STUDENTS RALLY TO SEND GRIDDERS ON VICTORY TREK

Pepsters Meet at Station to Show Support of School.

With the slogan, "Pity Pitt" sounding from their lips the students will gather at the Burlington station tonight at 7:15, to form what is hoped to be the biggest send off rally in the history of the university.

Speakers at the rally which will include Coach Biff Jones, Coach Henry F. Schulte, Game Captain Fred Shirey, and other members of the team. The varsity band will be on hand to lend its spirit to the occasion.

Show Support.

According to Morris Lipp, a member of the committee in charge, "It is more important than ever this week to give the team the feeling that the entire student body is behind them. Not only is Pittsburgh one of the most important teams in the country, but at the present time is at the height of its power. No Pittsburgh team in the last few years has been defeated during the month of November, and it is up to the students to show the team that they feel that Nebraska can break this spell of the Panthers."

After the disheartening tie last week with Kansas, the team is seeking revenge, and also a return to its place in the national football spotlight at the expense of Pitt's machine.

Besides Lipp on the committee are: Willard Burney, chairman, Paul Wagner, Web Mills, Frances Boldman, and Dave Bernstein, yell leader.

DR. HOLCK PRESENTS EXPERIMENT RESULTS WITH ELIXIR POISON

Pharmacist Tells Findings on Diethylene Glycol in Medical Journal.

Dr. Harold G. O. Holck, of the college of pharmacy, has an article in the latest journal of the American Medical Association which announces the results of his experiments with diethylene glycol.

This highly poisonous chemical, which caused the death of 60 persons recently, was used as a solvent in the so-called elixir with sulfanilamide, taken by these individuals to combat certain infectious diseases.

Dr. Harold G. O. Holck, conducted his experiments in 1936 while on the staff of the University of Chicago, just prior to his appointment to the faculty at Nebraska. Diethylene glycol, which bears a close chemical relationship to certain of the anti-freeze radiator compounds in use today, showed clearly in his laboratory results that it is deadly poisonous to rats when it is mixed with their food and drinking water.

Tennessee Concern Product.

The "elixir," which contained 72 percent of diethylene glycol, was the product of a Tennessee concern. Dr. Holck found that when the food of hybrid rats was mixed with a 20 percent concentration of this solvent every animal was dead within two weeks. His investigation (Continued on Page 4.)

Students Increase Reading Speeds in Novel Laboratory

Stuit, Freshman Advisor, Explains Detection Visual Faults.

We cannot all, like Roscoe Pound, read a page at a single glance, but a college student can learn to read five or six hundred words, according to Dewey B. Stuit, freshman advisor in Teachers college, who is in charge of a reading laboratory, one purpose of which is to increase the students' reading speed.

The average for college students is 250 words per minute; however, this need not be taken as a criterion, as Mr. Stuit feels that students can learn to read faster than this.

Optthalm-o-Graph Employed.

By means of an optthalm-o-graph, the student's visual faults are detected and the rate of speed of reading can be determined. This machine is really an eye-movement camera which by reflection of light from the pupils of the eyes, records upon a 35 mm. film the movement of the eyes as they travel from word to word in reading. This film runs through the camera at a constant rate of half an inch per second.

This movement of the pupils on the film should be as irregular zig (Continued on Page 4.)

CADET TRAINING CORPS WILL NOT PARADE THURSDAY

Armistice Day Procession Will Include Tassels, Band, no R. O. T. C.

The university R. O. T. C. unit will not take part in the Armistice day parade this year. It has been the custom in past years to dismiss all classes for this day, and to have the complete ROTC organization parade.

The Lincoln businessmen have, in past years, refused to cooperate with the military department, and have remained open for business on this day. It was for this reason that the Nebraska senate voted not to close the university tomorrow.

Only the Varsity Band, the Tassels, and the Pershing Rifles will represent the university in the parade this year. The units will assemble in front of Nebraska hall at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and with the Tassels carrying the Memorial flag, will march south to O. St. They will be joined there by the main body of the parade which will form at 15th and N. Sts.

Schooner Edition Causes Baby Riot in Journal Office

Whatever commotion the unusual "Schooner" edition of the Daily Nebraskan raised upon the campus, it was as nothing compared to the pandemonium which raged up and down last night in the composing room of the Lincoln Journal where the Nebraskan is published. Barely coming out at all, the paper was a whole hour and a half late.

