

BY THE HAUNTER

Stronger and stronger grows this Rob Van Norman, Delt, and Edna Bell Welborn, Delta G, combination. The phone not only rings daily, but several times daily we are told. Yesterday they withstood the roaches of U hall for eight on an hour as they chatted all too merrily. We forecast something definite there soon.

The best story we know today is about the pale eyed freshman beauty who sallied up to Dick McGinnis, Chi Phi, at the polls and asked, "What is this Wasserman's test, they're talking about?"

When Irene Seybold, Alpha Phi, snugged Jack McKenzie's Acaemia hardware, the sorority was at a bit of a loss. When they decided they should start hitting for candy, they realized they knew no ballads from the house out capitol way. So now they are being tutored hurriedly on Acaemia Sweetheart, or what ever their anthem is.

In response to Sam Francis' ad yesterday, calls from girls with red coats have flooded us. Among one is Betty Lehman, Sigma Kappa, who is sure that she would fit the bill.

Better drop over Sam'l and take your pick.

Delta Gamma had a mass tubbing Monday night for all girls bearing Sigma Nu pins. All went well as they rammed the regiment into the tub until they came to Gidge Wallace, who wears Jack McKee's star. She very decidedly informed them that she would not be dunked, but with the co-operation of half the chapter, the coed from Kearney was ported up three flights, where they changed both her clothes and her mind.

Interested persons have suggested that we suggest to Keith Baird, Delt, that he suggest to his date that they go to the prom this Friday instead of the cinema. You know, Kith, the way to a woman's heart is not through her stomach, but through the junior-senior prom.

Betty Rouch, Pi Phi, gets the 2 ounce spillover for perfect timing

Library Buys 16 of 50 Finest Bound, Most Legible Editions

Times Book Editor, Random House Designer Select Year's Best Books.

Sixteen of the 50 "Best Books" of the year have been purchased by the university library. Although the library selects books for subject matter and not printing, according to the librarian, it was found that 16 of these books were among their collection. These 16 books are on exhibition in library hall this week.

For 16 years the American Institute of Graphic Arts has held an exhibition of the 50 best books of the year.

Selected for Sound Design.

From over 600 entries of 1937, 50 were selected by J. Donald Adams, editor of the New York Times Book Review; Evelyn Harter Glick, erstwhile designer for Random House and other publishers; and Lawrence Stegried, editor of the American Printer.

The basis of selection was not novelty but "sound design and workmanship." The choices were based upon artistic competition and cohesion of the whole; the book's fitness for the use for which it is intended; for the success with which the designer has met the problem presented by the book's editorial content, etc.

American Printers Tops.

Monroe Wheeler, writing in the Publishers Weekly for Febr. 5, said, "In the field of academic printing, America may safely be said to excel all other countries." "To take such heterogeneous material as a catalog of books and paintings accompanied by biographical data and provenances, and

PENN STUDENTS READ LIKE THIRD GRADERS

Dr. E. A. Betts Conducts Reading Clinic for 31 Poor Scanners.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (ACP). Joe College reads like an 8 year old third grader, and at least one college professor is doing something about it.

Dr. Emmett A. Betts of Pennsylvania State college has conducted exhaustive research which proves his point, and he is now treating 31 students in his "reading clinic."

"Persons who have the reading abilities of children in the third grade of public schools have been found among college students," Dr. Betts said. "The fact that they are doing acceptable college work, although handicapped by rudimentary reading, is a glowing testimonial to their general intelligence."

of social events. Her two dates last Sunday met coming from opposite directions, one into the house, the other out. Betty had to detain her second flame until the first was out of sight range, range.

BY THE HAUNTRESS

"Two Loves Have I" sings Bob Gannon. For every moon he receives a little posy of some kind with a sentimental verse attached. One time it was a rose, another day a tulip with the appropriate, "We wish your tender tu-lips were pressed to ours." These thoughtful remembrances he keeps on the window sill of his room. Strong are his suspicions that his two admirers are Kappa pledges, but at least he has the consolation that somebody loves him.

And just to illustrate our conviction that fraternity men read Rag for dirt from their own house, we happened to mention that Jack McKenzie had parted with his jeweled badge, at which Harold Niemann, a brother Acaemia, expressed great surprise. Irene Seybold, pledge at the Alpha Phi house, was on the receiving line. Incidentally Irene's college days have been quite fruitful, because she once said that she was coming to Nebraska to get a fraternity and a sorority pin. She has the former and will soon receive the latter, that is if she hasn't been too busy trucking down that frat pin.

"It's rumored that when the ballots from Tuesday's election were counted, one was found with the following query concerning the establishment of a men's activities point system, "How can I become an Innocent?"

To this naive freshman (and we presume it was a freshman) we can only reply that taking Innocent in its broadest sense, he's doing pretty well already.

