

Boys in Pink Give Browne Rosy Outlook

Same song, another verse! This is the year of 1937 with 1938 coming up. This is another year. Each year since Coach W. H. Browne's arrival here at Nebraska has advanced at least one notch in basketball prestige.

When he came he found the Husker cage teams a much funnier phenomenon than the school's humor publication, the Awgwan, and the Awgwan was a pretty funny in those days. Little by little he nursed the sport back to health. Look at it today, clamoring for prestige alongside of Husker's king football.

Last year, Browne attained the first maple championship ever attained at Nebraska hardwoods. That was not quite the unadorned brand we wanted, but was shared in the form of a co-championship with Kansas. This year, however, appears to be on the verge of furnishing smilin' W. H. with another prosperous season.

Browne has enough seasoned men back to make a plenty salty team. With major awards are Parsons, Ebaugh, Amen, and Nelson. The latter, a 6 foot 6 inch center from Curtis, made his letter in 1935 and '36, then stuck to the sidelines because of ill health.

No other conference school has such an encouraging list of vets. F. C. "Phog" Allen, usual monarch of Big Sixdom, is sobbing convulsively because he has only one regular on the first five. Two others were subs of last year's strong squad.

Iowa State, who finished on the bottom last year has hopes none too potent this year, for only one letterman adorns the group reporting.

Oklahoma, third rater in only one regular. A like table is presented by Missouri and Kan-

ONLY FOUR DAYS REMAIN FOR LAST SQUAD POLISHING

Browne Emphasizes Speed, Timing in Last-Minute Maple Drills.

With only four days in which to whip a Cornhusker basketball team into shape, Coach W. H. Browne emphasized speed and timing as the Husker squad worked out until about 6 o'clock last night.

The Huskers will leave Lincoln Thursday for Columbus, Ohio, to take on the Ohio State university cagers next Saturday, Dec. 11.

The fast breaking type of offense was stressed in last night's practice. The change in rules this year which eliminates the center jump except at the beginning of the first and third periods will speed this year's game up considerably by bringing the fast break offense into play more than ever before.

Two Positions Open.

There was still no indication as to who would fill the two open positions on the Husker lineup. Coach Browne still feeling around for possibilities. Lloyd Grimm has been working out steadily for the past week at the open guard position but is getting plenty of competition. In the scramble for the forward berth still unfilled three minor letter winners and a half dozen sophomores are battling.

Al Werner, minor award winner last year, has been working out with the first five most of the time and may get the call. Lawrence Nelson, towering center-guard who made his major letter two years ago, has not been attending practice sessions and will probably not be in the squad which will make the season's first trip to Columbus. Nelson was forced to quit basketball last year due to illness.

Bringing into effect another brain child of Kansas "Phog" Allen, electricians installed automatic lights on the baskets of the main court in the coliseum. Three lights, two above the bang board and one directly behind the net, flash on automatically when the ball passes through the basket. Contact is made when the ball strikes a lever across the bottom of the net. All courts of Big Six teams will be equipped with these lights this year.

Kansas State, thus Nebraska at least should be tops. Although Coach Tom Stidham's Oklahoma Sooners would rather have had the championship, all they got out of the "Big Six" conference football race this year was second place and a pretty decided advantage in the statistics.

Coach Wes Fry's Kansas State Wildcats again were the champion running team of the league with 785 net yards gained in the five "Big Six" games. However Oklahoma had the best defense against running attacks with only 323 net yards made against the tough Sooner line, the greatest margin on running, the most points by 62, and the fewest points made against them with 13.

The statistics on the running attack:

Team	Yds. Gained	Opp. Yds.	Net Margin
1. Oklahoma	652	323	+329
2. Nebraska	538	374	+164
3. Kansas State	785	629	+156
4. Kansas	375	535	-160
5. Iowa State	296	755	-459

Oklahoma completed 53 percent of its forward passes in the "Big Six" games to dominate the offensive passing statistics with Missouri and Iowa State second, Kansas State intercepted the most heaves, 13, had only five of their own flips intercepted and averaged gaining 20.8 yards on each completed pass.

