

Browne Shifts Cagers to Find Clicking Bunch

Werner to Replace Grimm In Squad Shake-Up For Sodaks?

As Coach W. H. Browne sent his Cornhusker cage charges thru a midweek practice session in the coliseum last night, indications were stronger than ever that a sophomore would be on the starting lineup before the weekend. The Huskers will open their home schedule here next Friday when they play the South Dakota university quintet.

AWERNER
From Lincoln Journal attempt to find a winning combination. Appearances now indicate that Al Werner, forward, who turned in an unexpectedly good performance at Columbus, O., against the Ohio State Buckeyes last Saturday, may be called upon to shift from his forward position to a guard spot. In such a case he will replace Lloyd Grimm who seems to be having trouble in adapting himself to the court after a long grid season.

Thomas, Kovanda Bid.
Who will take Werner's vacant spot at forward was undecided last night with several minor lettermen and a couple of sophomores putting in strong bids. Most likely cagers to fill the spot appeared to be Grant Thomas, sophomore, and Bill Kovanda, minor letterman from last year. Both boys are credited with good performances against Ohio State.

Paul Amen was holding down his forward wall after a rather bad time at Ohio last Saturday. Floyd Ebaugh, center, and Bob Parsons, guard, the other two veterans from last year, were also working out at their regular spots.

From Vermillion, S. D., come reports that South Dakota is coming to Lincoln this Friday with a lineup of six foot veterans. The South Dakotians nosed out the Scarlet and Cream last year at Vermillion by two points in an overtime period. According to reports, it will be the same team that will play the Huskers this year.

S.A.E. STAYS UNDEFEATED IN VOLLEY BALL RIVALRY

Delts, Farm House, Sig Chi's Forfeit Interfraternity Tihs Wednesday.

In Intramural interfraternity volley ball last night the Delts forfeited to the S. A. E.'s to make them undefeated in their league. The Farm House and the Sigma Chi's each lost a game when both teams failed to show up.

In the games played, the A. T. O.'s won easily over the Theta Xi's, 2 to 0, as did the Beta's over the Zeta Beta Tau's and the Chi Phi's over the P. K. A.'s. The Sig Eps ran into unexpected competition as they barely eked out a 2 to 1 victory over the A. G. R.'s. The Kappa Sig's took the Aetna by score of 2 to 1, and the Beta Sig's won over the Xi Phi Psi's, 2 to 1.

METHODIST FRATERNITY INITIATES 10 MEMBERS

Phi Tau Theta Plans to Send 11 Delegates to National Meet in St. Louis.

Ten pledges were initiated into Phi Tau Theta last Tuesday evening. Paul Sprout, president, Rolland Nye, chaplain, and John Lincoln, treasurer of the Methodist fraternity, conducted the ceremonies which accepted John Early, Donald Morse, Vinton Hester, Lindell Hanthorn, Harold Finch, Ellsworth Steele, Arnold Pitman, Charles Haynes, John Gates and Arthur Fellers.

Plans for sending the Wesley Foundation's delegates to the National Methodist convention were completed last Monday evening. The group of 11 will leave Lincoln Dec. 27 for St. Louis, and return on New Year's day. National president of Phi Tau Theta, Dale Wesse of Lincoln, will also attend the convention. Rev. Robert E. Drew, Methodist student pastor, is going to St. Louis as an adult counselor.

Musical Footnotes

By Gene Garrett.

As her part of the student recital convocation yesterday afternoon, Merlene Tatro opened the program with "Prelude, Air and Caprice" in D minor, a composition by Handel. The Prelude opened in a spirited mode, after which it passed easily into a solemn, but not heavy, piano, returning at the end to the style of the opening phrases. Its performance required good use of the pedal, and exhibited a wide range of expression.

The program's next performer, James Lawson, appeared quite nervous. His voice was a bit shaky and he kept a firm grip on the edge of the piano, but this should not be counted against him. His rendition of "Songs My Mother Taught Me," and "The Mistral" were quite good. His voice seems to be very rich and has lyric quality.

Miss Knofflock Plays Well.

Beatrice Knofflock, playing as her number the Beethoven Sonata, Op. 2, No. 1, showed to good advantage the dexterity of both her right and left hands. The sonata required grace, precision, and flexibility in the use of both hands; this Miss Knofflock showed. She was in too much of a hurry in starting, however; she started almost before she was seated.

Yvonne Gaylord, playing a trumpet solo, made a very good showing. Her playing was characterized by a very clear, rich tone, more mellow than is usually expected of a trumpet. Shortly after the opening of her solo, "Nereid" some fuzziness of tone was notable, but this disappeared, giving full brilliance to her triple-tonguing and precision of attack. "Nereid" requires less than the usual amount of "tricky" playing, relying on the ability of the performer to interpret the music in the best manner. There were less of the high notes and lengthy cadenzas than are usually found in solos. This was a welcome relief, putting the trumpet in its proper place as a melodic instrument.

Frances Spencer's cello solo included several "soppy" notes, but as a whole made up a good presentation.

Bauer Shows Technique.