Yesterday you know brought the first signs of lent sacrifices. As Mary Helen Husted has told several people already, she intends to give up her D. U. pledge playmate, Charleston Brown. However, we heard differently. In fact, it almost amounts to Mary Helen's third or fourth departure from the fancy free list.

scholarly works and these containing elaborate footnotes, bibliographical lists, tables of data, etc., and to co-ordinate this into a beautiful and legible book is probably the most difficult problem with which the designer is ever faced and it is a problem which American designers and printers solve superlatively well."

Represents 37 Publishers.

There were 15 miscellaneous trade books selected for the exhibition of 50 books, 16 limited editions, 11 of the university press type, 3 juveniles, and 3 textbooks.

In this year's 50 book show 24 were linotype set. The show represents 37 different publishers of whom 10 published two or more of the books. Forty-one different designers showed in the physical planning of this year's selection. The books were bound by 24 different binders.

Yale Press Wins.

To Carl Purrington Rollins and printing office of the Yale University Press went first honors in this year's exhibition.

The University library bought two of these books. In Mr. Rollins' printing of the Bibliographical Record of Samuel Richardson the title page of each book listed is reproduced in a wide margin.

Among other publishers who won recognition were: W. W. Norton and Co., Inc., New York; Yale University Press, New Haven; The MacMillan Co., New York; University of Minnesota Press, Mpls.; University of Michigan, Ann Arbor; Pynson Printers, Inc., New York; Oxford University Press, New York; The Black Cat Press, Chicago; The Grubhorn Press, San Francisco; and Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston.

"Those of you who have years of college still before you have a rare chance to develop those qualities which are the best guarantee of your future welfare. Develop your talents so that your security depends upon society's need for you, not upon your need for society." University of Rochester's Pres. Alan Valentine outlines your educational goal.

AG-GRAVATIONS

Any new feminine touches that you may have noticed about Pete Burns may be credited to the fact that his laundry bag was found to contain a ladies night gown. It was a woolly one too!

It is rumored that Orin "Cassanova" Marcy voted A. O. Pi in the last election. No less than eight girls from that house escorted him to the polls.

Paul Fiddler, varsity bone bender, takes his wrestling seriously. When he isn't chewing ears he is chewing Spark Plug chewing tobacco.

Louise Epp is still looking for a real cowboy. Someone should introduce her to Tom Altken.

Romona Woods seemed to have called off a date with Keith Gilmore because of molar trouble. Could Bill Hartnell be cutting her eye teeth?

We hear that the Chi O's are seriously considering the merits of charging Ted Doyle a sizable house bill.

Max Brown is one person who was glad to have his wisdom teeth come in. He was able to get an excused absence from class on the grounds that he was not able to study. I notice that his teeth did not affect his dancing ability any.

La Donna Gutridge doesn't like the idea for people to say that she is engaged. That rumor cut down the phone calls considerably. She asked me to announce that she is still in circulation and definitely on the eligible list.

What would you do if you couldn't dig up any more dirt? Yes that's right. Stop digging. Yours,
The Aggravator.

TANKSTERETES HOLD ELIMINATION CONTEST

Mermaids Run Off Second Series Preparatory To Wire Meet.

Competing with each other to represent Nebraska at the National Intercollegiate Telegraphic Swimming meet, Tanksteretes will run off their second series of elimination contests in the coliseum pool Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The telegraphic meet, for which the headquarters are at Northwestern University, was entered last year by Nebraska mermaids. Three places were awarded to them, in the free-style relay, the backstroke and the breaststroke.

This year, Tanksteretes will enter the national competition in the 40 yard crawl, the 100 yard free-style and the 75 yard medley relay.

Anyone interested in the swimming meets is invited to attend the elimination contest which will be held Saturday afternoon.

PENNSYLVANIA AG EXPERT HONORED AT DINNER TODAY

Gamma Sigma Delta to Hear Dr. Forbes in Program Starting at Five.

Dr. F. B. Forbes, director of the Institute of Animal Nutrition at Pennsylvania State college will appear on a program sponsored by the university chapter of Gamma Sigma Delta, honorary agronomy fraternity, today at 5:00 p. m. in the dairy husbandry building on the agricultural college campus.

Dr. Forbes, who is nationally known for his work in this field, will give an illustrated address on the subject of "Nutritional Experiments Based on the Net Energy Concept." A dinner will be given in his honor at 6:00 o'clock following the lecture in the agricultural college cafeteria.

The meeting is open to the public and reservations may be made with Professors M. A. Alexander, president of the local society and T. L. Hathaway, secretary, both of the agricultural college faculty.

HIGHER EDUCATION PROFITS BY GIFTS

Columbia Study Reveals Total of $680,000,000 From Bequests.

NEW YORK CITY, (ACP). U. S. higher education has received gifts and bequests totaling more than 680 million dollars from philanthropic foundations since their founding.

This fact has been revealed at Columbia university, where Dr. Ernest Victor Hollis has just completed a careful eight year study of those organizations which have contributed to the advancement of colleges and universities here.

