HOUSE-WARMING

"There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight," we confided to the blank wall beside us.

"Yes, and tomorrow night, and the night after that," rejoiced the voice of the friendly cockroach as he appeared out of nowhere.

"Things are happening around here so simultaneously that university life seems to be just one big kaleidoscope. Say, whom were you talking to just now?"

"Why, the blank walls. Don't you remember that the walls themselves have ears?"

Plastered.

"Yes, but they're plastered and can't hear straight, anyway. However, I guess it doesn't matter much to whom you were talking."

"No, it doesn't. That's really a hot tip about the hot time in the old town this p. m., though."

"What's so hot about it?"

"There's going to be a HOUSE-WARMING in the Student Union building this evening."

"Rather uncomfortable I should think, on a warm spring night."

"Not a bit, it's air-conditioned. This house-warming affair won't be the least bit uncomfortable, even with the house swarming with students and interested Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public."

"Hm," said the cockroach, pursing his labials. "That ought to be a great opportunity for the firsters."

"The whichsters?"

Firsters.

"The firsters. You know, those people that like to be first at things. Somebody will take pride in being the first to get a cherry coke from the soda grill, somebody will take pride in being the first to have a chocolate malted milk. Some two bodies will take pride in being the first to sway on the dance floor."

"I can tell you one thing nobody will be first at tonight in the Student Union, my friend," we asserted.

"Cigarette-smoking. The dance floor must be kept free of cigarette burns and the Van Santian edict is—no skagaroos Wednesday night. Smoking is not permissible until the special ash trays have been put in their places."

"You mentioned dancing, didn't you?" purred the roach. "Is everybody going to dance to the strains of the public address system the engineers have rigged up outside of pharmacy hall?"

"That's two blocks from the Student Union," we pointed out.

"Yes, but this public address system is really public. Or haven't you noticed?"

"So I've heard. But there will be a dance band for the rhythm-itchy in the ballroom. But that is not all. The beautiful lounge will attract many and the other handsomely decorated rooms and the beamed soda grill will invite dalliance and inspection."

"Say this Student Union is a grand idea. Why don't other universities take it up?" wondered the cockroach, twitching his antennae.

"They have. It has been needed here at Nebraska for some time and now that it is here it should be met with co-operation. Especially this house warming. A building only has one house warming, and a house warming is as important to a building as wedding ceremony to a woman, not counting movie stars, of course. And besides, it ought to be warmly plenty good and whole heartedly because it's going to be used a good deal this week."

ART DEPARTMENT HOLDS OPEN HOUSE THURSDAY EVENING

Delta Phi Delta Sponsors 'Colorful' Carnival in Morrill Hall.

A unique and colorful art carnival sponsored by Delta Phi Delta, will be held in Morrill Hall, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The fine art exhibition will include not only the work of the students, but will feature student painting and sculpturing to show the various phases in art work.

On the second floor all pictures "visible to the eye" will be sold to the public. These pictures are the work of students. The whole affair will be carried off in carnival style in a spirit of fun as well as instruction.

First Art Carnival. Dancing, ice cream and interesting displays will all be a part of the art exhibit. A small amount will be charged for dancing, but otherwise the program is free and open to the public.

This is the first year the fine arts department has had a carnival of this nature. The auction does not take the place of the annual art display held by the department.

SIGMA DELTA CHI MEETS TODAY TO HEAR L. HALL

Journalism Group at Noon New Officers at Noon Luncheon Meet.

Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, meets today. For a noon luncheon at the Capital Hotel, Larry Hall of the Lincoln Associated Press office will be guest speaker.

Election of officers for the coming year will follow the luncheon and further plans for the annual gridiron dinner will be mapped. The dinner is scheduled to take place May 13 in the new Union building.

Graduate Club Slates Picnic at W.A.A. Cabin

The Graduate club of the university will hold a picnic at the W. A. A. cabin nine miles east of Lincoln May 9, and the Lincoln Physical Education society is also scheduled to have a picnic there in the near future.

Teams With 60 Percent Win Record to Enter Semi-Finals Tuesday.

Sigma Alpha Mu and Alpha Tau Omega won the fifth round of the Interfraternity debate tournament last evening at the chapter houses of Sigma Alpha Mu and Delta Theta Pi. The debate scheduled between Zeta Beta Tau and Beta Theta Pi was postponed until Friday.

Each of these speakers spoke for six minutes on the constructive speech and four minutes on rebuttal. The subject was the enlargement of the United States navy.

All those teams which have won three out of five debates will enter the semi-finals which will be held Tuesday.

Professor Suggests People Watch Developments of New Faction.

