

want to show partiality. We suggest he flip a coin, but maybe he'd rather not be so fippant about the whole deal.

Buckey Prime, he of the flaming top, is already thinking of sending his A. T. O. pin to the Theta house as soon as he gets his hands on one, which, I think, is crossing his bridges before he comes to them.

It wasn't a fit night in for— The Chi Omegas had one of the better snow fights of the season Tuesday night. It all happened in the absence of house mother Prouty. Betty Flory and Joyce Malzacker foolishly opined a quintet of snow slingers made up of Peggy Pascoe, Harriet Stearns, Edie and Ruthie Huston, Ruth Stephens and Dixie Davis. As the rugs of the house began to take on the appearance of a well-used blotter, Miss Stearns was locked out on a balcony and left to the mercy of the howling wind. A merciful foe handed her fur coat out to her, but left her out to shiver.

When dinner time approached, Joyce and Betty were made prisoner in their rooms. The other five trekked off to their victuals and sat down in their places, piling their plates full of snow balls. Well, the two gals left upstairs not only missed their food, but one also missed a tassel meeting, while the others patrolled the halls shouting the time at regular intervals.

Harold Atherton, I dare not mention his fraternity, had a date with one fine Marg Houser, Theta, this last week and so we are told, made all the time of a streak of lightning with bees in its trousers. In short, the text of his conversation was, "Let's you and me quit school and settle down." Don't tell anyone we told you.

A standing joke in the Delta Gamma house has been Shenandoah, Ia. However, that sorority meant the joke only as a joke, if you know what I mean. Earl E. May, you probably know, operates one of the farm country's bigger enterprises and radio stations in that young city. Currently, his daughter, who is a DG elsewhere, visited the Lincoln chapter and the idle jibes at the seed center came to the surface of the conversation once again. Miss May said nothing to the girls, but carried the story back to her father, who immediately sent the Lincoln Delta G's a long friendly letter accompanied by a huge package of citrus fruit and a promise to be down; and treat all the fems of that chapter to steak dinners.

We don't like Shenandoah, either, Mr. May.

It seems that simply everyone is bound for the great out-of-doors nowadays. The Alpha Chi's, I've heard, planned a sleigh ride for last night, tho whether it panned out as per arrangements, I couldn't say. The Phi Delt's have laid deep schemes for a similar treat for the chapter and their dates if they aren't snowbound tonight. Yesterday quite a skirmish took place right out in the middle of the street in front of the drug when a couple of Beta's, Paul Bradley and Johnny Bass, made an issue of something or other and when the snowballs began to fly thick and fast, Paul, every inch a gentleman usually, hid behind some girl for protection.

Nadine Lucas, it is said, came back for a visit at the Phi Mu house Monday and incidentally to pass the candy with Acacia, Bill Miller, he of the golden voice. Going against all tradition, miniature flower pots were supplied for the girls, and these brought in wrapped in a huge heart-shaped box. The boys across the street from the governor's however, came in for the usual cigs.

As long as we've gone way back to Valentine's day, we might as well add a touch about the Chi Omega's. Two of their more resourceful pledges gathered all of the masculine photographs in the house last Monday and strung them about the mantel and on the piano in a most conspicuous display so that when the gals came home from the basketball game with dates, they were confronted with the countenances of all their ancient flames. The two pledges, Ruth Stephens and Jean Simonson, were pretty well taken care of for their prank, I might add.

More unclassified advertising. Dick Young, Delta Opsi, wishes to inform all interested parties that he now finds himself more or less in circulation again. In fact, he's on the lookout for some new queens to whip out with in the very near future. Form a line at the right girls.

The A. T. O's have decided that starting Friday, a few issue are to be settled with the pledges before initiation. So at first all the freshmen were instructed to break their dates for the week end. On actual count, however, it was found that a number of the boys had dates with Kappa's and Pi Phi's to the girls' own sorority formal, so now they're allowed one date. One of the youngsters complains, though, that both a Kappa and a Pi Phi have asked him, and he doesn't