DR. ALEXIS REPORTS THIRD GERMAN FILM SET FOR SATURDAY

'The Hunter of Fall' Comes To Varsity in Foreign Language Series.

The third of a series of German talks brought to the Varsity theater by Joseph E. A. Alexis, will be shown Saturday morning at 9 and 10:30 a. m. "Der Jager Von Fall," or "The Hunter of Fall" is the title of the film, and it is very highly recommended by William Weiersheuser, who twice visited the beautiful Bavarian Alps which form the background of the picture.

"Even a person who understands little German will enjoy this film and learn a great deal about Germany," said Mr. Weiersheuser. "The purpose of the series of films is to give students an opportunity to hear German as it is spoken by natives of that country. It gives students a certain pleasure to hear their newly acquired German used in these performances. The showing of the films is part of the educational plan of instructing students in the German language—and aiding them in understanding it. Students frequently find that they can understand much more of the language than they realize."

Saturday's film is adapted from a novel by Ludwig Ganghofer, noted German author. A study of the peasant life in the Bavarian hills was made by him, and from this the plot is laid. His stories are light and interesting, and for this reason he has become one of the most beloved authors to the mass of the German people. "This particular tale is very graphic and descriptive, and handles its delicate situations well."

'Pen Road Shag' Comes Endorsed For Jitter Bugs

With Prom interest in full swing you may like to try the South-Lincoln Shag as done by Pent-jitter bugs in the Pen-Road Pent-house. The boy hops on the right foot, extending the left; the girl on the left foot makes this rather difficult; make her get off. Now you are off to a good start. The boy hops on her left going right while she, going right, gets left. She going left hops right, and he might because might makes right.

Now a complete change in four counts. This is the first step. Change again and the count is two and two with one run in. Now execute the fleo hop. If there is any kick, kick high; it makes more room. Do the break-way anyplace, hop and hope. When your partner returns, truck backward; don't get that run-down feeling. Jump high in the air. (Higher, higher! I'm still waiting!) Keep stiff if you are not tight already. Land jerkily, and assume a silly pose. Hold for four bars, and six jars. (Don't apologize. They ran into you.) Step backward four counts and assume another silly pose. Truck forward to a silly pose. For variety assume a silly pose.

Run forward with a stiff torso. Beat the heels between your partner's feet and glare at the rest of them. Tap behind and tap your head. Walk on your hands and do cartwheels. Now back to childhood for a little pattycake and jingle accompanied by nosetweaking and hair-pulling. Leap high in the air and assume a silly pose on the floor for a count of ten. When you wake up, cut proper figures to the bars on your cell. At least you won't trip.

DR. ANDREWS ADDRESSES MONTHLY NU-MED MEET

Lincoln Surgeon Discusses Thyroidic Ailments With Group.

Dr. Clayton Andrews, Lincoln physician and surgeon, spoke on "Abnormalities of the Thyroidic Gland" last night when the Nu-Meds met at the Grand hotel for their monthly meeting and banquet. Dr. Andrews is a gland specialist and has spent several months in the Switzerland gland clinic. His meeting with the Nu-Meds was arranged by Clayton Andrews, chairman of the evening's program.

Dr. Otis Wade, advisor of the organization, gave a short talk and James Lauridsen, president of Nu-Meds, presided over the meeting and banquet.

Tigers Honor Pa Schulte At Track Meet Saturday

Committee of Athletes Who Served Under Indian Mentor to Preside.

Coach Henry Schulte.

Henry F. "Pa" Schulte, track and football coach at Missouri for over six years, will be feted by former Tiger athletes in a short ceremony preceding the finals of the Big Six indoor track meet at Columbia Saturday night. Schulte was at Missouri from 1913 to 1919, when he came to Nebraska to coach football and track.

Athletes who competed under Schulte at Missouri, some of whom he has not seen since he came to Nebraska, will make up the committee honoring him. After the ceremony, Schulte will send his 1938 Cornhusker track team into action in defense of the Big Six indoor title, which they won last year.

Since coming to Nebraska, Schulte has had a brilliant record. His track teams are always the "team to beat." Under his regime, the track team has been as successful in conference competition as has the famed Husker football machine. Last year Nebraska an-

'NICE TRIP' SAYS WHITE Debaters Return From Four Day Speaking Tour.

"A very nice time, three large audiences, and two radio debates," was Prof. H. A. White's comment concerning the four day debate trip thru Kansas and Oklahoma.

Last night Hastings vied with Nebraska in a debate on compulsory arbitration. Arthur Hill and Otto Woerner were the Nebraska speakers upholding the negative of the question.

Tuesday, March 15, Nebraska will clash with the University of Kansas before the Lincoln Rotary club on compulsory arbitration. Arthur Hill and Russell Soucek, affirmative speakers, will meet Creighton university at Council Bluffs, March 10.