The table on offensive forward passing:

Team	Yds. Av.	Comp.	Att.	Per. Cent.	Gain
1. Oklahoma	34	64	53	311	9.1
2. Iowa State	19	47	465	201	19.5
3. Missouri	23	50	40	174	9.9
4. Kansas	13	41	316	121	9.3
5. Nebraska	22	76	314	335	15.2
6. Kansas State	8	32	53	187	20.8

Coach Jim Yeager's Iowa State Cyclones had the best pass defense in the league, permitting all "Big Six" opponents only 30 percent of completions. Oklahoma was second with 33 percent completed against it and Missouri third with 35. The fiercely tackling Sooner secondary cut down the opponents' average passing gain to 9.4 yards to lead in this regard.

The table on defensive forward passing:

Team	Yds. re-Op. Yds.	Intercepted	Margin
1. Nebraska	521	271	+250
2. Oklahoma	648	359	+289
3. Missouri	521	316	+205
4. Kansas	375	535	-160
5. Iowa State	296	755	-459
6. Kansas State	318	781	-463

Oklahoma and Nebraska were easily the class of the hoop in the runback of kickoffs and punts and also in defense against them. The Sooners returned enemy kicks the most yards but the Cornhuskers permitted the fewest yards of opponents' runbacks.

The table on runback of kicks:

Team	Yds. re-Op. Yds.	Intercepted	Margin
1. Nebraska	521	271	+250
2. Oklahoma	648	359	+289
3. Missouri	521	316	+205
4. Kansas	375	535	-160
5. Iowa State	296	755	-459
6. Kansas State	318	781	-463

Iowa State's lateral passing attack was tops. The Cyclones completed 16 of 19 laterals in "Big Six" competition in this season for total gains of 124 yards, more than all the other schools combined.

Iowa State also maintained its record of being by far the cleanest playing team in the conference. Coach Yeager's Cyclones were penalized only 82 yards in "Big Six" play to Kansas State's 120, Missouri's 160, Nebraska's 185, Kansas's 194, and Oklahoma's 195.

Oklahoma led in first downs with 55 to Kansas State's 40, Nebraska's 39, Missouri's 38, Kansas's 36, and Iowa State's 32. The Sooners also had fewest first downs made against them with 20 to Nebraska's 35, Kansas State's 42, Iowa State's 43, and Missouri and Kansas's 44.

COLLEGE SCRIBES PUT SHIREY, BROCK ON THIRD ELEVEN

The national collegiate sports writers placed Charley Brock and Fred Shirey at center and tackle, respectively, on their 1937 All-America third team. End Elmer Dohrmann ranked on the fifth squad.

Nebraskans receiving honorable mentions were Lowell English, Bob Mehring and Johnny Howell. The teams were selected by sports scribes of 83 colleges and universities in 40 states and the District of Columbia thru the fourth annual poll of the writers by Bob Kunkel, editor of the 1938 Collegiate.

"Any player who received mention from two schools, or a first team position from one school," said Kunkel, "ranked at least honorable mention." The data were gathered on a purely mathematical basis.

Panthers Say Dodd, Shirey, Dohrmann Played Toughest Ball of Year.

Pitt's Panthers have selected Elmer Dohrmann, Fred Shirey and Jack Dodd on their all-opponent team of 1937. Dohrmann's end play astounded eastern observers.

Notre Dame placed four men on the team, and the other positions went to players from Fordham, Carnegie Tech, Penn State and Duke. The team: Sweeney, Notre Dame, and Dohrmann, Nebraska, ends; Beiner, Notre Dame, and Shirey, tackles; Kuharich, Notre Dame, and Lipscomb, Duke, guards; Wojciechowicz, Fordham, center; Puhls, Notre Dame, quarterback; Harrison, Penn State, and Dodd, halfbacks; Lee of Carnegie Tech, fullback.

Getulio Vargas, jr., son of Brazil's new nationalist dictator, is a student at Johns Hopkins university, and unopposed in his homeland.

The men at Brigham Young university are all affluter. Reason for their suspense is the poll being taken among women students to find the man they would "most prefer" having as an escort for the evening.
