Inside of Inquart's.

"Well, if you really want to know, he's in Vienna, living in the cellar of Seyss-Inquart's house. It's awful the ignorance in which he lives. He sent me a letter partial post ... "Parcel post?"

"No, partial post, in instalments, or parts. In it he says that Hitler is really a great man and that all the Germans and the majority of the Austrians think he is the militant messiah of the Teutons. All the papers he gets to read say so and every time he hears the radio, its Hitler will do this and Hitler will do that, Hitler is omnipotent. He had a little trouble with his eyes a while back and instead of seeing spots in front of them, all he saw was swastikas."

'Adolf is quite an organizer, you'll have to admit that. Why, I bet if he had a chance at higher education in this citadel of learning, he would be top man in activities. President of the Kosmet Klub, probably with a goose stepping pony chorus, undoubtedly cadet colonel of the R. O. T. C. and probably treasurer or president of a half a dozen other clubs."

"Pooey! I hates his guts, Even If he brushed his teeth twice a day and used all the Lifebuoy on the market I still wouldn't like him. It's a cryin' shame the amount of wool he's pulling over his countrymen's eyes. The tricky so and so. He suppreses all anti-nazi newspapers in Germany and Ag Contestants to Determine Austria and then in case anybody should happen to read the truth in a French or English paper he says in a radio speech to the nation that he knows he will get no second most powerful in Germany company plant.