"Reflections in the Water" is an apt title for the contribution by Raymond Bauer to the concert. Mr. Bauer used it as an excellent medium of demonstrating technique. The rhythm of the piece was comparable to "rippling rhythm," but of a better type than the fish bowl variety. Toward the end, the tempo became somewhat sleepy, and the number ended quietly.

The Mastersingers, popular radio quartet, provided the lighter portion of the program, with a group of cheerful songs. "Let All My Life Be Music" was the title of their first song, which they quickly followed with an original presentation of "Sopranoic Philosophies," aptly promoting the views of a student on studying, and using remarkable logic. Their number was the ever popular "March of the Musicasters," the rollicking song of Dumas' Three Musketeers.

The Mastersingers were called back to give a neat little travesty on "Rigoletto," a type of song which is always popular among those of us who are inclined to be bored by the heavy dramatics of grand opera.

Margaret Porter closed the recital with a rendition of the "Polonaise Brillante in D major." Her performance was brilliant, in the manner of the title, but there were some sour notes that didn't belong in the piece. Otherwise, her performance was commendable.

Toward the last of the program, there was some distraction made by the band men blowing their horns in the practice room with the doors open. This may have distracted Miss Porter, and certainly should not have been allowed.

NOMINATIONS MADE FOR CIVIL ENGINEERS SOCIETY POSITIONS

Students to Vote Today, Friday for Officers of Organization.

Nominations for next semester's officers of the Nebraska chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers were made at a meeting held last night and resulted in the following men being named: President, Harold Turnbull, Will Reedy, Harold Dobbins; vice president, Gerald Gillan, Ray Crosson; secretary-treasurer, Ed DeKlotz, Herb Versaw.

Gerald Gillan gave a lecture on the Conowingo hydro-electric development in Maryland, illustrating his talk with lantern slides. The project ranks as one of the largest of that type in the United States, having an initial installation of 378,000 horsepower in seven units to be increased ultimately to about 600,000 horsepower in 11 units.

Built in Record Time

Requiring less than two years to build and put in operation, record time, the project consists of a power house and dam. The latter crosses the Susquehanna river near Conowingo, Md., and is designed to develop the fall of the river for a distance of about 15 miles. It has resulted in the formation of a lake 14 miles upstream at the tailrace of the Holtwood plant of the Pennsylvania Water & Power Co. The area of the pond is about 8,600 acres.

The dam is 4,700 feet long and it has a maximum height of 105 feet, being of solid concrete masonry construction. The design of the plant and construction features were shown on the slides, including drainage details and diagrams showing the conditions under which the project was built.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS ELECT YEAR'S OFFICERS

Don Payne Named President of Engineering Society Wednesday Night.

New officers for next year were elected at a meeting of the Nebraska chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers last night. Those named are Don Payne, president; Edmund Carlson, vice president; Ellis Smith, secretary and Keith Struthers, treasurer.

Major W. A. Wood, instructor in the engineering units here, discussed the "Central valley project of California" as a feature of the meeting. Initiated by the state of California and the United States recently, the project's fourfold purpose, irrigation, navigation, flood control and power generation, was explained by Major Wood. The project, which embraces the great central valley of the state, is estimated to cost approximately 57 million dollars, he stated.

THE WEATHER

Christmas is rapidly approaching, but the weather has taken a decidedly unchristmas-like trend with predictions for today reading fair and slightly warmer.

SCHOONER KEYNOTES TIMES: PEACE, WAR

is touching and sympathetic portrayal of a couple, who having lost one child, discover that their second has some serious disorder due to heredity, and to add further to their grief are informed that they can never have another. Another Nebraska who has formerly contributed to the Schooner and is well known to the readers is Weldon Kees, graduate of the university, and whose contribution is a story entitled "Mrs. Lutz."

Of the 19 contributors to this edition, six are women. Eudora Welty sends her story from Jackson, Miss.; from New York City comes Floylen Kerzan's first poem for the Schooner; and Neva Dell Metten writes from Bloomfield, Neb., while Margaret Cannell and Bernice Kaufman entered their book reviews from Lincoln. Other contributions to the Schooner come from California from Michael Tempest and Joel Keith, and other contributors are from Philadelphia and Drake University.

The Schooner sales for the first issue of this year have been quite successful, putting the magazine in a sounder position than it has enjoyed for some time. A new business manager, Bob Seidel is taking over the reins for the rest of the school year.

She had in mind the university's practice of housing all rushees in Corbin hall, girl's dormitory, during rush week.

There, she says, "they become victims of mob psychology and mob hysteria. Corbin hall is the most fertile field for wild rumors regarding sororities that one could possibly find."

Other coeds on the campus eschew Betty favor deferred rushing to allow girls to become better acquainted with the various houses during the first semester without pledging.

UPDRAFT LATEST DISCOVERY IN PIPES

The freshman basketball squad, under the rule of Adolph Lewandowski and Chile Armstrong, is one of the ablest we have ever seen. Its first five is comprised of all state men in its entirety. The bunch has more fire than the much talked of Japanese conflict.

"They're potent bull handlers," say the yelling coaches.

An especially active combination is two teammates, Don Fitz and Harry Fitzcaithley. Jackson flashes.