Wisconsin's Governor Phillip La Follette, who established a new third party of progressives last Thursday, presented a nation-wide speech the following night in which his political attitude seemed to be colored with a "fascist tinge," according to Professor Shumate, of Nebraska university's political science department.

"Judgment of a new party must be reserved until later developments show its true course," added Professor Shumate, "but there is a suggestion of fascism in Governor La Follette's rudimentary party program."

Launching his new party—the national progressives of America—last Thursday, Governor La Follette plans a state-by-state organization campaign which will mould his new party into a party of power—one destined to provide a more abundant living for the masses. Chances for this new party's success, Professor Shumate suggested, lie in an increasing economic discontent among the masses, and in La Follette's ability to gain quick strength in the Mid-

West and Industrial East.

A "fascist flavor" is most noticeable in these parts of the new party's resolutions.

First, Governor La Follette advocates greater political activation; he demands that the execu-

Campus Tension Increases as Ivy Day Approaches

College Days Festivities Begin at 9 Tomorrow With Greek Sing.

Ivy day and its traditions, which arrive with the dawning of tomorrow, hold the campus at a high pitch of tension and excitement today while three questions keep students widely guessing who will be the May queen, who will be next year's Mortar Board and Imperators, and who will win the interfraternity and inter-sorority sing contests?

Opening the festivities of College days promptly at 9 o'clock will be the interfraternity sing, sponsored by the Kosmet Klub. Twelve groups will compete for the silver cup which was won by Beta Theta Pi last year. Immediately following the contest, the Ivy Day oration will be delivered by Harold Gurske, senior in law college.

At 10:45 the Ivy and Daisy chains will form and 15 minutes later the spectators will get their first glimpse of the royal party of the May queen, led by the masked and black-robed members of Mortar Board. Attending the coed who will reign over the Ivy Day court will be pages and attendants for the different classes, flower girls, the maid of honor, and the crown bearer.

According to the custom, the presidents of the junior and senior classes, Elmer Dohrmann and Stanley Brewster, will plant the ivy before the queen and her party lead the recession.

An innovation in this year's program will be the presentation of the $150 Mortar Board graduate scholarship, presented by Maxine Durand, president of the honorary.

Presiding over activities and broadcasting an account of the morning's activities will be Bob Wadhams, president of Innocents.

Opening the afternoon program will be the annual inter-sorority sing contest, sponsored by the A. W. S. board at 1:15 which was won last year by Kappa Alpha Theta. Masking of Mortar Boards will take place at 2:30 to be followed by the tapping of the new Innocents at 3:30.

Following the formal announcement of the new members of the two honoraries, the center of activities will change from the green (Continued on Page 5.)

Eight-Year-Old Dream Becomes Reality at 7:30

$400,000 Structure Testifies to Efforts of Alumni Leaders, Students.

The eight year old dream of a building on the Nebraska campus dedicated to the spirit of unity and friendship becomes a reality at 7:30 this evening when the Student Union building doors are flung open to a student body that has been influential in its inception.

Designed and purposed for every benefit that "Union" implies, the $400,000 structure will disclose its beauty that has been secret, yet anticipated, for the past two months. Campus leaders of the past, Nebraska democrats, and the alumni leaders will rejoice in a spirit of completion for the issue with which they struggled since 1930.

A Great Sacrifice.

The beautiful ballroom, spacious office rooms, and luxurious dining rooms of the Union will be unable to disclose the sleepless nights dedicated to their origin, the loss of friendliness in the cause of their location, and the loss of life in view of their completion.

The informality that will be characteristic of the atmosphere of the building at all times will be prominent tonight. Ken Nelson's 12 piece orchestra will furnish music for the free dancing in the gala "open house."

"No Smoking."

"We are asking but one thing, in tonight's opening—that students refrain from smoking in the new ballroom," Kenneth Van Sant, director, stated. "At present sand vases have not been placed in the (Continued on Page 5.)"

La Follette's Third Party Has Fascist Tinge, Shumate

Professor Suggests People Watch Developments of New Faction.

By Carol Browning. Wisconsin's Governor Phillip La Follette, who established a new third party of progressives last Thursday, presented a nation-wide speech the following night in which his political attitude seemed to be colored with a "fascist tinge," according to Professor Shumate, of Nebraska university's political science department.

"Judgment of a new party must be reserved until later developments show its true course," added Professor Shumate, "but there is a suggestion of fascism in Governor La Follette's rudimentary party program."

Launching his new party—the national progressives of America—last Thursday, Governor La Follette plans a state-by-state organization campaign which will mould his new party into a party of power—one destined to provide a more abundant living for the masses. Chances for this new party's success, Professor Shumate suggested, lie in an increasing economic discontent among the masses, and in La Follette's ability to gain quick strength in the Midwest and industrial East.

