

1911 GRADUATE TO WORK IN INTERIOR LIBRARIES

Edith Gant Named Specialist In Government Public Libraries.

Edith Gant, university graduate of 1911, was named a specialist in public libraries by the United States department of interior, according to a dispatch of the department Monday. She is one of three appointees who will assume duties in the next few weeks, the dispatch said.

For over 20 years since graduation Miss Gant has been engaged in library work in California.

AS JOHNNY SEES IT.

Looking eagerly forward already this week to a whooping time at the Military Ball are most of the campus socialites. Some of the fasties who lined themselves up with beauties as early as the night after last year's blowout are checking up to see just how many dates they do have. Many are the boys who are getting tied up in the phone cord when trying to explain date cancellings. That brings up another bit of advice. Never let yourself in for any rash promises when trying to impress the "one and only" that your's is the true love. Just say, "Cripes, Molly, you're a helluva good egg." It accomplishes the same purpose and you don't have that sinking feeling that you've just as good as torn up a couple of crisp fivers. Some of the boys are getting worried now because that trip home to see ma and pa on Thanksgiving didn't produce the desired results, that is, no continentals were forthcoming from the family sock. Maybe that can be explained by the fact that most of them saw the folks for about two hours at Thanksgiving day dinner.

SEEN IN OMAHA Shep Fields again, and quite a turnout. Marj Houser was there and Frances Goodwin. Can't remember whom they were with. And at the Music Box Beth Howley and Bill Fox, Dow Wilson and Lucille Anderson. Then Friday night simply everyone went back for the traditional Turkey Trot. George Souders and Jean Newell, Marjorie Cornington, Bob Zoesch, Marjorie Lindquist, Gale Tate, and just dozens of others. It was a stag affair so couldn't tell you exactly who was with whom.

WAY OUT IN FREMONT

Saturday was quite the night in Fremont I hear. The occasion was no less than the well known Elks Fair. Max Durand and Bud Lampert drove way up from Lincoln to be there. Walt Zinc and Helen Pascoe, Butch Larson and Deloris Doll, Vee Louise Marshall and Hugh Williams, and Priscilla Wicks and Elton Wiley all from Nebraska were there. Maybe there weren't enough dates to go around, anyhow Bob Gannon and Jack Myers stayed it.

Congratulations to Fred Shirey, varsity tackle, whose selection as one of the 90 players in the U.S. A. being considered for All America football honors was announced yesterday. Editor Ed Murray of the Nebraskans received a letter yesterday from the All America Board of Football breaking the news. As amateur honor, Shirey was given a wallet and a Card of Merit telling of his selection. Shirey and Charlie Brock were picked on Ted Husing's All Performance eleven which is no small honor.

At last, Mary Anna, whom some folks have accused of being fickle, has made the fatal move in playing weekly engagements with Frank Vette, Beta. For some time Frank and a D. U. whose name we will not mention for obvious reasons (mainly because we don't know it) were both going steady with Mary Anna. Proclamations of devotion flowed continuously at the boys' houses. Now the D. U. is pifft, Mary Anna sent Frank's hat, which he left at the Tri-Delt house of a recent evening, back to him in a mammoth florist box accompanied by a cagey note. Those who read the note say that it was strictly on the up and up mentioning something about catching cold. But, they say, that was plenty of implication 'twist them thar lines.'

It has been charged that our government is inefficient, that politics have sunk to the level of a racket barely distinguishable from crime, that our people know nothing of the way in which our government is being run and careless, and that this very agency whose future depends upon youth is allowing the pick of that youth to enter other professions for want of opportunity in the field of government administration.

What do Nebraska students think?

Elinor Brown, Arts and Sciences sophomore:

"I took a course in political science last year, and that was what we heard all year. We found that in this country there is a great need for the type of governmental employees as are found in England. What we should do is make the administration of our government a career, rather than a grabbag from which each official gets what he can."

"In political life today, there are a lot of trained men participating—lawyers and bankers and other men with higher education. They, however, lack specific training. If a man is a banker and is elected to congress, he is interested only in financial matters; he goes into the ways and means committee and forgets everything else."

"College training would give a perspective of the whole field of government to the prospective worker."

Henry Reiff Schneider, Arts and Sciences senior:

"I think that public administration should be a career rather than a racket. The main fault with our present political system has been inefficiency, due to a lack of preparation on the part of the men in responsible positions."

"Our foreign diplomacy has been faulty, due to the fact that there have been but few men who have really made a career of dealing with foreign nations. In nearly all matters of the training of our governmental employees, we can't begin to compare with other nations of the world."

Alice Akerson, Teacher's college sophomore:

"I favor such a plan. It would help students to get some idea of the field of politics as a whole. So many of our people are really ignorant as to the proper functions of government, that it is not surprising that a number of men in public offices are able to cheat those who elected them. If a great many people who are not planning to enter the field of governmental administration take the course, they will at least know how a particular office should be run. If the officials are conscious of the fact that people are acquainted with the proper functions of their office, they will be more careful, efficient, and the offices will be better managed."

"How will this be accomplished? Surely such laws won't be passed by congress, membership in which is nothing but a political plumb in certain districts—the legislative department won't put a noose around its own neck. If it is to come, it must come as a result of the referendum of the people."

This should be supplanted by the 'science of government'—the running of each office in accordance with the best interests of the majority of the people.
