

That first one two on the button that Journal's John Bentley promised to the first guy who mentioned the Nebraskan's going to the Rose Bowl goes to THE Henry McLemore. The Colonel saw the Huskers in action Saturday against the Hoosiers and then started yapping about Pasadena's posy bowl. Perhaps he does not know that nothing mangles our chances at the festive game more than such premature chatter. One word about the Rose Bowl, and the Husker theme song is "Calliforma We Ain't Comin'."

Before the one punch game last Saturday, McLemore spoke at the Husker rally. The text of his speech was about as follows:

As he climbed onto an improvised speakers platform, "The last time I was on a platform like this, it was to see my uncle hanged in Georgia. I'm still afraid to stand too near the center. (Moving over to one side.)

Addressing the crowd, "Big Apple dancers!" (cheers). "At first glance I thought the game would be a scoreless tie, but when McMillan said that his line was weak, his backfield slow, and that his team's pants didn't fit, I figured the Hoosiers would win. Since my record shows that I'm 100 percent wrong all the time, that's the best thing I could do for you!" (cheers). "But if you really want to know how I feel about the game, if anyone has $5 they would like to put on Indiana, I'd like to have it!" (many cheers).

Confidentially, we know that the Colonel was actually picking the Hoosiers all the time and that he kept his record intact 100 percent wrong all the time in so doing.

Yesterday he broke into print in saying that the Nebraska line was the best he had seen this year. After hearing his little speech Friday evening, we believe that the Huskers would have been good for three more scores if they had had their backfield behind his line!

A bit more on the serious side, we second McLemore's nomination for the rank of general to Major Biff. He teaches smart football and his team seems to learn.

Some people didn't care for the method in which John Howell "stalled" by downing the ball in both the first and the second half. Those who did, surely didn't remember that Minnesota game last year in which the Nordics tromped the Huskers in the last 55 second of play. Time is more precious to a losing football team than a piece of string to a small boy. John was taking no chances of letting either that ball or that lead slip out of his hands.

Along this line of backfield chatter we would like to challenge McLemore when he says, Confidentially, the Nebraskans are woefully weak on offense. They haven't really a first class back.

The sandman must have been necking with the UP commentator when John Howell was doing some of the smartest quarterbacking ever done on a major league football field and was also plunging, passing and kicking. And what about Jack Dodd who made the entire Indian outfit look dizzy on several occasions other than his touchdown gallop? Or Bill Callahan, one of the hardest hitting backs around? And who could overlook Andrews, most accurate long distance passer we have ever seen, plus a swivelhipped speedster? Besides all this, Jones was hoarding some boys on the bench such as Phelps, Anderson, etc., who could make most any of the Husker's opponents' ball team.

And as long as we're in the argumentative mood, why didn't Nebraska get in the upper ten teams this week. They are still undefeated and are recognized as the powerhouse and standout of the midwest, yet they are not in the first bracket of national ratings; why? Perhaps the Jonesmen haven't piled up 60 points against every foe, but they have licked them (Minnesota too) and that's all that's necessary.

Husker gridmen, shelving thoughts of their 7-0 victory last Saturday over Indiana, began concocting plans for toppling the league-leading Kansas Jayhawks, who come to Memorial stadium this week-end.

Coach Adrian Lindsey's M.L. Oreadans, with wins over Iowa State and Oklahoma, will invade this staid town with resolutions to knock the Jonesmen from the unbeatable circle as well as to win the mythical Big Six diadem. Because of its tie with Oklahoma, Nebraska is in second place with two victories at .833.

To Kansas belong a 14-6 win over Iowa State and a 6-3 triumph at the expense of Oklahoma, the squad which held the Scarlet and Cream eleven to a scoreless tie in a mud battle. Iowa State was reversed, 20-7, and Missouri, 7-0, by the Huskers.

Huskers Favored.

Beyond a doubt, Nebraska will enter Saturday's contest as heavy favorite since it has garnered wins over such potent aggregations as Minnesota and Indiana. Why as he is, Mentor Jones is not taking this impending battle without serious consideration for the Jays are riled up about sending the Huskers down the defeat trail.

It was blue Monday yesterday as the Huskers were scuttled thru a light drill. Pass offense was the main item on the practice menu, and Major Jones sent three full elevens thru their paces on this phase.

To the tackling dummies were herded Coach Link Lyman's stout linemen. Nebraska fans need harbor little doubt concerning the power of this year's forward wall, as it plainly showed that it could withstand goal line thrusts in Saturday's hectic game with the Hoosiers.

Minor Injuries Reported.

Several minor injuries cropped up yesterday as the result of the Indiana contest. Charley Brock, center, bruised his hand but still partook of the cursory drill while End Lloyd Grimm, complaining of an injured knee and a twisted ankle, took a limbering up workout and then headed for the showers.

Guard Bill Preiff, who twisted his shoulder out of place Saturday, reported for work and showed no signs of injury.

Ready to go after sitting on the sidelines last week are Marvin Plock and Jim Mather, diminutive halfbacks. Plock, who scored the seven and only points in the Miz-zou game, appeared frisky on pass offense and snatched several long heaves.

Jack Dodd's 65 yard dash for a score in the Indiana fracas brought him laurels from the Associated Press. This press association listed him as one of the outstanding players of the week, along with Clint Frank and Gil Humphrey, Yale; Byron White, Colorado; Vic Botzori, California; Andy Pupils, Notre Dame, and several others.

ATHLETIC BOARD PURSUES PLAN OF SLOW EXPANSION

Improvements Will Total $150,000 Plus Cost Of Eight Lots.

