AS MARY ANNA SEES IT

We haven't been on the subject of pins for a while, but a few of them have been wandering of late and certainly have had no time to gather dust. The keynote to Kappa Sue Hessbacher's happiness is quite evidently the new Phi Delt badge which George Bacon wore until Friday night. Even the Mortar Boards have been a bit careless with something that almost any other girl would give a lot for. Winifred Nelson's Mortar Board pin was found on the floor of the Turnpike Sunday, and they say that Marty Morrow misplaced hers in Missouri. While on the subject we might add that Rosalie Moll sent back Dave Sowles' Phi Delt pin, so that leaves another Mortar Board affair.

OFF TO A GOOD START.

A. T. O. pledge, Bob Sandburg, has further improved on the fraternity's reputation for hour dance technique. It seems that at one house they visited last week-end, the aspiring pledge made dates with four girls. All went smoothly until the little gals got together to compare notes, and found there had been some duplication. But then that's bound to happen to the best of freshmen.

COULD YOU TELL ME?

How Tommy Hicks and Eleanor Gruesel finally spent Friday evening. At 6 o'clock they were waiting for the bus for Omaha bags in hand evidently bound for the Ak-Sar-Ben ball. Things were not progressing so well, though, and the two left in a huff and missed their bus. But the reports are that they did get to Omaha. How?

SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER.

Betty Lehman, Sigma Kappa pledge, has found ways and means of getting around Jack Marquardt, one of the little boys at the Sigma Chi shack. At Campus Inn not long ago, this charming couple were trucking it out together when someone decided that Jack should have a little build up so that he might be on the same level with Betty. A bucket was brought in for the pett Sigma Chi to stand on, while his friend danced around him. For once in his life, he really came up to her level.

Socialist Leader Sees Revision of Imperialistic Policies as Sole Guard Against Economic Chaos.

Mr. March, a quiet, soft spoken man of sixty-old years who has been shuttling back and forth across the continent for more than a decade and a half, believes that college men and women of today are facing realities more than ever before. Looking back over his own youth, and comparing it with the present he said: "You youngsters are going to have to eat a lot more sour grapes than we of our age. You are either going to have to pay or repudiate. I have a hunch it will be to repudiate."

United States the Goat.

To students who talked to him throughout the day he repeatedly asked: "Do you know what the nine power conference and our gentlemen's agreement with Great Britain can mean to the United States?" In answer he said that Britain is back again at her old trick of making the United States pull her chestnuts out of the fire. This time her chestnuts are in China and are worth over a billion and a half dollars compared to American interests worth only 135 million. "Britain owes us four billion dollars," March said, "and she thinks we'll fight to protect them."

As for immediate plans for peace, March believes that President Roosevelt should invite the main imperialistic countries of the world, Great Britain, France and

HIGH STEPPIN'

The Delts had something new in truckin'. Friday night, Dow Wilson and Marjorie Lindquist led the line followed by Jimmie Pearson and Barbara Benson, Don Anderson and Leone Wilson, Bob Van Norman and Virginia Gelsler, and Jack Gellately and Doris Peterson bringing up the rear. They put on their little act in choo-choo train formation, while the orchestra played just for them.

GREENER PASTURES

We've heard that they're to be found on the other side of the road, but Deloris Bots, Alpha Chi, has gone a lot farther than that. She has even been known to find them (the green pastures I mean) way out on 17th and E. But perhaps she's discovering that the Phi house is a little handier at present.

HE'D NEVER TELL

You might ask Johnny Wachter where he got that haircut he's been sporting this fall, but he probably won't tell you what really happened. It seems that this summer he was in Minnesota with some friends, or at least he thought they were. They happened to be going past a barber shop, so that seemed as good an opportunity as any to improve Johnny's coiffure. Now he looks very much like a porcupine. But don't tell him I said so.

Russia to a conference. "Just because England and the United States got most of the swag, we can't expect Japan to take what is left and like it. The conference should make a statement to Japan that she must withdraw her troops out of China and make restitution, but in addition, they must revamp the economic policies of their country so that Japan will be able to buy raw materials at a price she can pay. They must solve the problem of Japanese migration by providing some place for the overpopulation of the islands to move.

Democracy vs. Fascism.

In line with this policy, March believes that the United States should repeal the Japanese exclusion act and permit the entrance of Japanese to this country on a quota basis.

"The next world war will ostensibly be a war of democracy against fascism. Actually it will be a war of British imperialism versus German imperialism in Europe, and British imperialism versus Japanese imperialism in China."

Self contained nationalities can exist for only a few years at the most March believes, for sooner or later they will be forced to seek outside markets for some of their products. In the lobbyist's opinion lower tariff barriers would do much to bring about international equanimity.

