

Summer students awakening these days to thunder storms and torrential rains and conquering their desire to roll over and forget their seven o'clock classes... Bill Wahl faithfully setting his alarm clock for six bells every a. m. . . Zipper Zeis arriving at the Student U for breakfast in trench coat and slouch hat... a variety of our-tof-town licenses making their appearance on the campus... June Stebbins and Rita Algers having parking difficulties with Harry Prouty's blue Buick... Bob Pillsbury keeping his eye on some gal for a fraternity brother who is far, far away... Grant Thomas armed with a paint brush and turned loose in the Sigma Chi house... Jan Daugherty donning a shell pink angora sweater for cool June days... Al Lefferdink, who would rather play tennis than dance taking his dates out for a rousing game of night tennis... and really lots and lots of things to do to enliven long summer days.

The most exciting for a long time promises to be Ted Flo-Rito whose appearance Saturday night initiates the new air-conditioning system, which are just two good reasons why practically everybody will be out there that night. So see you there.

People who live at the Delt house tell me that casanova Sam Francis is running his telephone bill way up, and all because sometime or other he chanced to meet a Kansas City gal for which the written word evidently is inadequate. Also, people tell me, it's the real thing this time.

At least Howard Koeneke has method in his madness. His roommates at the Beta house say that every night before retiring Howard makes out a list of the things he wants to remember the next day. Lest he forget, the first piece of advice on the list is "Get Up," which I'm inclined to think might be more effective if worded a bit more tactfully.

In case you haven't mapped out your itinerary for the week end don't miss the splash party this afternoon, the mixer tomorrow night and if you don't get too thoroughly splashed and mixed, Flo-Rito at the Turnpike Saturday.

TRAFFIC SURVEY

had been parked between two and three hours. One had been parked over seven hours in the same spot. The average number of violations to the block was 22.5.

A curious fact is that the number of out-of-town cars in the violators class was negligible. A common cause of violation (parking over an hour and a quarter) was given as lack of understanding as to the purpose of the law. The man who merely moves his car to another hour stall is violating the spirit of the law.

The survey produced evidence to show that store employes are using various means of violating the spirit of the law. There is, however, little evidence of negligence on the part of the patrolmen who check parking. The survey recommends parking meters to regulate the condition.