By Morris Lipp.

Working in the same quiet manner that succeeded last winter in securing Lawrence "Biff" Jones to replace Dana X. Bible as athletic director and head football coach, Nebraska's athletic board of control is slowly but surely laying the foundation for a great Cornhusker athletic program.

Few townspeople and students are aware of the expansion program, never having ventured beyond the coliseum or north end of the stadium. Well spent would be any time used in looking over the "clean up" campaign of the unsightly small houses that border the north end of the campus.

Raze Shacks Daily.

Work goes on daily in the process of razing the shacks that stand on the property already purchased by the athletic board. So far, the board has purchased the block between 12th st. and University ave., property between Vine st. and W st. and the block between 11th and 12th sts., with the exception of five lots.

Board of regents has previously purchased eight lots for the athletic site over a period of twelve years which amounts to approximately one-fifth of the total area.

Level with the grade of the Avery ave. paving, the entire area will be sloped starting at the fence that circles the north end of Memorial stadium. University ave. angle drive, Vine, 12th and W sts. will all be closed to make the tract of land one solid space devoted to athletics.

Complete Intramural Fields.

Preliminary plans, according to John K. Selleck, secretary of the athletic board of control, call for a varsity baseball diamond to be constructed along with appropriate bleachers at the northwest corner of the area. Three full-sized football fields, designed for use by freshmen and nubbins in order to give the varsity the entire enclosed hilltop practice field, will also be utilized by the intramurals department for league games. Softball diamonds, horseshoe courts and other locations for intramurals will be laid out.

The tennis courts located on the east of the coliseum will be extended this winter and will be enlarged later according to available space. Shrubbery and fences will encompass the entire layout and water grass will be grown next spring.

Cost of $150,000.

Complete cost of these athletic improvements will approximate $150,000, not including the property previously purchased by the board of regents, Selleck said.

Hopes of the athletic board are to have the entire area leveled off by next fall with all interfering houses removed, in order that the property can be put to use immediately. The extension of the athletic setup has long been a dream of Dana X. Bible as athletic director and the completion of the program, which isn't too far away, will provide Nebraska athletics with full and complete arrangements for each and every outdoors sport.

Browne Repeats Call For Frosh Basketeers

Coach W. H. Browne took out his trumpet yesterday and blew a blast in quest of freshman basketeers. Few heeded the fanfare, so today he repeats his call.

All freshmen interested in basketball who are not out for football should check out equipment immediately said Browne.

The varsity mentor will split his time between the undefeated gridgers and the potential basketeers until the close of football season when Adolph Lewandowski will take over the yearling cageters.

KEARNEY GRIDSTERS BEAT NUBBINS 34-0 AT ANTELOPE FRIDAY

E. C. QUIGLEY TO REFEREE Veteran Official Decides Kansas-Husker Tilt.

Known for his "you can't do that" admonition, E. C. Quigley, veteran sports official, will referee the Nebraska-Kansas football game at Memorial stadium this Saturday. Husker basketball fans will remember him as he officiated here several times last winter.

Other officials for this fray are Fred Denne, Brown, umpire; Reeves Peters, Wisconsin, field judge, and John Waldorf, Missouri, linesman.

Coach Adrian Lindsey's Kansas Jayhawks, pacing the Big Six grid race with two victories, come here Saturday to challenge Major Jones' unbeaten but tied Huskers.

The winner of this game, the 44th between the two schools, will become mythical champion of the Big Six League, Nebraska Holds Conference Wins Over Missouri and Iowa State, and Was Held to a Scoreless Deadlock by Oklahoma.

Most Ancient Rival.

Kansas is Nebraska's most ancient rival, the Scarlet and Cream facing the Jays for the first time in 1892. Nebraska grid outfits have emerged with 32 victories and two ties; Kansas, with nine wins and two deadlocks.

Fortified with such stars as All-American Sam Finnes, Lloyd Cardwell, Ron Douglas, Ken McGinnis and Les McDonald, the Cornhuskers went to Lawrence last year and trampled Kansas, 26-0.

Fervent enthusiasm for a triumph over Nebraska pervades the M.L. Oread campus this week as the Jayhawkers gird themselves for their clash with the Jonesmen at Memorial stadium Saturday.

Nebraska will be picked to vanquish K. U., but it will have no easy task in so doing.

YEARLINGS BATTLE FOR SCORELESS TIE ON HILLTOP FRIDAY

Frosh Take Part of Jays, Hoosiers in Contest; Indiana Outdowns.

Future varsity men, the Cornhusker yearling gridgers, representing Kansas and Indiana, battled to a scoreless deadlock Friday afternoon at Memorial stadium before a large group of visiting teachers and coaches.

Both forward walls put up a battle as the hard-running of such backs as George "Bus" Knight, Mike Francis and Harry Hopp were not nil as far as scoring was concerned, Indiana, tutored by Ed

Weir, outdowned Coach Chill Armstrong's Jayhawks seven to six.

Kansas had several chances to tally. Early in the first quarter, Harry Hopp, Jay back, kicked to Harry Overtake, Hoosier safety, who juggled the ball, only to have the Kaw team recover on Indiana's 14. However, the black-shirted team held for downs, as the Kansans were able to pick up only six yards in four attempts.

A 55 yard jaunt by George "Bus" Knight, late in the third period, was the longest and most spectacular run of the contest. Outstanding for Kansas were Hopp, Muekin, Wilbels, and Thompson while Knight, Jackson, Hahn and Luther played heads-up ball for Indiana. The lineups:
