

SUMMER CONFEREES MEET

Dr. C. H. Walcott to Speak on 'Personal Religion.'

Reports from those attending summer conferences at Estes, Crete, and Hastings will be given at 5 p. m. Sunday on the lawn in front of the First Baptist church. Later in the evening Dr. C. H. Walcott will deliver the first of a series of two talks on "Personal Religion" before the regular meeting of the Roger Williams club.

P. B. K. From Johns Hopkins. After practicing law in Cheyenne, Wyo., for several years, he became director and vice president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana and later president of the Midwest Refining company.

In 1928 he discontinued all business connections and undertook graduate work in political economy and political science in the John Hopkins university from which he graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors and a Ph.D. degree. He then became professor of economics in the University of Denver and has published one book, "The Federal Trust Policy."

Name Committees.

The following committees were appointed to assist at the Bizad Honor's banquet: Ticket sales, Floyd Housel, chairman, and Helen Rosker; Kenneth Ekwall, chairman, and Norman Ellis of the publicity committee; and Quinn Scott, chairman, and Kay Risser of the social arrangements.

All Bizad students are urged to attend, according to Quinn Scott, as well as other interested students. Tickets may be secured from members of Phi Chi Theta, Alpha Kappa Psi, Delta Sigma Psi, or in Dean LeRossignol's office.

of troupers. Several years ago, as character lead in a show, "Miss Porsh" had to make a superquick change from evening gown to riding habit. Following the age-old stage custom for such situations, she was given a dresser. Modest Portia steeled herself for these revelations with the conscience salve that her helper was a boy who, like so many of us unfortunately, was very dim-sighted sans eye-pieces. "Thank heaven," she fluttered to friends afterwards, "he couldn't see a thing."

After much traveling this remark reached the lad in question. For reply he muttered into his beard thoughtfully, "That's what she thinks."

BARB AWS HEADS OUTLINE ORGANIZATION'S FUNCTION

Leaders Introduce Frosh Women to Different Barb Activities.

Edith Filley of the Barb A. W. S. explained the women's point system and Lois Lichliter described the purpose and work of the A. W. S. board at a meeting of all unaffiliated new women students on Ag campus, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 306, Ag hall.

The meeting was sponsored by the three Ag representatives on the Barb A. W. S. board who introduced freshmen coed to the various organizations in the university. Plans for the year's activities were discussed and the girls were introduced to the membership, publicity, program, and social groups so they would be able to choose the group with which they desired to work.

BARB INTERCLUB BODY TO ELECT TREASURER

Mel Pester Band to Play For Pre-Migration Hop In Grant Memorial.

Election of a treasurer will be the main object of business taken up at a meeting of the Barb Interclub council in U hall 7:30 Monday evening, according to Denver Gray, council president. Gray urges all clubs to have their representatives at the meeting, since the office of treasurer is one of the most important in the organization.

Plans will be completed for the holding of a pre-migration party in the Armory Friday night, and the reorganization of the Barb Intramurals league will also be considered. Mel Pester and his orchestra have been tentatively booked to play for the dance, which Gray predicted would "be one of the most successful Barb parties ever held."

of novelties, the clubs are making an innovation in the way of evening entertainment. The party will contain all the prime essentials of a backstreet carnival with the exception of a 100 foot ferris wheel. The dance floor will be skirted with novel booths of chance.

Committee members report that there are several other schemes under consideration which should aid in making the pep clubs' party the best of the fall season. Definite arrangements for decorations are still undecided by those in charge.

College training is of little use to a railroader, according to Union Pacific officials. It makes it harder for him to endure the monotonous detail he will find in railroading.