INTRAMURAL FINALISTS RESUME BATTLE TODAY

A.T.O.'s, Sig Ep's, Sig Alpha's, Sigma Nu's Charted as Undefeated Teams.

The intramural touch football teams that have overcome all opposition in their respective leagues will vie for championship honors out at the "fiats" tonight. The tit between Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Nu will get under way at 4:30 while the Alpha Tau Omega—Sigma Phi Epsilon game will start at 5 o'clock.

Both games should provide everything a spectator wants to see in a football game. Each team has displayed a potent scoring attack at some time during this season. Sigma Nu, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Sigma Phi Epsilon being particularly noted for their strong offenses. Alpha Tau Omega on the other hand has won its spurs by the use of a short passing game and an air tight defense.

IN THE INFIRMARY

The Gamma Phi Beta act. There are 12 girls in the band, led by Thais Ann Haley, and impersonations of such well known orchestras as Henry Busse, Wayne King, and Louis Panico are offered, and very well done, too.

Sigma Alpha Mu's are going to put on a grunt and groan ragatta.—a razzle dazzle exhibition of the gentle art of wrestling. Anything goes between Ray Brown and Irvin Yaffe, the principals, whether it be biting toes, sticking fingers in eyes, or breaking into an extemporaneous waltz step. Dave Bernstein contributes to the confusion as the referee, and as you can well imagine, the entire proceedings are very funny—especially so will it be to any devotees of the professional game.

The Vine street boys of Sigma Chi are going back to the little red schoolhouse with all the well known characters present from Stinky and Skinny to Fats and Sissy. Novelty comes in with the schoolmams tho; there are two of them and identical in appearance. This is accomplished by the Moore twins, Corvin and Bill, of course. Although action is provided by the entire cast, Grant Thomas and Carl Cleveland seem especially funny with their duet singing.

Alpha Chi Omegas are going into the history of the dance modes during the past few years. Starting with such steps as the Charleston, Black Bottom, etc., the eight girl line works up to the Sissie-Q and trucking. All is woven together by way of a classroom scene with the dance teacher, Beverly Weaver, instructing the pupils in the various steps. It looks like a good chance to catch up on your dancing with little "Hokey" leading the way for all you pupils.

That covers nine of the fourteen acts composing the revue now, and another day soon will see the remaining five previewed.

SCHOONER APPEARS ON STANDS TODAY

Poetry from Cambridge, Mass., where he is practicing law.

"Among lawyers," he says, "I pass for a man of letters; among men of letters, for a lawyer."

Edwin Ford Piper, another Nebraska alumnus, now a professor of English at Iowa university writes "This Forty Years." His books of poetry, "Barbed Wire and Other Poems" and "Paintrock Road," have brought him wide recognition as an American poet. Elizabeth Maester, author of "Never the Unicorn," lives in Wichita Falls, Texas.

A regular schooner poet is Alan Swallow, a graduate student at Louisiana State at Baton Rouge. Miss Swallow writes a sonnet, "To a Contemporary." Other of her Schooner poetry has appeared in Fiction Parade. Don Blankertz, whose verse has appeared in the magazine before, writes "Preludes." Poet Blankertz lives in Detroit. "The Hunters" is written by Marie de L. Welch, a California poet whose lyric, "The Heron" was printed in the spring Schooner.

Ivy O. Eastvich writes "Beans at Candlemas." The author writes from England with the subject of her poem an old rhyme of that country. "Lyric Etuding Title" is Ethel Romig Fuller's third Schooner poem. Her poem "Hay-ting" which appeared in a 1936 Schooner is to be reprinted in the Moulton collection. Katherine Winslow, another Schooner poet, will appear in the same volume with her poem "Vestigial."

Thursday will be the last day which R. O. T. C. companies may enter teams for the barb intramurals.

Tournaments are scheduled for touch football, volley ball, basketball, and softball. Awards and medals will be given to members of the winning teams and to outstanding individual players.

Only unaffiliated students are free to compete in the intramurals under the sponsorship of the R. O. T. C. as the Greek intramurals adequately take care of the fraternity men. All men playing in the intramural games must have a physical examination from the student health department in Pharmacy hall.

Game schedules will be made up by Mr. Petz in the intramural office and posted on the bulletin board as soon as teams representing each company have been organized and the names of the men competing have been turned in.

Basketball teams can practice in the coliseum as soon as organized. Floor and basketball reservations must be made two days in advance. These reservations will be made by the student officer who is in charge of the sports of that company.

The Engineering Companies A, B, C, and D have each entered one team while in the Infantry, Company A has entered two teams and Companies F, H, and I each are represented by one team. Expectations are that more teams from various companies will have entered by the deadline this coming Thursday.

Additional information may be secured at the R. O. T. C. Intramural bulletin board on the second floor of Nebraska hall.