Such juicy literary tid-bits as: "Her Level Brow," "Lip's Curve," "Why Speak of Love," and "Let's Dip Our Pens in the Ink of Comradeship," sent the Journal journalists amuck. From the lowest printers devil to the the all-supreme shop foreman came repeated requests for "more of that damn tripe."

Fight for "Celia."

The story of Celia was the reigning favorite: "Man's Savage Becomes Naught in Face of Love;" "Lover Rejected, Tries a Second;" "Celia Triumphs." Linotypers bitterly protested when "Celia" was cut into "takes," each wanted to have the whole story for himself so that he could read the ending.

Time flew. Deadlines approached. The night editors of the Nebraskan were concerned. Where was Celia? Finally at 3:00 in the morning, back came Celia from all corners of the composing room. The delay was easily explained. The boys had picked out certain parts of the description which they thought could be improved upon and were supplementing author George Abel's own account with some of their own experiences.

CONDRA STUDIES ROCK FORMATIONS OF STATE

Geologists Moore, Reed Aid in Southeastern Survey.

Dean G. E. Condra, director of the Conservation and Survey division of the University together with Raymond C. Moore, director of the Kansas geological survey, and E. C. Reed, assistant professor of conservation and assistant state geologist, spent the last three or four days looking over geological formations in southeastern Nebraska and correlating them with formations in Kansas.

Thin layers of rock in Nebraska have been found to extend into Kansas and even into Oklahoma in some instances.

The Nebraska and Kansas surveys work together very closely on problems that relate to both, and at this time are working out the exact occurrence and description is the president of the State Geological Survey mentioned above.

Student Has Hallucinations, Visions Collapse of Library

Pandemonium Reigns as Good Ship 'Uni Library' Meets Imagined Fate.

By Marjorie Churchill.

'Twas in the late fall of 1937. The good ship University Library had been patched from stem to stern, and the battered hulk which had weathered many a storm was setting out with her staunch crew on another season's run. Water-logged and infested with termites, the doomed vessel presented a risk too great for insurance companies to hazard, yet the steadfast crew and the hundreds of crowded pas-

Classes to Continue During Armistice Day

Classes at the university will not be excused on Armistice Day, Nov. 11. In an announcement Friday, Dean T. J. Thompson declared that the senior varsity band, members of Pershing Rifles, and those of the Tassels who will carry the service flag will participate in the Armistice Day parade sponsored by the city on the afternoon of Armistice Day. The university proper, however, observed this holiday Saturday afternoon before the Kansas-Nebraska football game.

Members of the military department staff, both university bands, Pershing Rifles, and the visiting university of Kansas band conducted a short service commemorative of Armistice Day. The university service flag was displayed and other appropriate ceremonies conducted. No other all-university observance is scheduled, the dean said.

All men on the college of law and any others interested are invited to attend.

Student Has Hallucinations, Visions Collapse of Library

But there came a day, that fateful day of the shover in the fall of 1937 when straining beams gave way, when the luckless vessel was tossed about relentlessly and rent asunder, with nary a man left to tell the tale.

Breakers Ahead.

Lookout Smith, stationed at the masthead to watch for possible raindrops or ominous clouds, sang out, "Breakers ahead, sir!"

"Breakers close under the bows," sang out Boatwain Graham from forward deck.

CAMPUS POLITICIAN LEADS 'GREEN BONNETS' INTO ARENA

Typical Party Figurehead Begins Brother Pushing for Fall Elections.

By Ed Steeves.

You can tell him by the way he inflates his chest. You can tell him by the way he cordially greets those whom he dislikes. You can always tell a campus politician, but as the adage goes, you cannot tell him much.

He is very much like his professional brother of the outer world, the political boss, save that he is usually without the emblematic "seegar." The campus brand of politician bears a calloused right hand; calloused from habitual hand-shaking. There is seldom a time of day that he isn't pouring out some warm, but meaningless salutation to a slight acquaintance.

Duty to Green Bonnet.

It is his duty, he believes. It is his duty to dear old Green Bonnet party to keep up the goodwill throughout the university. In his imagination, his shoulders have grown broad from carrying a burden of activities, which in reality are as necessary as lace cuffs in a nudist camp. So he smiles the smile of a martyr and befriends the school as a unit.

WEATHER
What summary fall weather we're having these days. The weather man says 72 degrees was the high yesterday with warmer last night, but fair and colder is forecast for today.