A "fascist flavor" is most noticeable in these parts of the new party's resolutions.

First, Governor La Follette advocates greater political activation; he demands that the executive power be increased so that something can be done. He asks for power but he does not say what he will do with this power.

Second, he points out that his party is not a new third party but the only party. He recognizes his party and his alone.

Third, he emphasizes nationalism or Americanism by declaring that our hemisphere is sacred and must remain inviolate. Self-sufficiency, of course, has been one of the underlying bases of fascism in Germany and Italy.

Suggestive Symbol.

Fourth, the symbol carried by La Follette's new party—a circle of red with a blue cross on a field of white—suggests the symbolism of European fascists.

Fifth, he emphasizes full production, not limited production of goods, in the United States. Fascist governments attempt to build up enormous military and economic defenses. The step toward greater abundance, of course, does not necessarily mean a step toward fascism.

FARMER'S FAIR PLANS PROMISE GALA SATURDAY

Program Includes Dancing, Riding, Roping, Boxing, Midway, Exhibits.

Elaborate preparations are nearly completed for the 20th annual Farmer's Fair scheduled for Saturday, May 7, on the agricultural college campus. Prospects are for a much larger, more entertaining, and more detailed fair than in previous years. The purpose of the annual fair, as presented each spring by the students of the agricultural college, is to demonstrate the various works and activities of the students registered in that college.

The complete program for the day is reminiscent of an "equestrian circus" and offers as features thorough the day draft horse potato race, a variety football players calf roping and steer rassing contest featuring such personalities as Charlie Brock, Thurston Phelps, Marvin Plock and Vike Francis in the roles of cow-pokes, an inter-sorority riding contest, a donkey polo game, "Chuck" Christian performing on two trained ponies, "Blue" owned by the Shreve Riding Academy, and "Nancy" owned by Lowell Boomer and winner of the Kansas City Royal, and a greased pig scramble; all promise to be very amusing and entertaining to the spectators.

Exhibits Open at 9. Exhibits are open for public inspection at 9 o'clock, but the parade at 10 will officially open the day's activities. It will form on the city campus, pursue a course down G. st., and conclude its movement at 12 noon on the ag campus. Led by the university band, the parade will consist of nine representative floats of the several departments of agriculture, the officials of the agriculture college, the Farmer's Fair boards, the complete equestrian show, the novelty performers, various speci-

REGISTRATION FOR NEXT SEMESTER BEGINS MAY 9

Students Urged to Confer With Advisors Soon to Avoid Rush.

Registration for next semester will begin next week, May 9th to 13th. Students should see their advisors and arrange for their schedules for the fall semester. Registering of the present students will be completed this spring but fees will not be paid until mid-summer.

New entrants to the university will register after Freshman day next fall, after they have been assigned their advisors for their college career.

KAMPUS KALENDAR PRESENTS PREVIEW OF IVY FESTIVITIES

Jane Walcott, Mary Kline Give Skits Over KFOR Typifying Event.

As advance information on Ivy day Jane Walcott gave a series of "candid air shots" for the informal of "Bobby," played by Mary Kline, on the Kampus Kalendar program last night.

A close-up shot of the interfraternity sing gave listeners an opportunity to hear how the Beta's and D. U.'s winners of first and second respectively last Ivy day, sound this year. The inter-sorority sing was presented by Theta and Alpha Phi, last year's winner and runner-up.

Bobby was inducted into the realms of the Ivy and Daisy chains, where Jane explained to him the planting of the ivy and the election and presentation of the May queen. Another feature of the program was an advance idea of the speech to be given by the Ivy day orator, Harold Gurske.

Maxine Durand, Mortar Board president, explained to "Bobby" the new system of electing on the basis of quality and not on the quantity of activities. A mysterious voice provided some information about the election and tapping of Innocents. Finally, Bobby was led to the A. W. S. tea dance at the Student Union building.

NEBRASKAN'S UNION ISSUE LARGEST EVER PUBLISHED

Staff of Daily Acknowledges Individual Work on Special Edition.

Today's issue of the Daily Nebraskan, commemorating the opening of Nebraska's new Student Union, is the largest single issue ever published by the paper.

In charge of news coverage and general management of the issue, was Morris Lipp, managing editor, with the regular news editorial staff responsible for the writing of headlines and copyediting. Night editors Merrill Englund and Fred Harms were assisted on the night work at the Lincoln Journal by Norman Harris and Gene Garrett, reporters.

The Daily Nebraskan also wishes to express its gratitude to the Lincoln Journal and the Lincoln Star for allowing the Nebraskan the use of its cut file in order to make the edition complete with full coverage in pictures of the new Student Union, and those responsible for its construction and management.
