

BY THE HAUNTRESS

Ginny Shuler studying for three hours Wednesday night at a booth in the Student Union grill . . . Marvin Flock heaving paper wads at people across the aisle . . . Whitey Reed sitting a long tall milk shake . . . Jane Bell and Adna Dobson chatting over cokes . . . Johnny Weingarten and Frances Vaughn trudging home after the tea dance . . . Helen Catherine Davis taking up her official duties as secretary of the Student Council . . . Sally Sellers really hitting the books . . . Bob Waugh waiting impatiently on a street corner downtown . . . Suzy Bradford offering that tall, dark and handsome policeman some pop corn . . . Ginny Anderson doing her daily dozens with a lawn mower on the Theta front yard . . . Jim Stuart escorting the o and o to an intramural baseball game and waiting while she bats the others out . . . and now it's only three more days until exams.

Flora Albin and Billy Gray finally treated the Deltas and Tri Deltas traditionally Monday night. While they were being affectionately congratulated, some of the pledges from each house decorated their car with just married signs and colored crepe paper. The happy couple went for a ride in their bedecked auto and stopped at a filling station. The attendant, who was a shy, lanky young fellow, bashfully admitted that he too had just been married so he and Billy exchanged cigars and best wishes. For a candy passing, we'd say that was a bit out of the ordinary.

At last our little colonel is completely stumped. Poor Jane Walcott. She can't think what to say when Wil Burney calls her from Austin, Tex., tomorrow. Ever since Willard Burney left school about five months ago he and Jane have been corresponding, and in his last letter he told her to be sure to stay home Friday afternoon so he could call her long distance. For three days Jamie has been haunting the Rag office trying to get people to help her think of something real significant and dramatic to say in the three minutes.

SOCIETY

This weekend will bring forth entertainment for the people, for Friday night the Sigma Nu's are having their spring party at the Lincoln hotel. Then on Saturday evening comes the D. U. spring party at East Hills Country club. Also on Saturday the Phi Gam's are having their stag picnic, and there will be a few others without sponsorship. The Kappa Sig picnic at Linoma Beach will bring about some excitement.

Sunday, the Phi Delt's are having sister and daughter day. Maybe there'll be a few surprises in store. Also the Alpha Sig's plan a picnic at South Bend Lake park resort. In case of rain they will have a buffet supper at the house.

Chick Reilly of recent hopscotch and Kosmet Klub show fame, decided to sing "Right Out of the Corner of My Eye" to Theresa Stava, Gamma Phi, alone. She now wears his diamond studded Beta pin which she acquired Wednesday evening.

Don Boehm to Present Senior Speech Recital This Evening in Temple

"You Can't Take It Away," written by Moss Hart and George D. Coffman is the reading which Don Boehm will present at the senior speech recital this evening at 7:30 in the Temple.

Seventeen characters are portrayed in this reading, which is a farce on family life. No admission will be charged.
