

DIAMONDMEN SPLIT AS YANNIGANS WIN

Kovanda Shines for His Nine as They Drub Regulars 13-9.

Bats flicked and baseballs flew as the moundsmen, divided arbitrarily into two squads, the Yannigans and the Regulars, swung into action for the first time under the coaching of Wilbur Knight, with the Yannigans pushing across 13 runs to their opponents 9.

Both teams scored heavily during the opening stanzas of the game, the Yannigans crossing the platter six times during the initial inning, while the regulars duplicated their feat in the second. Bill Kovanda, third baseman for the Yannigans, was especially conspicuous as he presented his squad with three runs, making four errors, sharing the honors of a stolen base with Mecham and Borman, and with Andrews for being hit by the pitcher.

Del Harris had trouble nicking the corners as he allowed nice earned runs, while Harris Andrews of the Yannigans permitted one, yet tied with Andrews in striking out three and walking two.

HUSKER OFFENSIVE SPARKLES IN STIFF SATURDAY WORKOUT

Porter, Phelps, Francis, Plock Score in Bright Scrimmage.

After shaking themselves out of their lethargy and a slow start, the Cornhuskers cut loose in scrimmage yesterday afternoon and produced four touchdowns, showing that they could click like a well oiled machine on offense, the weak spot of these spring drills.

Working in this hand and glove manner produced no stars, but good all around play, with each of the four touchdowns scored by a different goal line crosser—the first by George Porter, sub quarterback, then Thurston Phelps, regular first string signal barker, the third by Vike Francis, sophomore hopeful, and the last by Marv "rabbit" Plock, who astonished all concerned with his smashing through the line for good gains on several consecutive plays culminating in the pay off.

In this scrimmage, the culmination of three weeks practice and marking the end of the first half of spring drill, the varsity regulars were for the first time placed on defense, but had little difficulty in thwarting all attempts of the second and third string outfits.

A flip through the ozone, which was incomplete, denoted the first first play of the regulars. The varsity players taking the offense from the start consisted of Lloyd Grimm and Royal Kahler, ends; Sam Schwartzkopf and Bob Mills, tackles; Adna Dobson and Bill Pfeiff, guards; Charlie Brock, center; Thurston Phelps, quarterback; Jack Dodd and Marvin Plock, halfbacks; and Bill Callihan, fullback.

Those taking the defense were Jack Ashburn and Ray Prochaska, ends; Herb Knickrehm and Forrest Behm, tackles; Bill Herman and Warren Alfson, guards; Fred Meier, center; Roy Petsch, Bud Cather, Vike Francis, and Eldon Nuernberger, backs.

Later a second outfit carrying the ball were Kenneth Shindo and George Seeman, ends; Paul Getowski and Vernon Neprud, tackles; Arlo Klum and Leonard Muskin, guards; Bob Burress, center; George Porter, Harry Hopp, Theo Thompson, and Bill Anderson, backs, while those staving off the attack were Fred Preston and Dick Hitchcock, ends; Royline Boschult and Bob Kahler, tackles; Leo Hann and Bill Iverson, guards, and Henry Overstake, Eldon Nuernberger, Kenneth Simmons, and Jack Fauble, backs.

The first pass completed in the game was from George Porter to Kenneth Shindo, which set up the pins for the first score. The primary drive down the field had been thwarted, after Herman Rohrig's 20 yard sprint, by Roy Petsch's fumble and eight yard loss, culminating in Prochaska's slicing through the forward wall and nailing Dodd behind the line on the fourth down.

A beautiful 30 yard heave from Phelps to Dodd put the fire into the boys who unrelentingly pushed past one ten yard marker after another down to pay dirt. Both other touchdowns were also gained by straight football with power smashes. The oddest play of the game was a flip from George Porter to George Seeman, left end, who after evading three tacklers, lateraled the pigskin back to Porter who had come sprinting up in the meantime. Towards the end of the scrimmage Roy Lyman, line coach, quite excited with the performance displayed, sang out, "Look at that block. Hot Dog!"

HUSKER MATMEN LOSE IN FINAL DUAL MEET

Webster Scores Lone Win As Huskers Lose to Cornell, 21 1-2 to 4 1-2.

Captain Freddie Webster was the only Husker able to win a match in last night's meet with Cornell which rang down the curtain on the 1938 dual season. Webster, 118, was a referee's decision over Bob Crumbaugh. This meet also ended Webster's college career, as he will graduate in June. Only one other Husker, DeLos Johnson, will finish this year.

The best match on the program was in the 126 pound class, in which Jim Knight, high point man on the Husker squad for the last two years and second in the conference at 135, met Bob Murray, Olympic district champion. After going two full overtime periods, this match was ruled a draw. Another good match came in the 135 pound class, in which Dale Brand, alternate on the 1936 Olympic team, defeated Bill Luke.

After the first two matches, Nebraska failed to score, and the meet went to Cornell, 21 1/2 to 4 1/2 points. The only fall of the night came in the 165 pound class, in which Jim Taylor, of Cornell, threw Bill Horn in 3:40 with a bar arm, half nelson. The summary:

- 118 pounds: Fred Webster (N) defeated Bob Crumbaugh.
126 pounds: Jim Knight (N) and Bob Murray (C) drew in two overtime periods.
135 pounds: Dale Brand (C) defeated Bill Luke.
145 pounds: Miles Knight (C) defeated Lee Clark.
155 pounds: Bumper Cole (C) defeated Ray Tombs.
165 pounds: Jim Taylor (C) threw Bill Horn in 3:40 with a bar arm, half nelson.
175 pounds: Nile Watson (C) defeated Paul Fidler.
Heavyweight: Ed Mickey (C) defeated DeLos Johnson.
The referee was Alie Morrison, coach at Omaha Central.
